PASSIONS AROUSED BY NANCY AFFAIR

German Anger Is Increased by Another Insult, at Grenoble.

WHOLE FRONTIER EXCITED

One Report of Nancy Incident Is That German Women Were Insulted and Men Attacked with Sticks.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

BERLIN, April 16.—The "Nancy incident" continues to occupy many columns in the newspapers.

Foreign Secretary von Jagow made another statement in the Reichstag to-day. It amounted to little more than that the French Government was making an inquiry, but had not yet completed it, that the Germans concerned had made depositions before the proper authorities, and that their sworn statements would be forwarded to Paris. The statement was received with general approval.

It is clear from to-night's reports that feeling along the whole frontier runs very high, and, as Baron von Schön is reported to have said, the Nancy incident dangerously resembles a spark in an already explosive atmosphere.

Asks Germans to Keep Calm.

The Vossische Zeitung to-night appeals to the public to avoid demonstrative excitement.

The Kölnische Zeitung naturally points out that these incidents confirm its statement of some weeks ago that France was the real disturber of the peace, but the Rhenish organ apparently does not perceive that its own untimely observations served in no small measure to excite French feeling across the frontier.

According to to-day's reports from witnesses the German women at Nancy were insulted in an indescribable manner and the men of the German party were belabored with sticks until they consented to make Oriental obeisances to the students and allow dry bread and black sausage to be stuffed down their throats.

Conflicting Reports in Paris.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

PARIS, April 16.—Until the report resulting from the official inquiry into the "Nancy incident" is made public it will be impossible to know exactly what happened. Many conflicting accounts of it are current.

The incident as related in the French press appears only as a regrettable ebullition of feeling on the part of some students, and the view the newspapers take of the affair is that it will soon be satisfactorily arranged. It is pointed out that hundreds of thousands of Germans are constantly visiting France and are never molested or treated discourteously.

The director of the Nancy Casino says the incident there passed unnoticed. The proprietor of the Brasserie Lorraine says the attitude of the Germans there was entirely correct. At a neighboring table a group of six students made jokes at their expense. Presently one of the students went up to the table at which the Germans were sitting and laid on it a sheet of paper on which was written a sentence in German. One of the Germans read the paper and pushed it aside, saying ironically, "What bad German!"

The proprietor, seeing that the Germans were not pleased, requested the students to leave the strangers alone. He made excuses for the students, who, he said, had not meant any offense. One of the Germans replied:

"I know Nancy, and, being myself a student, know how turbulent students are. I shall soon come here for a year's study at one of your Faculties. Still, I cannot help regretting the remarks of which my friends and myself have been the object."

French Account of Station Incident

The incident ended there. What happened at the railway station is less clear. Two of the station officials say that four or five young men surrounded the Germans, singing "You shall not have Alsace-Lorraine." One of the Germans went up to an official and said: "I am insulted. Protect me!" The Germans finally appealed to the assistant stationmaster, who says one of them was bareheaded, his hat being on the platform a few yards away.

Finally the Germans were taken to the Metz train, still followed by the manifestants, who also sprang on the train. The Stationmaster appears to have had some difficulty in clearing out the disturbers. He says one of the latter had his hand raised. The Stationmaster seized him by the arm and made him get out of the carriage.

In view of the pacific statements that are made it is all the more deplorable that another incident is reported from Grenoble, where at a performance in the Casino actors appearing in German uniforms on the stage were greeted with hisses. Three German students at the University of Grenoble promptly quit the hall.

A member of the German party that was molested at Nancy says in describing the affair:

"The ladies as well as the gentle-

KILLS MONSTER OF THE DEEP

Blasting at Panama, Maybe, Drives Sea Serpents to the Surface.

A week ago persons on the Anchor liner Caledonia were sure they had seen a sea serpent fifty feet long forging its way through the ocean at incredible speed. Capt. J. Tutt of the Hamburg-American liner Carl Schurz, which arrived yesterday from Port Limon, gave this account of a collision with a monster of the deep:

"On April 8," said the Captain, "at 12:33 o'clock in the morning, an hour known as 'the graveyard watch' by mariners, a shock was felt at the fore part of the ship. The Carl Schurz had left Santa Marta on the day before, and was steaming at 16 knots an hour along the Colombian coast toward Port Limon.

"After the shock the ship's speed seemed to diminish, although the engines were working well and the sea was smooth. It was bright moonlight. I went to the bow to see what was the matter and found that we had struck a sea monster, which I estimated to be some forty-two feet long and three tons in weight. The collision killed the monster, and it hung on the stem so that we had to go astern to get clear of the body. This sank immediately, leaving the surface of the sea a bright crimson."

The Captain said that the body had broad stripes on the back and head, with patches like textile prints the size of a hand on the sides. It was a species of whale now almost extinct, he thought. The shock aroused the passengers, who came on deck to look at the dead monster.

One of the officers remarked that many strange serpents and large fish had been seen in the waters off the Colombian coast in the last three years of a species that had not been seen there since the days of the buccaneers on the Spanish Main. He thought that the blasting in the Panama Canal had disturbed them in their submarine caverns and driven them to the surface of the sea. It would not surprise him if so-called sea serpents were caught in the locks when the canal was opened the officer said.

THAW CASE INDICTMENT.

Grand Jury Expected to Hand In a Bribery Presentment To-day.

It was learned in the District Attorney's office yesterday that the Grand Jury which recently concluded its investigation into the alleged $25,000 bribe offered to obtain Harry K. Thaw's release from the State Asylum for the Criminal Insane at Matteawan will hand in an indictment to-day charging one man with offering a bribe to obtain Thaw's release.

In its investigations the Grand Jury got evidence to show that a conspiracy was formed by a group of men to obtain Thaw's release and also to defraud him of $100,000. This latter phase of the investigation is still under consideration and indictments are expected, but it is sure that one man will be indicted for attempted bribery.

At the time Gov. Sulzer sent the case to District Attorney Whitman testimony had been given before the Governor's Committee of Inquiry showing that a bribe fund of $25,000 existed. Dr. John W. Russell, the former head of Matteawan, testified that John Nicholson Anhut, a lawyer, had offered him a bribe to say Thaw was sane, and Anhut testified that Dr. Russell demanded the bribe. Dr. Russell waived immunity and appeared before the Grand Jury. Anhut refused to do this unless he got immunity.

EXPEL FELLOW LEGISLATOR.

New Hampshire Member Ousted for Trying to Sell His Vote.

CONCORD, N. H., April 16.—Representative Clifford L. Snow of Manchester was expelled by the House of Representatives to-day on charges of offering to sell his vote. Party lines were eliminated in the balloting, the result of which was 177 to 119. Snow was elected as a Republican, but afterward joined the Progressives, and in the last few weeks had voted with the Democrats. The expulsion was the first in the history of the New Hampshire Legislature.

Snow was found guilty by an investigating committee of having offered to sell his vote and influence to Gordon Woodbury, a Democratic candidate for United States Senator; to Franklin Worcester, Republican candidate for Governor, and to Elmer S. Tilton, Republican candidate for Governor's Counsel.

HARTFORD, April 16.—The Senate adopted a resolution to-day calling for an investigation of charges made by Edward F. Cole of Hartford that attorneys in the General Assembly had received retainers from the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad Company.

KENDALL SEES SULZER.

Stilwell's Accuser Talks to Governor About Further Action in Case.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, April 16.—The advisability of requesting District Attorney Whitman to present to the Grand Jury the charges of attempted extortion made against Senator Stilwell by George H. Kendall was the subject of a conference at the Executive Mansion to-night between Gov. Sulzer and Mr. Kendall. Earlier in the day this subject was discussed at the Capitol by the Governor and Attorney General Carmody.

Gov. Sulzer refused to say anything about the report that he was preparing to submit to the Senate a new set of charges against Senator Stilwell. For several days there have been rumors that there might be another chapter of the Stilwell episode.

It is known that neither the Governor nor the Attorney General believes that the Senate's verdict in favor of Stilwell was in accordance with the evidence.

When questioned to-day regarding the action of the Senate, Mr. Sulzer said:

"The Senate is the sole judge of its own membership. The Senators have judged Senator Stilwell. That is all I care to say now."

The Governor emphasized "now."

Huge Bergs Near Steamer Lanes.

WASHINGTON, April 16.—Two gigantic icebergs 100 miles north of the trans-Atlantic steamship lanes and moving southward, were sighted by the revenue cutter Seneca on April 13, according to a delayed wireless dispatch to the Revenue Cutter Service to-day. One berg was in latitude 44.36 and longitude 49.00. The other was eleven miles west of that position.

MOORE DISMISSED AS WEATHER CHIEF

President Summarily Ousts the Bureau Head Who Sought a Cabinet Place.

SERIOUS CHARGES ARE MADE

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 16. Prof Willis L. Moore, who has been Chief of the United States Weather Bureau since 1895, was dismissed from that office to-day by President Wilson. Serious charges against Prof. Moore's conduct of the Weather Bureau have been referred to the Departmentof Justice with a view to proceedings in the Federal courts.

The nature of the charges against Prof. Moore has not been disclosed. The only direct statement bearing on them came from David T. Houston, the Secretary of Agriculture, who said, after a long conference with President Wilson, that the reason for the President's action was "misuse of power over employes of the Weather Bureau."

The President also directed that Charles T. Burns, a subordinate official of the Weather Bureau, be suspended pending inquiry into his alleged connection with the causes that led to the removal of his chief. The Secretary of Agriculture was directed by the President to apply disciplinary methods to other Weather Bureau employes if it was shown that they had used their official authority for "private and personal ends."

Secretary Houston said in his statement:

"Immediately after the resignation of Prof. Moore of the Weather Bureau was submitted to the President and accepted by him, charges were filed with the Secretary of Agriculture by responsible men within the service. These charges were of such a grave nature that the Secretary of Agriculture called upon the department for an investigation.

Activity Offended Wilson.

"The investigation is still under way, but the facts secured and laid before the President yesterday, were sufficient to decide him in withdrawing his acceptance of Prof. Moore's resignation and remove him summarily from the service, which has been done to-day. The President also has directed the Secretary of Agriculture to suspend Charles T. Burns, an employe of the Weather Bureau, pending a further investigation of his case, and to take such disciplinary measures as he may deem necessary with such other employes of the Weather Bureau as may be found to have been unduly active in using the public service for private and personal ends."

The removal of Prof. Moore was precipitated by the action of Representative H. Robert H. Fowler of Illinois, Democrat, in presenting a resolution in the House of Representatives Monday, calling on the Secretary of Agriculture to furnish information to the House concerning the Weather Bureau. The statements on which Representative Fowler based his resolution were submitted to him in the form of many documents by James Berry, formerly chief of division in the bureau, who has been after Prof. Moore's scalp for years. These documents were laid before the Secretary of Agriculture, who brought them to the attention of President Wilson. Mr. Wilson and Secretary Houston regarded the evidence presented as sufficient to justify the summary dismissal of Chief Moore and the suspension of Mr. Burns.

Prof. Moore's removal is directly traceable to the activity of his campaign for the office of Secretary of Agriculture in President Wilson's Cabinet. It is alleged that employes of the Weather Bureau obtained most of the indorsements which Prof. Moore obtained in his fight for the Cabinet post.

It was explained to-day by a close official associate of the President that Mr. Wilson became suspicionus of Prof. Moore when he learned before the election that Prof. Moore was working actively in his behalf and had about thirty employes of the Weather Bureau engaged in distributing Democratic campaign literature. This did not please Mr. Wilson. He also was told that Prof. Moore had established a branch weather station at Trenton and that the Government employes attached to it were distributing Democratic literature.

With these things in his mind President Wilson came to Washington for his inauguration very much prejudiced against Prof. Moore as a Government official. On March 22 it was announced at the White House that Prof. Moore had tendered his resignation, and that it had been accepted, to take effect July 31. Since then Secretary Houston has been engaged in a quiet inquiry into Prof. Moore's conduct of the Weather Bureau, and to-day's action was the result.

Attorney General Interested.

The allegations to which the Attorney General is paying particular attention relate to work performed by Weather Bureau employes in behalf of Prof. Moore's candidacy for the Cabinet. The Attorney General will inquire as to the source of the funds from which the expenses of such employes supposed to have been engaged in the Moore propaganda were paid.

Representative Fowler's resolution directs the Secretary of Agriculture to furnish to the House of Representatives a statement showing these things in substance:

The amounts expended for official travelling expenses of the Weather Bureau in November and December 1912, and January and February, 1913, and the amounts expended for similar purposes in the four fiscal years preceding.

The amount expended for salaries in the promotion of Weather Bureau employes in January and February, 1913, and the amount expended for similar purposes in the four fiscal years preceding.

What journeys were performed by Charles T. Burns under official orders for Chief Moore between July 1, 1912, and Feb. 28, 1913.

What circulars and other printed matter, printed at Government expense, were used by Chief Moore in his campaign for Secretary of Agriculture, and what amount was expended for this purpose.

Representative Fowler said to-night that last February when the House was considering the agricultural appropriation bill he discovered that the salary of $6,000 for the Chief of the Weather Bureau carried in the bill was illegal, as the statutory salary was $4,500. On a point of order made by Mr. Fowler the amount was reduced to the lower figure. Shortly thereafter, said Mr. Fowler, he received a call from Prof. Moore, who was accompanied by ex-Senator William E. Mason of Illinois.

Prof. Moore took him to account for knocking the increased salary item out of the bill, Mr. Fowler said, and asked him to withdraw his point of order. This Mr. Fowler declined to do.

"Prof Moore became aggressive," continued Mr. Fowler, "and virtually de-

BRUCKER TO START OVER OCEAN TO-DAY

In Balloon Suchard He Plans to Leave the Canaries This Morning.

LAS PALMAS, Canary Islands, April 16.—Joseph Brucker, formerly of Milwaukee, according to his announced plan, will start on his transatlantic flight to the West Indies in the dirigible balloon Suchard II. to-morrow morning, between 2 and 5 o'clock.

The balloon is ready for the voyage and the weather is favorable. Provisions and water sufficient to last for twenty-five days have been taken on board.

Brucker declares he is convinced that he will make Barbados or Trinidad before April 28.

Kruger, the engineer, and Peter, the mechanician, both Germans, complete the crew.

The Suchard II., in which Brucker has risked his chances to become the Columbus of the air lanes, was built upon a water-cooling theory instead of the ill-fated equilibrator theory which brought disaster upon the Wellman-Vaniman transatlantic flight of 1911. To displace the heavy steel casks, with which the Wellman balloon America was equipped in order to overcome the increase in lifting power on warm days, the Suchard II. has been surrounded by a sprinkling system.

Brucker plans to suck the sea water up and sprinkle it over the balloon in quantities sufficient to keep the gas in the balloon at an even temperature. Should his plan fail, there is danger that the balloon will rise to a height of several thousand feet at noon and then fall into the water at night, should the weather turn unusually cold.

The first trouble encountered by Brucker after his arrival on the Canary Islands was in the form of objections from the Spanish military commander to his establishing a camp on public land. He was forced to move from a military reserve, and then high winds prevented the inflating of the balloon. Aiding the balloonist are Dr. Alt and two machinists from the steamship Columbus, who will complete the crew.

The nearest point in the United States to Las Palmas is 1,550 miles. It is thought that the balloon might reach the coast of Florida or some point in Cuba in about eight days, provided weather conditions were favorable.

READY FOR ISTHMUS FLIGHT.

Special Cable to The New York Times.

PANAMA, April 16.—Robert G. Fowler, a California aviator, who came here several weeks ago with a moving picture camera and an aeroplane and made public announcement of his intention to fly from the Pacific to the Atlantic across the Isthmus, held his final trial flight this afternoon. It was a satisfactory trial, and at its conclusion Fowler said that he would ascend with a moving picture operator at 10 o'clock to-morrow morning to make the ocean-to-ocean flight.

The decision of Fowler to attempt a flight across the Isthmus was made after several aviators had abandoned the plan as impracticable. James H. Hare visited Panama with an aeroplane belonging to Robert G. Collier last year, but could find no suitable places either for starting or landing. The air route, he discovered, lay above treacherous cliffs and wooded hills, where no successful landing could be made in case of accident. He said that any effort to cross the Isthmus in an aeroplane would be suicidal. Fowler attempted to fly across the continent from San Francisco in 1911, but his aeroplane was wrecked in the Sierra Nevada Mountains when he struck some tall trees in attempting to make a landing. In a later attempt made from San Bernardino he flew 2,100 miles before abandoning his trip.

PICKS UP HER CHILD DEAD.

Mother Didn't Know It Was Her Baby Who Fell from Window.

Leaning out of the window on the fifth floor of the building at 510 West Forty-seventh Street last night to wave farewell to his mother, who had departed from the rooms a moment before to go to a store, four-year-old Joseph O'Keefe lost his balance and fell to the street just as the mother stepped from the door to the stood. Seeing the child lying on the walk and thinking him one of the neighbors' children, Mrs. O'Keefe ran to pick him up. As she lifted the little boy, who was killed by the fall, she recognized him and fainted.

A call was sent to Polyclinic Hospital, but Dr. Schoenberg, who responded, said the child was killed instantly. The surgeon turned his attention to the mother, who was still unconscious. After working over her for some time she was revived, and the father, who was in his rooms, ignorant of what had occurred, was notified, and he carried his son's body up the stairs, while neighbors assisted the grief-stricken mother to her home.

AMBUSHED AT HIS DOOR.

Barber Shot Down by a Man Who Awaits His Return.

As Pedro Martino of 250 East 117th Street and his brother Charles were returning home last night from their barber's shop, a man standing in the basement areaway of 248 East 117th Street pointed a rifle at Pedro and fired three times. Pedro dropped, Charles took to his heels, and the stranger, throwing his gun on the sidewalk, ran off.

When Patrolman Reardon ran up from his post at Second Avenue he found only Pedro lying dying on the sidewalk, but two small boys who, from across the street, had seen him fall, pointed to a saloon as the retreat of his assailant. This place was searched in vain, while Pedro was taken to the hospital.

Neighborhood gossip says that the shooting last evening was the sequel to another affray in the same circle last week, when a man was killed it is said for having insulted Pedro's sister.

BARS CATTLE CARS BELOW RIVERSIDE

Court Grants This to G. T. Willson, with 6 Cents Damages—Can't Enjoin Engine Noise.

Supreme Court Justice Page announced yesterday that he would grant an injunction restraining the New York Central Railroad from storing cattle cars on its side tracks below Riverside Drive. He said he could not grant an injunction against the necessary odors, noises, and cinders emitted by steam locomotives. His announcements were made in the course of a decision in the suit of George T. Willson, father-in-law of William Randolph Hearst, against the railroad. Clarence J. Shearn appeared for Mr. Willson.

Mr. Willson sued as the owner of vacant lots on Riverside Drive at 105th Street. He attacked the right of the railroad to its franchise for the operation of a road on the west side of Riverside Drive Park and also its property right to the roadbed on which it operated. Justice Page took the position that the State alone could maintain an action to abrogate the franchise rights of the railroad company, and pointed out that the Court of Appeals had upheld recently the franchise in question. He also pointed out that only one who claimed an adverse title might attack the railroad's ownership of its roadbed land and indicated his belief that even such a contestant had no case. Mr. Willson did not claim to be the paramount title holder of any of the land on the railroad's right of way.

Justice Page gave Mr. Willson six cents damages in his suit for compensation for injuries inflicted on his property by cinders, smoke, and locomotive noises. He said that since his property was vacant and he had shown no actual damages, he could claim none, especially as he had bought the property with the full knowledge of the railroad's operation. Justice Page cited a number of authorities to show that there could be no recovery by a property owner for the ordinary effects of the operation of a steam railroad, and that these effects could not be restrained.

He said, however, that in the absence of express authorization by the Legislature the railroad company had no right to store cattle cars on side tracks in a residential district, and that consequently he would issue an injunction.

ROB TRAIN IN CHICAGO.

Armed Bandits Invade Golden State Limited, Get $300 and Escape.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, April 16.—Two bandits invaded the Golden State Limited train on the Rock Island Railroad as it was leaving Chicago last night and robbed one passenger of $300, fought off the conductor, leaped from the train, and escaped.

The robbers got aboard the train before it left the La Salle Station at 10 o'clock. As the train drew out of the station they approached a passenger in a sleeping car and one of them asked:

"Can you change a twenty?"

The passenger, a farmer, produced his wallet containing $300. One robber seized the money while the other tumbled the passenger back into a berth and jerked a blanket over his head. The bandits then ran into the next car ahead, a chair car. The farmer followed, shouting he had been robbed.

John Servis, the train conductor, seized the foremost robber, whereupon the second whipped out a revolver and said:

"Let go or I'll shoot."

J. M. Strasser, Superintendent of the Public Service Company of Illinois, and Edward Curry, traction agent of the company, sprang to the aid of the conductor. The robber with the revolver flourished the weapon and yelled.

"Anybody want to die?"

All hands fell back and the robbers jumped from the train.

PROGRESSIVES TO FUSE.

Kings County Organization Now Ready to Unite Against Tammany.

The Kings County Progressives are now ready to join hands with the anti-Tammany organizations in the city at the municipal elections this Fall. At a meeting of the Platform Committee of the county organization yesterday afternoon, at the quarters of the Progressives in Brooklyn, 200 Montague Street, a committee of seven was appointed to confer with similar committees from other counties in the city on fusion. Two weeks ago the Republican organization in Brooklyn appointed a fusion committee of seven.

"I don't think we can go it alone," said Timothy L. Woodruff, County Chairman, yesterday, "and I don't think we have got to go it alone. All we Progressives must do is to blaze the way, put before the people a good municipal platform, and we will get all the co-operation we want from the other political bodies in this city, excluding Tammany Hall."

WOMEN CLEAN UP CORNWALL

Form the Tin Can Committee to Cleanse the Moodna Creek.

Special to The New York Times.

NEWBURG, N. Y., April 16.—Wealthy women residents of the village of Cornwall, who are members of the Improvement Society, having failed to get the Moodna Creek and adjacent properties cleaned up by the Board of Health after repeated appeals, have formed what they term the Tin Can Committee, and started in a campaign of housecleaning. Mrs. Henry C. Lee, who inherited a fortune from the estate of the late Mr. Senff, known as the sugar magnate, is Chairman of the committee. Other members include Mrs. Lawrence Abbott, wife of the son of Dr. Lyman Abbott; Mrs. Mary Sherwood, Miss Marie Taylor, Miss Lulie and Miss Josie Taylor.

Flanked by a squad of boy scouts, they marched yesterday to the Moodna with rakes and hoes and began to clean up the banks of the creek on both sides until rain interrupted their work, which will be continued when the weather permits.

FREE WOOL WINS; WILSON ASSAILED

WOOLEN SCHEDULE INTACT

Opponents of Its Revision Give Up Fight—Cotton Amendments Defeated.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 16.—President Wilson won another distinct victory in the Democratic House caucus late this afternoon when it approved his recommendation for free raw wool by a vote of 190 to 42, rejecting an amendment offered by Representative Martin Dies of Texas proposing to fix the duty at 15 per cent. ad valorem.

Mr. Dies asserted that this was the rate which the Ways and Means Committee would have recommended to the caucus if the President had not urged the substitution of free raw wool. The members from Ohio were active participants in the struggle for 15 per cent. duty, but sentiment in the caucus was overwhelmingly in favor of the placing of wool on the free list.

Chairman Underwood, who closed the debate, advocated free wool, and urged the party to present a united front on the tariff in support of the President and the Ways and Means Committee. He told the caucus that if the Dies amendment was adopted every Republican paper would assert to-morrow morning that the Democratic Party was split wide open upon the tariff and in disagreement with the President.

Mr. Underwood also made a rejoinder to intimations of some members in the caucus that the President had made the bill. He said that, as a matter of fact, the raw wool paragraph was one of only two changes in the bill the President had urged, the other being raw sugar.

"Out of four thousand and more items in the bill," said Mr. Underwood, "the President only made these two suggestions. It seems to me that we should accept those suggestions from the President of the United States."

Representatives Rainey of Illinois and Harrison of New York also spoke on behalf of the committee, defending its action and the attitude of the President.

Representative Alexander of Missouri said that the committee overstepped all proper bounds in holding up President Wilson as a club over the heads of the members, and that the President had exerted undue influence in having wool placed on the free list in the bill.

Representative Montague of Virginia, a new member, defended the President in a spirited speech, asserting that it was his "constitutional and inherent right" to suggest what should go in a tariff bill, and that neither he nor the committee were subject to criticism for their co-operation in framing the bill.

Representative Dies insisted that the Government was made up of three distinctive branches with separate duties to perform. "It is not only the right of Congress," he said, "to originate revenue measures, but its exclusive right, and any attempt from another branch of the Government to dictate or interfere with that right should not be permitted by this body."

The debate was heated and prolonged, and occupied three hours before the vote was taken, the President and the committee being criticised and defended.

Line-up Against Free Wool.

The vote for the 15 per cent. duty was:

Representatives from New York and New Jersey who were among the 190 who voted for free wool were:

New York—Brown, O'Leary, Dale, Maher, Fitzgerald, Griffen, Riordan, Goldfogle, Dooling, Carew, Harrison, Bruckner, Goulden, Oglesby, Taylor, Ten Eyck, Talcott, Clancy, Gittins, Smith, Driscoll.

New Jersey—Baker, Walsh, Bremmer, Kinkead, McCoy, Egan.

The caucus action greatly pleased Chairman Underwood and the House leaders. It convinced them that the caucus would adopt the Underwood bill in its entirety, which means that it will go through the House practically in the form in which it was introduced.

No other rates in the wool schedule were considered to-day, but they will come up to-morrow and be adopted without change. The wool revolters decided, when they saw how great were the odds against them, to abandon their fight in the caucus for other changes in the wool schedule.

The caucus also completed the cotton schedule, which was adopted without change. Representative Donohoe of Pennsylvania, backed by Representatives Logue and Rothermel of that State, made a vigorous fight to prevent reductions in stockings and hosiery, offering amendments based on the question of employment for the workers in the textile and hosiery mills. These amendments were defeated. After lengthy discussion of the paragraph relating to cotton underwear, sweaters and such goods, members of the committee announced that they would consider the wisdom of revising it, but no assurances were given that it would be amended.

Representative Ten Eyck of New York moved to increase the rates on collars, but his amendment was defeated by a vote of 96 to 27. The proposal to increase the rate on hosiery was defeated by a vote of 33 to 49, and afterward an effort to prevent the reduction in the rates on knit hosiery failed by a vote of 17 to 76. Other amendments were rejected by equally decisive votes.

Chairman Underwood had a conference with President Wilson, to whom he explained some details of the bill and informed him of the progress of the caucus.

"Of course there will be many amendments from our Republican friends," he said, "but the bill will pass the House just as it is approved by the caucus and with only a few minor changes. You can't write a tariff bill of 4,000 items without forgetting to cross a 't' and dot an 'i' here and there. Inequalities always creep in, and these have to be adjusted."

SAN JUAN, Porto Rico, April 16.—The Sugar Planters' Association has decided to refuse to accept the American refiners' offer to buy only at a discount of $1.25 per quintal (220 pounds.) They are planning to store their sugar pending a clearer understanding of the tariff situation, and will send a committee to Washington.

PICKS HOME POSTMASTER.

Wilson May Appoint Catterill, Republican, in Princeton.

WASHINGTON, April 16.—President Wilson is choosing the Postmaster for his home town—Princeton, N. J.—and his choice is likely to be a Republican. "Chip" Cotterill, now assistant to the Postmaster, and known to the President since boyhood, is likely to be appointed. A change in the office was recommended in an Inspector's report to the department, made before the close of the Taft Administration. Representative Allan Walsh, who represents the district in Congress, was invited by Postmaster General Burleson to suggest a successor to the incumbent, but he declined, saying that President Wilson was more familiar than he with the capabilities of the various candidates.

THREE-DAY FIRE ON LINER.

Cincinnati's Passengers Didn't Know Crew Was Fighting Bunker Blaze.

The Hamburg-American liner Cincinnati arrived last night at Quarantine from Naples with 158 first, 403 second, and 1,884 steerage passengers, none of whom was aware that the crew had fought a fire in the bunkers for three days and only extinguished it on Tuesday night.

Many of the passengers had noticed that the decks and the air was rather hot for this season of the year, but this was put down to the Gulf stream. The Captain said that fire in the port bunker was discovered on April 12, but that at no time was there any danger of the fire spreading.

Owing to the number of steerage passengers on board the Cincinnati remained at Quarantine all night, and will go to her pier in Hoboken early to-day.

MESA IS INDICTED.

Slayer of Warren Must Answer Murder Charge in Cuban Court.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

HAVANA, April 16.—The Criminal Court has indicted Hannibal Mesa, who killed Rudolph Warren in a duel, and has ordered his arrest without bail.

The court is also proceeding against Eloy Martinez, the President of the Union Club, Mesa's second; Major Sanguily and Miguel Morales, Warren's seconds, and Capt. Ramon Fonts, the duel judge. Speaker Ferrara, Mesa's other second, is exempt from prosecution because he is a Congressman.

SCHROEDER TRIAL IN MAY.

Engineer Pleads "Not Guilty" to a Charge of Manslaughter.

BATH, N. Y., April 16.—William Schroeder of Elmira, engineer of the Delaware, Lackawanna & Western train which telescoped another passenger train at Corning last July, causing the death of many persons, was arraigned in the Supreme Court at Corning this afternoon before Justice Benton, having just been re-indicted on the charge of manslaughter in the second degree. He pleaded not guilty, and bail was furnished in the sum of $2,000. His case will be tried at the May term of County Court in Bath.

The original indictment was dismissed last Fall. Schroeder is re-indicted for causing the death of Mabel Laird, the six-year-old daughter of William Laird, formerly of Brooklyn, now of Buffalo.

HITCH IN POLK NOMINATION.

Wilson Delays Sending His Selection for Port Collector to Senate.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 16.—It was apparent from talk in Administration circles to-day that some hitch has occurred to delay President Wilson's nomination of Frank Lyon Polk to be Collector of Customs for the Port of New York. What the obstacle is was not made known.

Senator O'Gorman is not opposing President Wilson's choice of Mr. Polk. This was stated positively by officials in a position to know the inside of the situation. But while nothing bearing directly on that point was said, it was gathered that President Wilson was understood to be perfectly satisfied that Mr. O'Gorman would be agreeable to the confirmation of Mr. Polk's nomination as Collector before handing the nomination to the Senate.

CLOSE VOTE IN D. A. R.

First Ballot Shows Mrs. Story Leading, with Mrs. Horton Second.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 16.—The Continental Congress of the Daughters of the American Revolution put in the day voting for a new President General. The voting, which began at 10 o'clock this morning, continued until 10 o'clock to-night.

The result of the first ballot was: Mrs. John Miller Horton of Buffalo, 519 votes; Mrs. William Cummings Story, New York City, 556, and Mrs. Charles B. Bryan, Memphis, 103. On the face of the ballots cast 590 votes were necessary to elect. The balloting will be resumed to-morrow.

Among the memorials presented to-day was a bronze tablet from Indiana in memory of Mrs. Benjamin Harrison, the first President General of the society.

The members of the Congress will be received by the President and Mrs. Wilson to-morrow afternoon.

ATLANTIC CITY LID ON AGAIN.

Special to The New York Times.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., April 16.—After the proceedings to-day at Mays Landing in the excise cases, the prospect of Sunday selling in the cafés and hotels of Atlantic City, so long as Judge Clarence L. Cole is on the Common Pleas bench, seems remote. Twenty-five defendants indicted for Easter sales, some of them owners of large hotels and cafés, appeared before the court. The first defendant was Frederick May, who pleaded guilty. Judge Cole asked him:

"What do you propose to do from now on?"

"I intend to keep my place closed on Sundays."

"Very well," said Judge Cole, "sentence suspended."

Only two defendants stood on the plea of not guilty, Max Fisher of the Hotel Schlitz and Victor Freisinger of the Old Vienna Café. It is said that Fisher will plead guilty at the next sitting of the court. Freisinger said he would stand trial and fight through all the courts.

THE POPE'S DEATH SEEMS IMMINENT

LATEST BULLETINS FROM THE POPE'S BEDSIDE.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

ROME, Thursday, April 17, 1:10 A. M.—The Pope at this hour is unusually restless and is tormented by his cough. He is showing an inclination to talk that is very difficult to combat, and his temperature is consequently rising. He is sitting up in bed, and this is alleviating the cough to some extent.

2:30 A. M.—After the last severe spell of coughing the Pope had a period of depression, ending in profound sleep, from which he is apparently deriving great benefit.

4:45 A. M. The Pope is still resting peacefully. The sleep is so little disturbed by coughing that the attendants hesitate to disturb him in order to administer nourishment, especially as the doctors have said that rest is even more important than food.

ROME, Thursday, April 17.—Although last night's bulletin seemed favorable, the condition of Pope Pius is really no better. He is fast losing flesh and is steadily growing weaker, although very gradually.

I spoke last night to a high Vatican official, who, for obvious reasons, does not want his name mentioned. He said:

"Naturally none of us is allowed to see the Holy Father, but the conviction is general in the Apostolic Palace that we are at the beginning of the end. His Holiness has a very high spirit, but is gradually losing his strength."

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

LONDON, Thursday, April 17.—Telegraphing late last night, the Rome correspondent of The Daily News said:

"I am in a position to state that the Pope's condition is desperate. He may not live till to-morrow's dawn.

"Yesterday Prof. Marchiafava called at the Home Office and notified the Government that the Pope's recovery was practically hopeless, and that his death was inevitable. At the same time Mgr. Caccia Domini, one of the Pope's private chamberlains, warned Cardinal Oreglia, the Dean of the Sacred College, who assumes the government of the Church during the vacancy in the Holy See, that the Pope's life was nearing its end.

"Cardinal Oreglia, who has been forty years a Cardinal, is 88 years old and has lived through three Pontificates, has for the past two years been almost bedridden, and has not attended any function at the Vatican. On learning the news today he suddenly appeared rejuvenated, rose from his easy chair, and ordered his coachman to harness the horses and keep his carriage ready in the courtyard, saying he would probably soon go out driving.

"Dr. Amici yesterday confidentially said to a friend, 'The Pope will not see Thursday's dawn,' and this morning Cardinal Merry del Val wired to the Nuncios to notify the foreign Cardinals that a Conclave was imminent.

"The Pope's postman brother, Angelo Sarto, arrived last midnight from Mantua with the greatest secrecy. He drove to the Vatican and has not left the Pope's bedside since. Other sisters and relatives of the Pope beside those residing here were summoned to Rome and arrived unnoticed. They are now at the Vatican, though their presence is not known to the outside world.

Vatican a Fortress of Silence.

"The Vatican has become an impregnable fortress of silence, and while the Pope is dying and the doctors are striving to prolong his life the only particulars of his illness are contained in the daily bulletins, brief, incomplete, and obscure. This morning's bulletin, issued at 8 o'clock, said:

> "The Pope slept several hours. His temperature is 98½. The symptoms of bronchitis are no worse. Expectoration is easy. The condition of the heart continues good.

"Despite this reassuring bulletin, the Premier, who is absent from Rome, is hastening his return, as he knows that a Conclave is imminent.

"Orders have already been given to two regiments of infantry to hold themselves in readiness. They are confined to barracks, waiting to be called out for police duty in St. Peter's Square when the Pope dies.

"Up to this evening the last Sacrament had not been administered, though the Pope himself repeatedly warned the doctors and secretaries, and even Cardinal Merry del Val, that he desired these spiritual comforts. In fact, he almost begged for them.

"Cardinal Merry del Val and the Pope's nephew had a long conference with the doctors to-day, but the latter fully explained that the administration of the Eucharist was impossible, since the Pope's expectoration had diminished, respiration was most difficult, and suffocating paroxysms were very frequent. The Pontiff, they added, did not retain the smallest quantity of the nourishment administered and could not possibly swallow the consecrated wafer. They pointed out that the Pope would inevitably not retain the wafer, and that his emotion at this involuntary sacrilege would undoubtedly hasten his death.

"The doctors hoped to succeed in sufficiently reviving the Pope this morning to render possible the Viaticum, but the Pontiff's condition remained unchanged throughout the day.

"At about 5 o'clock this evening the Pope's sisters were hastily summoned to the Vatican.

"A report is now spreading that the Pope is alarmingly worse and that his death is imminent. The vigilence at the Vatican is extraordinary and the difficulty of obtaining information has increased."

Some Reports More Hopeful.

ROME, Thursday, April 17.—The bulletins issued by the physicians yesterday indicated that the condition of the Pope was practically stationary. The evening bulletin was of a more hopeful tone than that of the morning, as it indicated that the temperature was normal and that there had been no recurrence of the usual night fever. It read:

> His Holiness passed a quiet day without fever. This evening his temperature was 98½. The catarrhal and bronchial affection is in the same condition as this morning.
> AMICI.

The fact, however, that the bronchial affection is not tending to resolution detracts somewhat from the hopeful character of the report, as the occasional paroxysms of coughing are taxing the strength of the patient. The condition of albumanaria has reappeared, and to relieve the kidneys hot baths have been ordered.

Dr. Amici paid a visit to the Vatican at 11 o'clock last night, and, according to his announcement, found only a slight elevation in the temperature, and other conditions satisfactory. He reported to Cardinal Merry del Val, who watches at the Pope's bedside most of the day and during the early hours of the night, and later telephoned his observations to Prof. Marchiafava, who has been connected with the Vatican by special wire in order to avoid the leaking out of confidential conversations.

Further improvement in the Pope's condition was shown by the fact that he was able to retain a quantity of chicken jelly, and that he slept peacefully for a considerable time. Early in the evening he acknowledged that he was feeling the benefit of the absolute rest imposed upon him, and said he felt more inclined to sleep naturally than at any time since his illness began.

The Pope is extremely concerned at the trouble he gives to those around him, often expressing his deep gratitude, especially to those who assist him at night, and repeatedly urging them to go to bed. Sometimes his insistence is so marked that in order to satisfy him they leave the room.

Has Organ Played in Next Room.

All his life the Pope has been a great lover of music. The composer, Mgr. Lorenzo Perosi, owes him much, as the Pope aided him to attain success. The two were great friends when the Pontiff was Patriarch of Venice. Raised to the Pontifical chair, he did not forget the young composer, whom he took to Rome, even allowing him, contrary to the tradition of the Papacy, to sit down to meals with him. With the aid of Perosi he accomplished those reforms in Church music which were among the first manifestations of his Papal activity, and restored the Gregorian chant to its original character and place in the Church.

His love for music seems to have been accentuated by his illness, the Pontiff often asking for favorite hymns and chants, which seem to soothe his restlessness and pain. During the most trying periods of his sickness he lay listening to the tones of a small organ in the adjoining chamber.

Signor Patriarca, the lawyer who represents the Holy See, was summoned to the Vatican yesterday morning. He drew up the last testament of Pope Leo XIII., and the inference was that he had been asked to do the same for Pope Pius. Signor Patriarca was summoned after Prof Marchiafava had had a long conference with Cardinal Merry del Val.

The temperature of the Pope varied frequently during the forenoon. Dr. Amici visited him just before noon, when he found that an almost imperceptible rise had taken place since early morning.

The Pope had an alarming coughing spell in the afternoon, almost causing suffocation. The attack was followed by such exhaustion that those attending the Pontiff feared the worst. Later the Pope had a period of depression, but after a rest he appeared relieved.

An Italian military dirigible balloon flew over St. Peter's and the Vatican yesterday, and as it did so its occupants waved the Italian flag as an act of homage to the Pontiff.

HUSH IN ROMAN SOCIETY.

Pope's Illness Checks Gayety—Pleasant Stories of His Peasant Kin.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

ROME, April 16.—Rome thinks and speaks of nothing but the health of the Pope, but with a tranquillity so truly Roman that it is very puzzling to a stranger. The only sign society has given of its really deep anxiety is its quiet, putting aside of entertaining and its more frequent visits to the churches; but it must be confessed that this quietness is induced to a certain extent by the weather, which is cold and wet.

The outward quiet, however, is contradicted by inward commotion everywhere except at the Vatican. Even if the Pope recovers, a comparison between the situation during the last illness of Leo XIII. and the present condition of Pius X. comes spontaneously, as both revealed the character of the men. When Leo XIII. lay on his deathbed for sixteen days the machinery of the State seemed to stop. Everything was in the utmost confusion inside the Apostolic Palace, so much so was this the case that almost any one could go into the Vatican and almost reach the door of the Pope's apartment. One bold journalist even spent the night there and was not discovered until morning. A high prelate, who lived in the Vatican, Mgr. Volpini, died a few days before the Pontiff, and his remains were so neglected that the candles about his bier guttered out, and this was only discovered when the room was in perfect darkness by one of the servants. In ordinary times his funeral would have been an event for the whole city to attend.

Now that Pius X. is ill the difference is marked. A casual stranger entering the Vatican would not suppose that anything unusual was happening. The number of guards in attendance is greater, to be sure, but they gossip idly at the door, as usual. An occasional carriage drives into the court of San Damaso, where the servants wear their ordinary air of having nothing to do, while the different offices, especially that of Cardinal Merry del Val, are as busy as beehives.

All this does not show that Cardinal Rampolla, who was then Papal Secretary of State, had less grip than his successor, Cardinal Merry del Val, but it emphasizes the difference between the two Pontiffs. Leo XIII. concentrated in himself everything humanly possible, so that when his guiding hand was lifted the inmates of the Vatican were like sheep without a shepherd, while Pius X. has been methodical to a degree so that the machinery of the Apostolic Palace almost runs by itself.

The sisters of the present Pontiff have come into general notice since the illness of their brother began. Now only two live in Rome with their niece, Gilda Parolin. Since their coming to Rome ten years ago the sisters Sarto have not changed in the least in regard to their mode of living or their habits of thought. To them Rome is still a strange, big city, which it is not well for them to explore too much. Their brother is always the wonderful boy who rose so rapidly in the Church, and only occasionally the Pope with whom it is not well to be too familiar. Since they have been here they have received many distinguished people in their modest apartment, perched high over St. Peter's Square. Nearly every great person who goes to the Pope, if he is a devout Catholic and can speak Italian, goes to pay them a visit of respect and leaves with a great admiration for them, just because they never try to be anything but what they are; and thus they receive such a visitor with the simple dignity which is inborn in the better class of Italian peasants.

Not all of the family, however, feel just as these dear old ladies do. There are younger members, who, being less near the Pontiff, do not bear him such personal love and are therefore somewhat discontented at what they choose to consider his neglect of them. Pius X has carried his horror of nepotism even beyond that of his predecessor. The only members of his family who seem to have profited by his rise to the chair of St. Peter are his sisters in Rome, but that profit is only apparent, since they live now in even a more modest manner than they did when they were members of his household in Venice. His sister, Signora Parolin, still keeps a country inn at Riese; his niece-in-law still teaches the village children; his brother is still a country postman in the employ of the King of Italy, and so on.

Angelo Sarto is an even handsomer man that his brother, the Pope. He has a sturdy independence which would be admirable in a younger man, but is rather aggravating in an old one. The King offered him any place in the Post Office which he should chose, but both he and the Pontiff refused even a cent of increase in his stipend. Angelo has steadily declined to leave his work to come to Rome and live with his sisters, as Pius X. would have liked him to do. He is now old and suffers from rheumatism, but with dogged persistency he still goes his rounds, rain or shine; and this troubles his kind-hearted, affectionate brother.

One day during his illness he said suddenly to his sister:

"Anna, I am troubled about Angelo. I have little of my own to leave him, and he is old and not strong."

His sister soothed him by saying that Angelo should never want for anything, but that the subject remained on his mind was shown by his referring to it several times during his delirium.

Angelo has been several times in Rome since his brother has been Pope, and, while he enjoyed his gossips with Pius X., he said privately to his sisters that he would rather be a postman and have a pipe when he wanted it than live in the midst of all those priests and guards. "I like to breathe," he added, and even said as much to the Pope one day, who made no protest, but sighed and said, "God's will be done."

Mgr. Giovanni Battista Parolin is one of the Pope's relations credited with having had the expectation of making rapid progress in the Church; but he should have known his uncle better. He has received the advancement which he would have had if any other man had been Pope, and nothing more. He has not even been brought to Rome to be near his aged relative, except for short visits during his holidays. He is now here, but the death of the Pontiff will make no difference to him from a worldly point of view. Indeed, the relations of a Pontiff are much like those of a President of the United States; once the big man is gone, they return to obscurity.

CARDINALS READY TO GO.

Gibbons and O'Connell Prepare for a Summons to the Consistory.

PITTSBURGH, April 16.—Cardinal Gibbons, who is here to-night, has canceled all future engagements and will leave as soon as possible for a seaport town from where he can embark for Rome at a moment's notice. The Cardinal and ex-Attorney General Charles J. Bonaparte addressed a local convention of Catholic charities here to-night.

BOSTON, April 16.—Cardinal O'Connell has made all arrangements to embark at Boston or New York immediately to attend a consistory in Rome in the event of the Pope's death. The Cardinal is keeping closely in touch with the bulletins on the Pontiff's condition, and is greatly concerned.

ONE AUBURN STRIKE OVER.

Rope Workers Win — Harvester Trust May Accept Mediation.

Special to The New York Times.

AUBURN, N. Y., April 16.—The settlement of the Columbian Rope Company strike came unexpectedly to-night, when the Strike Committee received the news of favorable action by the workers in all the various departments upon the offer made by the company today. Charles A. Miles, Organizer of the American Federation of Labor, said that the conditions of the settlement were the recognition of the union, the establishment of a minimum wage by departments, and the reinstatement of discharged employes. He said that recognition of the union did not mean the establishment of a closed shop, but merely the recognition of the committee of the local organization. He condemned the International Harvester Company for its failure to adopt the methods of adjustment used by the Columbian Rope Company.

W. C. Rogers, the State mediator, has now turned his attention to the International Harvester Company strike. The International has hitherto refused his good offices, but after Gov. Sulzer's efforts to-day it is believed here that the big corporation will agree to treat with the mediators. Supt. McAllister of the International plant admitted that he had received work from Chicago, but that it was only to hold the cars which had been ordered to take away the machinery, and W. M. Gregg, Superintendent of the twine mill, said that the dismantling had continued all day after the receipt of the Chicago order. He said:

"We will go on to-morrow to dismantle the plant and will crate and pack the machinery in the cars. Our orders require that we hold the cars, but the dismantling will continue. That is positive."

GRANT $2 A DAY WAGE SCALE

Concession by Contractors Likely to End State Road Strike.

Special to The New York Times.

MAMARONECK, N. Y., April 16.—While private detectives are still kept on duty here and the supply of riot guns brought in from White Plains is still at Police Headquarters, the strained relations between strikers from the labor camps maintained by highway contractors and the police of this town are adjusting themselves. No rioting is expected, but the local authorities will remain in readiness until after the funeral to-morrow of Raphael Pino, who was killed in Monday's battle.

The strikers obtained permits to parade through the towns between Harrison, where the body is awaiting burial, and New Rochelle, where the interment will take place. They agreed to go unarmed.

A temporary adjustment of the trouble was affected to-day at a conference between the leaders of the strikers and the contractors under the auspices of the State Board of Arbitration. The contractors agreed to offer the wage of $2 a day demanded by the men, but they protested against reducing the working day to eight hours, and this matter was left to arbitration. It is expected that most of the laborers on the State roads in the vicinity of Mamaroneck will go to work on Friday.

The representatives of the State Board of Arbitration will go to Harrison to-morrow to adjust the situation there, and on Friday will go to Yonkers to take up the situation in the Federal Sugar Refining plant.

1,250,000 Quarts of Irish Whisky.

The British freighter Wells City arrived yesterday from Dublin with 1,250,000 quarts of Irish whisky, in addition to hundreds of cases of stout and ginger ale made from the waters of the River Liffey, and weighing altogether 1,270 tons of liquid refreshment.

manded that I withdraw my objection. To this I said: 'Oh, you'll be Secretary of Agriculture some day, and you won't be interested in this matter then.'

"I said also that I hoped the fact that I made this point of order wouldn't cause him to punish me or my people. To this Prof. Moore replied, 'I certainly will.'"

Likened to Wiley's Case.

Prof. Moore issued a statement to-night likening his case to that of Dr. Harvey W. Wiley. The statement in part was as follows:

"The same influences that attempted to disgrace and remove Dr. Harvey W. Wiley without letting him see the charges or confront his accusers are now driving me from the public service.

"As an aspirant for the Secretaryship of Agriculture, I announced that I would, if appointed, revoke the benzoate of soda decision, abolish the Remsen Board, or any other extra-judicial body in the department that I thought had been designed for the purpose of minimizing the effectiveness of the pure food and meat inspection laws rather than in aiding in their efficient enforcement, and that I would restrain the activities of the Solicitor's office to reasonable prerogatives and reorganize the department.

"I brand as infamously false the intimation that any man in the Weather Bureau has been coerced into supporting me for the Secretaryship, any man promoted for serving me, or a dollar of public money expended in my candidacy. I worked for the place and spent my own money, and so did many of my friends. Is this a crime under the new dispensation of things?

"I shall gladly welcome any investigation to which the press is admitted; and why limit the inquiry to the Weather Bureau? It has always had a clean bill of health from every Investigating Committee that has looked into its affairs, which is something which cannot be said of several bureaus in the department to which Secretary Houston's methods have not been applied."

SUNDAY OPENING IS HOTLY OPPOSED

Dr. Iglehart Tells Legislators That the Bill Is a Stick of Political Dynamite.

LIQUOR DEALERS FAVOR IT

Really a Sunday Closing Bill Which Would Be Obeyed by Saloon Keepers, Says Riley.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, April 16.—Arguments for and against the bill which would permit saloons to be opened for the sale of liquor during the hours from 1 P. M. to 11 P. M. on Sundays enlivened a public hearing which was given this afternoon by the Senate Committee on Taxation and Retrenchment. Other bills recommended by the Wagner Committee, which investigated police conditions in New York City after the Rosenthal murder, were considered at a hearing given to-night by the Senate Cities Committee.

The Sunday Opening bill was favored by representatives of civic societies who heretofore have consistently opposed similar plans. On the other hand, clergymen of various denominations protested against the proposed innovation more vigorously than they have in other years. The civic societies favored the bill largely on the ground that to legalize the Sunday traffic in liquor in New York City would minimize corruption in the Police Department.

The other bills introduced as a result of the investigation made by the Wagner committee include one creating a Department of Public Welfare, whose duty it would be to enforce the laws against gambling and the social evil, and a bill conferring upon the Mayor, the Board of Estimate, and the Board of Aldermen powers that would enable them to exercise real home rule in so far as they relate to the supervision of the Police Department in New York City.

Speaking on the Public Welfare bill, Dr. Walter Laidlaw, representing the New York Federation of Churches, said:

"I want to be regarded as not from New York, but from Missouri. This bill contains one provision which places the exclusive responsibility for enforcement of the anti-gambling laws in New York City in the hands of the proposed Public Welfare Board. If that is intended to relieve the Sheriffs of the various counties of all responsibility in regard to the race track gambling evil I can readily see how it was cunningly devised to meet a situation where so many agencies are at work with a view of reviving that vice."

Senator Wagner told Dr. Laidlaw that the sole idea was to relieve the police of authority in gambling matters.

"Well," said Dr. Laidlaw, "then I want to submit that the federation of churches is against this entire bill. I believe that a very large per cent. of the New York police force is honest. I do not believe in heaping on the honest men of the force the odium of adjudging them unfit to deal with these matters which are essentially police duties. Get a Commissioner with a lengthened term and I believe you will cure the evils in the department. We regard this bill as unnecessary and unwise."

Sunday Opening Opposed.

The opposition to the Sunday Opening bill, on which there was a hearing in the afternoon before the Senate Committee on Taxation and Retrenchment, was led by ex-Corporation Counsel Bruce Ellison. Mr. Ellison made a plea for a referendum on the question.

Dr. Laidlaw, who also spoke on this subject, said that the project would be defeated by a large majority if submitted to a vote.

"I know many liquor dealers who would vote against it," said Dr. Laidlaw.

"I appeal to you on behalf of all the good women of this State," said Mrs. L. A. Boole, President of the Women's Christian Temperance Union. "The opening on Sunday of the saloons at Coney Island and other resorts would tend to make recruits for the white slave mart. It will make it harder for women to be good and will destroy the happiness of many homes."

The Rev. Dr. Ferdinand C. Iglehart, representing the Methodist ministers of the City of New York, said the bill was a stick of political dynamite, which would wreck any legislator who voted for it.

Excise Commissioner Farley said he was opposed to the bill.

The Rev. J. A. Patterson, representing the Anti-Saloon League, said that he was opposed to the idea of legalizing an evil.

"Mayor Gaynor," he said, "after three years' violation of his oath of office in failing to enforce the Sunday-closing law, is trying to regain the confidence of the people by closing up cabaret shows and revoking all-night licenses."

"If you pass this bill," said the Rev. O. R. Miller of the Civic League, "there will be another Legislature here in nine months which will repeal it."

Promise of Liquor Dealers.

When Senator McClelland called upon the advocates of the bill to present their arguments, Cornelius J. Riley, President of the State Liquor Dealers' Association, elbowed his way through the crowd in the assembly parlor up to the committee's table. He said that he had been instructed to deny the report that the bill had been introduced on behalf of the liquor dealers.

"We, however, favor this bill with certain amendments that we are going to offer," said Mr. Riley. "As an association we will stand behind this measure if it becomes a law. We will obey its provisions and co-operate with the clergymen who are here, or with any civic organization, or any body of citizens to the end that the law may be enforced. This bill has wrongly been called the Sunday Opening bill. In New York City its effect would be to close the saloons during certain hours on Sunday when, as every one knows, they are doing business under the present system."

Mr. Riley said that 14,000 members throughout the State of the association which he represented were behind the pledge he had made.

The principal amendment suggested by Mr. Riley would eliminate the Board of Estimate as a factor in regulating the Sunday traffic in liquors in New York City and give the authority to the Board of Aldermen instead.

A. D. Newman of Brooklyn, who said that he had been in the liquor business for forty-one years and was the Trustee of a church, at this point arose and said that he had never in all his life heard men in the liquor business called so many names as at the hearing, and that ministers of the Gospel had been the worst offenders against the precept that one should have charity for one's fellowmen.

Robinson Speaks for the Bill.

Allan Robinson of New York, who was made Chairman of the Citizens' Committee organized shortly after the Rosenthal murder, to devise ways and means for stopping police corruption in New York City; Dr. Henry Moskowitz, Vice Chairman of this committee, and Robert S. Binkerd, its secretary, spoke in favor of the bill. They thought it would do away with certain police abuses.

"We are asking you to let us open the saloons on Sunday afternoons in order that they may remain closed during Sunday forenoon," said Mr. Robinson. "We will support any drastic penalty that the reverend gentlemen here may suggest, even to the hanging of a saloon keeper for keeping open during church hours."

Dr. Henry Moskowitz said that Sunday had been desecrated in New York City by a hypocrisy, which had demanded a law that could not be enforced because the people did not want it enforced.

"In a free country the best law is the law the people want," said Dr. Moskowitz. "If you enact and try to enforce any other kind of law you will only foster crime, hypocrisy, and corruption. We need a Sunday law which can be enforced."

SULZER'S WISH IGNORED.

Senate Passes Blauvelt Election Bill, Retaining Convention Feature.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, N. Y., April 16.—Ignoring the demand of Gov. Sulzer for a Statewide primary for the direct nomination of candidates for offices, from Governor to constable, the Senate to-night passed the Blauvelt bill amending the election primary law. The amendment includes some of the provisions asked for by the Governor in his special message on primary reform, but it leaves in the present law the provision for State conventions, the designation of candidates by committees, the use of the party emblem by the organization committees, and the possibility of voting the whole ticket by placing a cross in the circle.

Gov. Sulzer has declared that he will fight for the abolition of the State convention, and for the designation of all candidates by petition instead of by committees. The Republican Senators agreed to stand by the Governor in all of his suggested changes except the abolition of the State convention, which, they say, was not called for by the Republican State platform.

Senator Blauvelt defended his bill, which includes the amendments that Tammany is willing to concede in the present election law. These amendments include the reduction of the number of registration days in the country from four to two. It also limits the number of Election Commissioners in a county to two. The Democratic leaders opposed the plan to reduce the number of signers to independent petitions from 5 to 3 per cent. Senator Duhamel urged this reduction, and he was backed by the Republicans.

Gov. Sulzer said to-day that there would be another direct primary conference in the executive chamber on Friday. At that time the provisions of the proposed bill embodying the Governor's suggestion will be discussed. The bill will be introduced next week, but the Tammany leaders expect that by that time the Democratic organization Election bill will be in his hands.

FULL CREW PLEDGE UP AGAIN

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, April 16.—At a secret meeting of the Senate Judiciary Committee to-night Senator Brown, the Republican leader, called up his resolution asking for an investigation of the alleged ante-election pledge of Gov. Sulzer to sign the Full Crew bill.

Senator Brown presented a supplementary resolution providing for a joint committee of the Legislature composed of four Senators and five Assemblymen to investigate the report which was published exclusively in THE TIMES several days ago.

The resolution cites the Governor's oath of office, which set forth, among other things, that he had made no promise to obtain his election.

Members of the Judiciary Committee were sworn to secrecy regarding the supplementary resolution. They were silent on the general plan of the investigation which will seek to ascertain whether there is ground for impeachment proceedings. It was tenatively agreed that the committee should have an appropriation of $10,000 to carry on the investigation.

Mr. Brown was the only Republican Senator attending the secret meeting. There were seven of the most influential Democratic members of the Senate present.

VOTE TO DROP RABBI.

Paterson Congregation Opposes Mr. Mannheimer's Activity in Politics.

It was learned yesterday that the Congregation B'nai Jeshurun of Paterson, N. J., at a stormy annual meeting held at the synagogue on Sunday afternoon, voted not to continue the rabbinate of the Rev. Leo Mannheimer, who has served as its rabbi since 1908, after the expiration of his term on June 30.

According to one of the Trustees last night, this action was taken by the congregation, after it had been recommended by the Trustees, on the ground that Rabbi Mannheimer had taken too active a part in politics and other affairs outside of the synagogue. Among other things, it was said, he had devoted a large part of his time to work as a member of the School Board and had antagonized some members of his congregation by taking part in the settlement of the silk strike without consulting the manufacturers, some of whom were of his congregation. The differences between the rabbi and congregation were heightened, it was said, by his demand for an increase in salary from $2,400 to $3,600, which the congregation felt it could not afford. Moreover, according to the Trustee, the rabbi had asked to be elected a Trustee of the congregation, so that he might attend all the Trustee meetings and take part in all the councils at which the affairs of the congregation were discussed. This, the Trustees thought, was an encroachment on their province, and they resented it.

Notwithstanding the vote at the meeting on Sunday, at which Rabbi Mannheimer delivered his message to the congregation in person, it was said that many persons in the congregation felt warmly toward the rabbi, and wanted to have the vote reconsidered, with a view to retaining him.

PLACATES MRS. TAYLOR NO. 2

Talbot J. Taylor Says He Has Settled His Matrimonial Troubles.

Talbot J. Taylor, who was divorced a few years ago by Mrs. Jessica Keene Taylor, daughter of the late James R. Keene, said yesterday that his matrimonial difficulties with Mrs. Maria Zane Cowles Taylor had been adjusted, and that her motion for counsel fees and alimony against him would not be argued in the Supreme Court to-day.

Mrs. Taylor No. 2 was married to him on Sept. 24, 1909, in Stamford, Conn., following the granting of the divorce to Mrs. Jessica K. Taylor. Mrs. Maria Zane Cowles had been named as co-respondent in the first Mrs. Taylor's divorce suit. Mrs. Cowles had been engaged, at a reputed compensation of $40,000 to purchase art objects for the Taylor home at Cedarhurst, L. I., adjoining the estate of James R. Keene.

TO VISIT MULRANEY AGAIN.

Judge Rosalsky to Take More of the Condemned Man's Testimony.

Judge Rosalsky of General Sessions announced yesterday that he would visit John Mulraney in his cell in the death house at Sing Sing on Friday to give the prisoner a chance to explain away the testimony given against him by Mordecai Saltzman, a secret agent for the Pinkerton Detective Agency.

Mulraney is convicted of the murder of Patrick McBreen, known as "Paddy the Priest," and a confession made by Mulraney as well as one made by John Dowling, who said Mulraney committed the crime, played an important part in Mulraney's trial, and following his conviction he was sentenced to death. Mulraney then retained Joseph A. Shay as counsel, and Mr. Shay succeeded in getting Gov. Sulzer to grant Mulraney a stay on the ground of newly discovered evidence.

Columbia Seniors Elect Class Officers

The senior class of Columbia College elected these class officers last night to serve for ten years: President, Eliot Downes; First Vice President, Edward L. Steckler; Second Vice President, H. W. Miller; Treasurer, Ralph A. Steinhardt; Secretary, George Randolph. The Executive Committee will be composed of the President, Secretary, and Treasurer.

STATE SENATE LIKES ROCKEFELLER PLAN

NO RESTRAINT ON BOARD

Either in Regard to Amount or Use of Its Wealth, in Albany Charter Now Going Through.

Senator Foley's bill incorporating the Rockefeller Foundation, which passed the Senate at Albany on Tuesday without a word of criticism, is the original measure introduced into Congress three years ago. It met with stubborn opposition at Washington on account of its sweeping provisions, and the fear that it would authorize the creation of an unlimited money power governed by a self-perpetuating Board of Trustees and exempt from all taxation, with no provision for its dissolution.

During the fight in Congress several limitations and safeguards of this power were carefully devised and attached as amendments to the bill. None of them appears in Senator Foley's measure.

The bill to incorporate the Rockefeller Foundation was introduced in Congress by Senator Gallinger of New Hampshire on March 2, 1910. Its object was stated somewhat vaguely as "to promote the well-being and to advance the civilization of the peoples of the United States and its Territories and possessions and of foreign lands in the acquisition and dissemination of knowledge; in the prevention and relief of suffering, and in the promotion of any and all the elements of human progress."

To this end the corporation was authorized to establish, maintain, and endow institutions for carrying on these objects. Its membership was to be not less than five nor more than twenty-five, and elections were to be by co-optation. No limitation was placed on the amount of funds the corporation might hold, and provision was made for the exemption from taxation of personal property and funds applied to the uses of the trust.

No officer, trustee, or member was to receive any pecuniary benefit from the operations of the corporation other than a reasonable compensation for his services. The transactions of the corporation were to be reported annually to the Secretary of the Interior, and its charter was subject to alteration or repeal at the pleasure of Congress.

Almost immediately there was widespread criticism of the proposed charter. It was urged that there should be some limitation on the power of members of the corporation to elect their successors, and that there should be a limit to the amount of money that could be heaped up for purposes subject to so broad a definition as that given by the charter. Then it was urged the Foundation should not necessarily be perpetual, but should be subject to termination with a distribution of its funds at some future period; and, finally, that the control of the foundation should be more specifically vested in Congress.

Important amendments were made to the bill from time to time in Congress. Thus it was determined that Congress might limit the objects of the corporation as the interests of the public might demand, and that all gifts of property received should be subject to this provision. The total amount of property it might hold was limited to $100,000,000; and it was provided the income of the corporation should not be accumulated or added to the principal, but should be currently applied to the purposes for which it was created.

Then it was suggested that after fifty years the corporation might distribute the principal as well as the income with the consent of two-thirds of its members, and that after 100 years Congress might direct such distribution. To prevent a self-perpetuating board controlling the corporation, it was proposed that new members should be elected, subject to the approval of a majority of these persons: The President of the United States, the Chief Justice of the Supreme Court, the President of the Senate, the Speaker of the House of Representatives, and the Presidents of Harvard, Yale, Columbia, Johns Hopkins and Chicago Universities.

Another amendment clearly limited the tax exemption on the property of the corporation to Federal imposts and gave it no relief from State taxes. The minimum number of members required, moreover, was raised from five to nine.

The necessity and justification of these safeguarding amendments was apparently admitted subsequently by Jerome D. Greene, general manager of the Rockefeller Institute for Medical Research and one of the nine members of the corporation as proposed in the present bill in the Legislature at Albany.

"The adoption of these amendments in deference to helpful criticism," he said, "seems to have removed all reasonable opposition to the incorporation of the Rockefeller Corporation. No one who has read carefully the terms of the charter, or who has observed the spirit in which suggestions and criticisms have been received, can fail to see with satisfaction these three manifestly controlling motives in the mind of the founder: First, a desire to secure during the visible future the continuation of the method of careful philanthropic investment which has characterized Mr. Rockefeller's benefactions during his lifetime. Second, a desire to prevent the 'dead hand,' or as some one has aptly observed, 'a dead Legislature,' from hampering in the distant future the use of the fund, which would most nearly accord with the contemporary wisdom of future generations.

"The third motive actuating the incorporation of the Rockefeller Foundation and expressed in its charter is the desire to make this munificent gift directly to the whole American people and forever subject to the control of their elected representatives. This provision not only possesses a sentimental advantage which the charter of a single State would not afford, but it expresses an implicit confidence in the stability of our National life and in the will of the people to deal justly, both now and forever, with the high purposes of the proposed foundation."

Mr. Greene further explained why a Federal charter under Federal incorporation was preferred to one under the District of Columbia or a State by saying:

"The scope of operations being limited to no single State or even country, it would be inappropriate to have the charter subject to regulations designed chiefly, if not exclusively, for local organizations of the district. The founder desires that the control thus exercised shall represent the public opinion of the country rather than of any single State or section. Otherwise, as between the philanthropic interests of a single locality and those of the whole country, the corporation if under local control might wrongly prefer the former."

The House of Representatives passed the bill incorporating the Rockefeller Foundation with the safeguarding amendments on Jan. 20 and the Senate has already read it twice. Yet now it has been introduced at Albany without a single limitation on the powers of the corporation, and a State rather than a Federal charter is sought.

Under the amended bill now pending before the Senate at Washington the incorporators were John D. Rockefeller, John D. Rockefeller, Jr., Frederick T. Gates, Starr J. Murphy, Harry Pratt Judson, Simon Flexner, Edward A. Alderman, Wickliffe Rose, and Charles O. Heydt. There is only one change from this list in the Foley bill, which has just passed the Albany Senate, Jerome D. Greene being substituted for Edwin A. Alderman.

The Foley bill recites the purpose of the proposed corporation with as great indefinitness as the Washington measure. It is described as the "receiving, maintaining a fund or funds, and applying the income and principal thereof to promote the well-being of mankind throughout the world." The corporation is to accomplish its aims through "research, publication, the establishment and maintenance of charitable, benevolent, religious, missionary, and public educational activities, agencies, and institutions and the aid of any such institutions already established and any other means and agencies which from time to time shall seem expedient to its members or trustees."

The powers of the corporation are defined as follows:

> To take and hold by bequest, devise, gift, purchase, or lease, either absolutely or in trust for any of its purposes, any property, real or personal, without limitation as to amount or value, except such limitation, if any, as the Legislature shall hereafter specifically impose; to convey such property and to invest and reinvest any principal, and deal with and expend the income and principal of the corporation in such manner as in the judgment of the trustees will best promote its objects.
> It shall have all the power and be subject to all the restrictions which now pertain by law to membership corporations created by a special law, so far as the same are applicable thereto and are not inconsistent with the provisions of this act.
> The persons named in the first section of this act, or a majority of them, shall hold a meeting and organize the corporation and adopt a constitution and by-laws, not inconsistent with the constitution and laws of this State. The constitution shall prescribe the manner of selection of members, the number of members who shall constitute a quorum for the transaction of business at meetings of the corporation, the number of trustees by whom the business and affairs of the corporation shall be managed, the qualifications, powers, and the manner of selection of the trustees and officers of the corporation, the manner of amending the constitution and by-laws of the corporation, and any other provisions for the management and disposition of the property and regulation of the affairs of the corporation which may be deemed expedient.

The only other limitation placed on the members of the corporation is that none shall receive any pecuniary benefit other than "reasonable compensation for services in effecting one or more of its purposes, or as a proper beneficiary of its strictly charitable purposes." The act is to take effect immediately.

Jerome D. Greene, representing the incorporators, was unwilling to say on Tuesday night whether the introduction of the incorporation bill into the State Legislature indicated that the attempt to get a Federal incorporation would be abandoned. Senator Foley at Albany said he had no information on that subject, but assumed the Foundation would be able to carry out its plans with a State charter.

Senator Luke Lea of Tennessee, who offered the most recent of the amendments in the United States Senate to smooth the path for the bill, said he was told by Mr. Greene last Winter that if the Federal bill granting incorporation were not passed by March 4 the attempt to get a Federal charter would be abandoned and recourse would be had to some State.

ESCAPING A WEDDING.

Agnes Erhart Stages a Robbery to Get Rid of Fiance.

The police of the West Forty-seventh Street Station listened open-eyed yesterday afternoon while 19-year-old Agnes Erhart told them that on Tuesday afternoon, when she went to her room at 424 West Fifty-seventh Street, a man had leaped from her closet, bound and gagged her, and gone off with $125 of her savings, her gold watch, and her engagement ring. She had been tied up for four hours until her fiancé, Feador Heinickel of 319 East Ninety-sixth Street, had discovered her plight, and it was at his suggestion, she said, that she had come to report the case.

The police were skeptical, and after long questioning, the girl grudgingly admitted that she had left out an important detail. This was that she had consented to the binding and gagging process which had been staged for her by a motion-picture actor who had played the part of the robber.

Having extracted this much information, the detectives were eager to learn more, particularly as to the motive. The girl reluctantly explained that she had wanted to appear as financially ruined to discourage Heinickel, whom she was pledged to marry on Saturday, and with whom she was then to sail to Germany. She did not want to go to Germany, she said, and she did not want to marry Heinickel.

Was there any one she preferred, the detectives wanted to know, and Miss Erhart shyly said there was. It was the motion picture actor. After some more questions, she gave his name as Charles George, and said that he lived at the Hotel Vanderbilt, an address which the police were inclined to doubt. Their doubts were verified by subsequent inquiries at the hotel.

TUNNELS SAVE FRESHMEN.

Columbia Crew Men Rescued from Sophomores by Henry Lang.

Henry Lang, head groundsman at Columbia University, rescued six freshman crew men yesterday from the clutches of the sophomores and smuggled them through sub-basements to an escape up Broadway. In retaliation for the assault of the freshmen last week when the first year men held their banquet and kidnapped many sophomores, the second year men turned on the youngsters yesterday. The sophomores will dine to-night, but began yesterday to capture freshmen.

After the noon recess yesterday, Lang noticed a crowd of students running toward Hamilton Hall, and hurrying over he found about twenty sophs kneeling on the six crew men, members of Jim Rice's freshman eight. The second year men had shackled them with chains and handcuffs, and, according to Lang, their hands were black from the stoppage of blood circulation. With regard more to the chances of the freshman eight at Poughkeepsie than to the passing pranks of the sophomores, he ordered them to free the men. Lang then led them to the library and through the tunnels. The freshmen then made tracks for the Edgewater ferry to report for rowing practice.

An attack also was made on Smith, the star freshman pitcher, who is relied upon to carry Columbia to victory in the 'Varsity game with Harvard tomorrow on South Field, but he escaped. The upperclassmen were indignant when they heard that Smith had been attacked and told the sophs to show more discrimination. W. Brophy, a second string pitcher on the 'Varsity squad, and a sophomore, was waylaid at Yonkers at 8 o'clock yesterday morning by a band of freshmen. He had with him a satchel full of handcuffs which he was bringing down to college to help capture freshmen. He is now imprisoned in a freshman's apartment.

LONELY MAN KILLS HIMSELF.

No Other Cause Assigned for Suicide of Henry D. Dumont.

Grief over the passing away of his old friends, particularly the death of Thomas E. Pearsall, the lawyer, caused the suicide yesterday of Henry D. Dumont, 70 years of age, of 1,237 Pacific Street, Brooklyn. Mr. Dumont was found hanging from a transom in his bedroom. He left two letters, one to his son, Charles R. Dumont of Rochester, N. Y., and the other one to his daughter, Mrs. H. Van Cleaf, of Cleveland, Ohio.

Mr. Dumont was Treasurer of the Business Bourse International, Incorporated, of 261 Broadway. He was a life-long friend of Mr. Pearsall, who died on April 5. After this Mr. Dumont became melancholy and to several of his business associates lamented the fact that so many of his old friends had died and left him almost alone in the world.

Mr. Dumont was a Mason and a member of the Merchants' Association. President Roosevelt, during his term of office, sent Mr. Dumont to Cuba to investigate the resources of the island and to make a report to this Government on business conditions there.

COFFE CORNER ENDS.

Brazil Assures Us the 920,000 Bags Stored Here as Security Are Sold.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 16.—The deadlock over the sale of a large amount of coffee, held in New York under the valorization system maintained by a syndicate of American and English importers under contract with the State of Sao Paulo, has come to an end. In a few days Attorney General McReynolds will ask the court to dismiss the Government suit against this so-called coffee trust on the assurance of the Brazilian Government that the 920,000 bags of coffee involved held by the combination as part of the security for a loan made by the State of Sao Paulo, guaranteed by the Government of Brazil, have been sold to bona fide purchasers. The value of the stored coffee was fixed at $10,000,000.

Attorney General McReynolds said today that the United States would accept Brazil's assurances that the coffee was no longer in control of the Valorization Committee. Brazil states that the coffee has been sold to eighty roasters in thirty-three cities of twenty American States.

Had the compromise not been reached, it was within the power of the United States Government to seize the coffee under a new law passed by Congress as a direct result of the coffee suit.

While the dismissal of the suit, which was started by William T. Chantland, special assistant to the Attorney General, will terminate the civil proceedings against the valorization plan, it is understood that the Department of Justice will keep a close watch upon the valorized coffee which has been sold to see that it does not fall into the hands of concentrated interests.

Mr. Sielcken refused to comment on the quashing of the suit when asked about it yesterday. An intimate friend of the coffee importer stated, however, that Mr. Sielcken considered the action of Mr. McReynolds as a vindication of the methods pursued by the Valorization Committee in disposing of Brazilian coffee in the United States.

The valorization scheme began in October, 1905, with the enactment of a law by the State of Sao Paulo, Brazil, which provided for the purchase of coffee by the Government and its distribution throughout the world in accordance with the judgment of a committee appointed for the purpose. Loans were negotiated with bankers in New York and London to finance the undertaking, and thereafter the Brazilian crop was disposed of by sales twice yearly in this city, London, Havre, Rotterdam and other cities of the continent.

The coffee was auctioned off to large bidders, and frequent complaint was heard among members of the Coffee Exchange that the competion was not open enough.

The prices received, however, were about on a parity with prevailing quotations on the different markets, and no legal action was taken until Mr. Wickersam began proceedings under the Sherman law.

Gov. Mann Has Appendicitis.

RICHMOND, Va., April 16.—Gov. Mann was ill in the Executive Mansion to-night with a mild form of appendicitis. Although his family expressed uneasiness over his condition, his physicians stated that it was not dangerous, and that it was not likely an operation would be performed. Near midnight, the physicians announced that the Governor was resting easily.

MARTIN'S AFFAIRS UNDER INQUIRY

Memphis Institutions Hold Large Number of Bales Receipts as Collateral.

LONDON'S INTEREST COOLS

Believe Missing Man Is Alive—Scotland Yard Thinks Hat Was Placed to be Found.

Special to The New York Times.

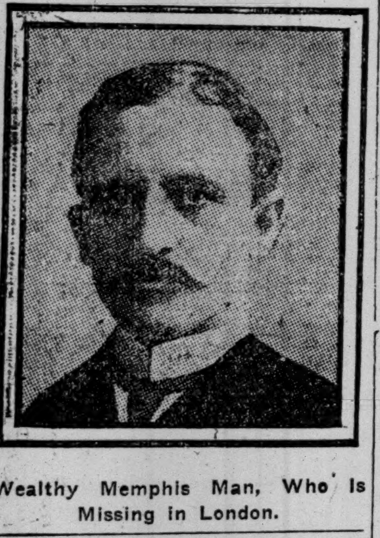
MEMPHIS, April 16.—That the flood now sweeping the Mississippi Valley is responsible for the mysterious disappearance of Joseph W. Martin in London is the belief of some of his Memphis friends.

It came out to-day that when Martin had reached London he cabled back that he had raised $100,000 by a land deal. This had to do with acreage in Arkansas and Louisiana on which Martin had options. It was reported that arrangements were under way whereby Martin was intersting English capitalists with a view to making the Martin-Phillips Company one of the biggest cotton firms in the South.

"I firmly believe," a close friend of Martin said to-day, "that the English capitalists involved in these deals became scared by the flood conditions, causing a breaking off of negotiations after they had seemingly been closed, and resulting in heavy disappointment to Martin."

It was learned to-night that Fred J. Paro of the National Bank of Commerce of St. Louis, and H. S. Rossell of the Fourth National Bank of New York were here to investigate the financial affairs of the bankrupt Martin-Phillips Company. Each bank holds $25,000 of the company's paper. Both men said the banks were secured.

JOSEPH W. MARTIN,



Wealthy Memphis Man, Who Is Missing in London.

It was stated to-night that a meeting of wealthy relatives would be held tomorrow, when it is believed that financial assistance will be given. It is reported that this will be done to prevent any court action should Martin be alive, and will allow him to return home.

Fontaine Martin, Secretary-Treasurer of the company, denied to-day he had any personal knowledge of any irregularities regarding warehouse receipts. He said that Joseph Martin had attended to all these matters. Asked whether the firm would be able to meet its obligations, he said:

"We cannot tell much about that yet, but we might pay out if not pressed too hard and given a chance to continue our business. I believe my brother has been murdered. There would be no question as to the financial condition were he alive."

Speaking of the decision of his brother, N. Hill Martin, to return from New York instead of going on to London, he said:

"We felt we needed him here, and sent him a telegram for that course. No, we had received no new information concerning my brother Joe."

S. T. Speers, in whose warehouse the Martin-Phillips Company stored its cotton, said to-day that he had issued the present season to Joseph Martin receipts for only 900 bales of cotton and had issued no duplicates.

"Receipts for 100 bales," he said, "were returned to me. There are 94 bales in the warehouse. The other receipts should have been returned to me, when I received the orders to deliver the cotton, but when Joseph Martin assured me that he had the receipts in his possession I took his word for it, and let the cotton go without getting the receipts.

"I trusted Martin implicitly. For months I continued to let the cotton go on his orders, believing that he had the receipts in his safe and would give them to me on demand. I was knocked off my feet when Fontaine Martin, giving me receipts for 100 bales, said no other receipts were at hand, so far as he knew."

Speers said there could now be outstanding no more than 800 bales receipts from his warehouse. Any other receipts, he said, were not genuine.

Local bankers say that no less than 1,800 bales receipts are outstanding. Of these 300 are held by the Union and Planters Bank and Trust Company as collateral on loans to the Martin-Phillips Company amounting to $65,000, while Felix T. Pope of Felix T. Pope & Co. holds 500 as collateral on notes amounting to $25,000. The bank has additional security, while Pope has not. It is said that 500 more are held by a bank in St. Louis and 500 by a bank in New York.

LONDON GROWS SKEPTICAL.

Burns and Scotland Yard Confident Martin Is Alive.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

LONDON, April 16.—News of the sudden change of plans by N. Hill Martin, brother of the missing Joseph W. Martin, was regarded here as an interesting feature of the case. Public interest is decreasing with the establishment of every real fact bearing on the case, and, though some features still require elucidation, the disappearance is not likely to receive much more attention, once people are satisfied that Martin is alive, as both W. J. Burns and Scotland Yard are.

Hopes of getting the reward for finding him are still agitating the mediums, crystal gazers, and a portion of the London press which gives space to their lucubrations, while various persons have come forward with clues. One of the latter, whose information seems most worthy of investigation, is an Oxford man, who says that a man whom he believes to be Martin sailed from Southampton with a woman for South Africa the day after Martin disappeared in London.

Another clue is furnished by an Englishwoman, who says she knows Martin is alive, but that he will be killed before his whereabouts is discovered. This sensational statement is being investigated.

Such facts as have actually been established do not tend to invest the affair with the aureole of romance or the gloom of tragedy.

The officials have decided that in case Martin does not turn up in a few days they will apply for permission to the police to open the vault of the safe deposit company in which it is stated Martin kept his papers. One of the reasons advanced by the police for the belief that Martin is alive is that investigations have proved that he did not possess much money to his credit in this country. It was stated to-day that the balance at his bank here was not large.

Scotland Yard is finally convinced from the position of the opera hat and other articles at Hungerford Bridge that they were placed there deliberately. Burns, it may be said in conclusion, is not allowing "the Martin mystery" to trouble his digestion.

WILL SUE MRS. PANKHURST.

London Merchants Now Combine to Seek Damages.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

LONDON, April 16.—The sentence on Mrs. Pankhurst is not, it has been officially decided, to be a bar to the hearing of the charge of conspiracy which West End trading firms are bringing in the High Court.

An important move has been made in connection with the charge of conspiracy, which followed the window-smashing in the West End. Originally only two firms were cited as plaintiffs against Mr. and Mrs. Pethick Lawrence, formerly Treasurers of the Women's Social and Political Union, and Mrs. Pankhurst, one in each separate action. The West End commercial community has now decided to combine in an endeavor to bring home the responsibility. No fewer than ninety-three trading concerns, representing practically all the victims of the window-smashing crusade, have been added as plaintiffs in the charges.

This step was taken because of the refusal of the Home Office to protect the tradesmen's interests. The firms claim in their action against Mrs. Pankhurst damages of nearly $10,000 and an amount almost as much is claimed from the Lawrences.

Notwithstanding the recent developments in regard to Mrs. Pankhurst the cases are to keep their place in the court list and may now be heard at any time. Each individual window-smashing incident will be gone into in detail, and the hearing therefore will take a considerable amount of time.

If the authorities do not allow Mrs. Pankhurst's appearance in court, should she be in prison when her case comes up, it will be heard in her absence.

LOW PRICES FOR PAINTINGS.

Total Proceeds of Cheramy Sale $62,198—A Leonardo for $1,440.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

PARIS, April 16.—The last day of the Cheramy sale was disappointing. The prices realized were $13,176, making the total for the entire auction $62,198. The public was apparently skeptical as to the authenticity of several paintings attributed to old masters; for example, a "Madonna" catalogued as a Beltraffio.

The highest price, $1,440, was paid for a "Virgin of the Rocks," attributed to Leonardo da Vinci. A pen drawing by Rembrandt of a woman having her hair dressed by her maid brought $920, and Turner's "Bridge over the Loire" $660. Several original engravings by Rembrandt went for a few dollars each.

PRINCESS ORDERED TO PAY.

Louise of Belgium Must Settle $770 Bill for a Dozen Parasols.

PARIS, April 16.—Princess Louise of Belgium was condemned to-day by the Civil Court here to pay $770 for a dozen parasols she bought between May 17 and July 7, 1911, one for each of twelve dresses. The most expensive parasol cost $140.

PARIS-BERLIN FLIGHT.

Daucourt Arrives at German Capital in Race for Pommery Cup.

PARIS, April 16.—A race for the Pommery Cup, valued at $1,500, for cross-country aeroplane flights, was started by two aviators, Edmund Audemars, a Swiss, and Pierre Daucourt, a Frenchman, from the outskirts of Paris this morning.

Their objective was Berlin, a distance of 535 miles in an air line to the northeast.

BERLIN, April 16.—Pierre Daucourt arrived at the Johannisthal aerodrome at 6:39 P. M. from Paris. He left the French capital at 6:05 A. M.

Daucourt encountered decidedly stormy weather while crossing the Ardennes, but his flight was very little affected until he arrived over the Valley of the Rhine, where his aeroplane was tossed up and down in the air, sometimes for a distance of 150 yards, by the strong and varying winds.

Audemars, his rival, was unable to proceed further than Wanne, Germany, to-day. He landed there at 10:55 A. M. and, after making a spiral ascent and remaining in the air for ten minutes, postponed his departure for Berlin until to-morrow on account of a storm.

WINS THE SCHNEIDER CUP.

Prevost Victorious in Hydro-Aeroplane Contest at Monte Carlo.

MONTE CARLO, April 16.—Maurice Prévost, a French aviator and a pupil of Vedrines, to-day won the Schneider Cup for hydro-aeroplanes, which carries with it a prize of $5,000.

The other starters were Roland Garros, Gabriel Espanet, and Charles T. Weymann, the American.

The machines used by Garros and Espanet developed defects early in the race and returned to the starting point.

Weymann, when he had arrived near the finish of the 150-knot course, was obliged to retire on account of motor trouble. He entered the contest as representing the United States, although he was driving a French water-aeroplane.

Prévost infringed one of the rules of the race at the finish, and when told of it he returned to the course and finished according to the regulations.

PLAN AMERICAN LAND BANK.

Lord Hawke and Hon. Henry Leveson-Gower Sail for New York.

SOUTHAMPTON, April 16.—Lord Hawke and the Hon. Henry Leveson-Gower sailed for New York to-day on board the Oceanic to consult Edward Breitung, the banker of Marquette, Mich., relative to the formation of a land credit banking institution on the same lines as those of France and Germany.

BOYCOTT BY JAPAN IS URGED IN TOKIO

Feeling Over California Land Bill Deepens—Leaders Advise Conservatism.

WILSON CONFERS WITH LANE

Measure as It Finally Emerges May Give No Reasonable Basis for Complaint by Japan.

TOKIO, April 17.—The most prominent public officers, commercial men, and others are urging that no extreme attitude be adopted in the agitation against the California Alien Land bill, but popular feeling is deepening with the announcement of the passage of the bill in the lower house of the California Legislature.

The American-Japanese Association, of which Baron Shibusawa is President and B. Nakano is Vice President, composed of representatives of all political parties, leading tradesmen, and professors, is much opposed to the measure, but is avoiding stirring up anti-American feeling.

Public speakers, in explaining the American system of government, say that the United States as a whole is friendly, but California is prejudiced. Yukio Ozaki, ex-Mayor of Tokio, advocates the withdrawal of Japanese participation in the Panama-Pacific Exposition and refusal to buy or sell through California ports. But this plan has been strongly opposed by other speakers.

Newspaper men have formed an organization, and adopted a resolution to the effect the land bill is not only unjust and unfair to the Japanese, but is calculated to impair international good will. The American press is requested to join in opposing it.

WASHINGTON, April 16.—The Alien Land bill as passed by the lower house of the California Legislature yesterday in its amended form is regarded by the public officers here as much more difficult than the original measure for the Japanese Government to oppose successfully, for the reason that it now closely follows the lines of the Alien Ownership act, which for the past decade has been strictly enforced in the District of Columbia and the Territories of the United States without objection from any foreign Government.

To lodge an objection to the measure, based on strict equity, probably it would be necessary for the Japanese Government by decree to extend to Americans resident in Japan the right to acquire property in fee simple, a privilege which, though intended to be conferred by treaty, so far has been withheld in general application.

The attitude of the Administration and of the Japanese Embassy here, in spite of yesterday's action of the California Assembly, must continue to be one of observation at this stage, because a generally similar bill, though different in detail, remains to be passed in the California Senate. Then there must be a conference to reconcile the differences between the two houses and then the Governor of California must pass on the measure.

ANXIOUS OVER LAND BILLS.

Fear in Tokio That "Traditional Good Feeling" Will Be Injured.

Lindsay Russell, President of the Japan Society, yesterday received the following cable dispatch relative to the California situation from Baron Shibusawa, Chairman of the Tokio Advisory Council of the Japan Society, in Tokio:

> Lindsay Russell, President, Japan Society,
> 165 Broadway, New York:
> Fear anti-Japanese bills in California if passed will seriously injure traditional good feeling between two nations. Trust Japan Society use good offices to alleviate situation. Please do best relieve our anxiety.
> SHIBUSAWA,
> Chairman Tokio Advisory Council, Japan Society.

President Russell sent the following reply to Baron Shibusawa:

> Baron Shibusawa, Tokio:
> Doing everything possible; California autonomous. Considers question local and resents outside interference. Assure Japanese American public friendly. Do all you can to allay excitement.
> LINDSAY RUSSELL, President.

The American Asiatic Association of Japan from its headquarters at Yokohama has cabled to the American Asiatic Association in this country:

> On account of serious unfriendly agitation throughout Japan, due to proposed California legislation, strongly recommend sending United States Ambassador; aslo concerted action against legislation adverse to Japanese. Otherwise American interests will suffer seriously.

350,000 MEN OUT.

Belgian Premier Admits It, While Socialists Claim 370,000.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

BRUSSELS, April 16.—Some increase in the number of strikers is reported, but the change is inconsiderable. No strikers have returned to work. Brussels has the same peaceful aspect as yesterday. There is an entire absence of disorder. The strikers have kept their leaders' promises that the demonstration should be peaceful and have made a favorable impression upon the public.

Only one act of supposed sabotage is reported.

BRUSSELS, April 16.—"At a time when 350,000 men are out on strike," was a phrase which occurred in the Premier's speech before the Chamber of Deputies this afternoon. He was replying to an attack on the Government by Vandervelde, the Socialist leader, who asserted that 370,000 men were now involved in the general strike in Belgium for manhood suffrage.

The Premier's remark seemed to be made offhand, and his estimate cannot be regarded as official. There is no doubt, however, that the Government is beginning to realize that it underestimated the possibilities of the movement, which steadily grew to-day.

The Central Industrial Commission of Brussels, a non-political organization, estimates that 217,500 workmen of five classes—coal miners, metal, structural iron, glass and textile workers—have laid down their tools.

Impartial authorities place the total number of men on strike to-night as 310,000, and the newspaper Vingtième Siècle, the organ of the Young Clericals, gives an estimate of 291,406.

When the Chamber reconvened to-day after recess the galleries were crowded, and 10,000 strikers assembled outside the building, but made no demonstrations.

The Premier, in answer to the Socialist and Liberal attacks, reiterated his statement that the Government could not yield to threats. When a Liberal Deputy proposed a national referendum on constitutional revision, the Premier said: "When quiet is restored the Government will be at your disposal to study out the question."

The strikers continue to maintain perfect discipline in Brussels. Six hundred paraded through the streets this evening without police interference. Gendarmes are keeping a close watch in the suburbs, it having been reported that the strikers have purchased wire nippers and rubber gloves.

From various parts of the provinces reports show that in some places the movement has been undoubtedly successful, while in others, more especially the districts under the control of the Catholic workmen's unions, the men appear to be lukewarm in their sympathy.

Violence has been exceptional since the order to quit work was given on Monday, only a few cases of destruction of property or interference with non-strikers having occurred.

It is said to-day that the Government finds itself with a considerably smaller supply of coal with which to run the State railroads than it was supposed to have, and that this is likely to be exhausted this week, so that transport facilities may be crippled. Lack of fuel, it is said, will also cause the stoppage of many electric and gas plants and prevent many thousands of non-strikers from working.

M. Vandervelde, who has made an automobile tour of the provinces of Hainaut and Namur, said to-day:

"Our comrades are making splendid sacrifices for a just cause. All business is in a state of stagnation throughout the industrial district. Of the 208,000 workmen in the two provinces 163,000 are striking. These figures are from capitalistic compilations."

ANTWERP, April 16.—The number of strikers at this seaport reached 17,000 to-day, and there seems no inclination on the part of other workmen to join the movement.

LIEGE, April 16.—The strike is spreading here. The Socialist policy, it now appears, was not to show the full strength of the movement during the first few days, but to let the stoppage of industry be progressive. Several hundred more machinists employed at the national arms factory came out to-day. Excitement is beginning to make itself evident. Several arrests were made to-day of persons accused of interfering with those willing to work.

men were kicked, struck, and spat upon. Railway officials, policemen, officers, and soldiers looked on laughing as the Germans were insulted and mishandled in the lowest manner at the station. Soldiers who were finally ordered to protect us while we were in the railway carriage joined in the excesses. The crowd forced a way with the soldiers into the carriage, and for an hour, until the departure of the train, most incredible things took place.

"The behavior of this crowd of over 200 persons can only be described as that of a mob suddenly gone mad.

"Suddenly loud hooting was heard on the platform, and the crowd flung itself on two fresh victims, merchants from Thuringia. Every one shouted 'Those are German officers, who derided our army!'"

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

LONDON, Thursday, April 17.—E. Harold Spender, the well-known London journalist, who was recently in France, writes to The Daily News as follows:

"The astonishing fracas between French and Germans at Nancy has now been followed by an affair at Grenoble.

"These incidents cause no surprise to any one who has recently visited France. They are just what I should expect after witnessing such a play as 'Alsace.' There you have every type of German openly and flagrantly held up to ridicule on the French stage. The caricatures, presented by most skillful artists, are always put before the audience in the most aggressive and odious shapes.

"The same plays are being acted on the frontier, and, although there are many thousands of German residents in France who live quite peaceably with their neighbors, yet these perpetual stage pictures, deliberately permitted by the French Government, must have a very disturbing mental and moral effect upon the French people.

"Assisted by an active press, which is doing its best to foment the war fever with all the arts known to the French journalist, you have a state of feeling which may at any moment produce the gravest national result.

"Want the War Atmosphere."

"Staying in Paris a few weeks ago, I was so impressed with these probabilities that I put the question to Baron d'Estournelles de Constant, the great Pacificist Senator:

"'Do these people want war?'

"He replied: 'No, they do not want war, but they want the war atmosphere. They want to get as near the brink as possible without falling over.'

"And that precisely is the danger. This was exactly what happened in 1870. Then, as every one knows, France did not want war, but she wanted to humiliate Germany. That gave to the German Generals the chance of their lives. Having obtained her real case by securing the withdrawal of the Prussian nominee for the Spanish throne, France went on to provocation by demanding that Germany never again concern herself with the Spanish succession. That was an impossible demand, and the result was the Franco-German war.

"Here, then, you have the great European danger. In normal times such incidents as these do not matter, but if the air is full of electricity then every spark is dangerous. With a big frontier like that between France and Germany there must be such incidents between young men of either country. If the governments are friendly these incidents do not matter, but if the governments are unfriendly they may matter supremely. Then it will only be a question whether the German War Staff thinks the German Army ready for war."

After declaring that this fomenting of race passions on both sides of the Rhine is "without any human possible doubt inevitably leading to war on a gigantic scale," Mr. Spender asserts that the only possible chance of preventing it lies with England, which is in a position to cultivate friendship with both France and Germany, to stand between them in case of a quarrel, and to be ready at any moment to proffer her good services as arbitrator and friend.

HORDE OF REBELS MOVING ON HUERTA

Dr. Vasquez Gomez Says 20,000 Have Been Ordered to Push Campaign.

EXPECT CRISIS IN A WEEK

Unless Mexico Can Float Foreign Loan, It's Said, Trouble Will Result in Capital.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

HAVANA, April 16.—Plans for operations against Gen. Victoriano Huerta, provisional President of Mexico, by 20,000 insurgents were disclosed to-day by Dr. Francisco Vasquez Gomez, whose brother, Emilio Vasquez Gomez, once proclaimed himself the head of a provisional Government in the Mexican Republic. Dr. Gomez escaped from Vera Cruz recently, despite attempts by the authorities of that city to detain him. He arrived here under the name of Jose Castillo, accompanied by his son, Francisco Vasquez Gomez, Jr., who was called Rodolfo Castillo.

Dr. Gomez said the Mexican revolutionists held a general convention today in Hermosillo, capital of the State of Sonora, Mexico, and formed plans for carrying on the campaign against President Huerta and his associate, Gen. Felix Diaz, nephew of Gen. Porfirio Diaz, ex-Dictator. He related that representatives of the several elements active in the present uprising agreed in the Sonora capital to issue a proclamation to all revolutionary chieftains, ordering them to concentrate their forces against certain towns and villages now in the hands of the Provisional Government. The Doctor would not admit that he purposed to join the revolutionists.

Calls Mexican Outlook Dark.

"I consider the political outlook in Mexico extremely dark," said Dr. Gomez to the correspondent of THE NEW YORK TIMES. "Military dictatorships every day are becoming more and more repugnant to the people than they were in 1910, when Mexicans arose as one man against the power of Don Porfirio Diaz. No one is resigned to the recent occurrences in Mexico, although it must be admitted that the late President Madero primarily was responsible for them, owing to the fact that he violated almost every plank in the platform of the Grand Assembly which decreed the successful revolution against Porfirio Diaz.

"The National Convention," the Doctor explained, "agreed among other things to present the candidacy of Francisco I. Madero, Jr., and Vasquez Gomez, but Madero, violating that agreement, insisted on Pino Suarez running for Vice President, thus dividing into two parties those who had promoted the revolution. Francisco Leon de la Barra, who at the present time is playing his last political card in our country, divided the republic still more by presenting himself as a candidate and giving to the nation the rare spectacle of three candidates for the Vice Presidency.

"Dr. de la Barra," continued Dr. Gomez, "has given up his proposed trip to the United States for the purpose of obtaining recognition from the American Government for Gen. Huerta's régime, for which he is very anxious, because if Huerta fails—and he will fail—De la Barra will be forced completely out of politics and into exile.

"The Mexican Government," the doctor added, "cannot put down the present revolution in the Northern States. Col. Venustiano Carranza, insurgent Governor of the State of Coahuila, who is at the head of the revolution, already has more than 10,000 men, while ex-Gov. Maytorena of Sonora, who has stormed Ciudad Porfirio Diaz and other Mexican towns in the north, has just as many followers."

Conditios in Vera Cruz Bad.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

VERA CRUZ, Mex., April 16.—Smallpox is adding to the embarrassments of President Huerta's forces. Ten new cases of the disease were reported in this city to-day—three in the pest house, one in the hospital and six scattered through several streets. The epidemic also is keeping American sailors out of Vera Cruz. The United States warships Georgia and Vermont are half a mile outside the breakwater. All shore liberty has been stopped. Every member of the crew of each vessel has been vaccinated. The officers are taking every precaution to prevent a spread of the malady to the American squadron.

Financial conditions here are becoming critical. The rate of exchange is rising daily. A Mexican dollar was worth only 40 cents yesterday. It was impossible to obtain exchange on New York or London to-day.

It is rumored the State Government is crippled for lack of funds to pay troops. Mexico, it is said, cannot obtain a foreign loan until the Huerta Government is recognized generally abroad. No general election will be possible until the republic is pacified, it is believed. A bill was introduced in Congress yesterday deferring the national elections two years or more. It was put forward by the Maderistas to embarrass the Provisional Government.

Although it is insisted that the better class of Mexicans still is supporting Gen. Huerta's Administration as the only Government possible to the country at present, it is thought an immediate crisis is probable. Unless the central Government can float a foreign loan, say persons likely to know, there probably will be trouble in Mexico City in a week. Pessimism is generally prevalent in regard to the prospect of a wide foreign recognition of the Huerta Government and the flotation of a loan in other countries.

Rebels Start to Attack Guaymas

NACO, Ariz., April 16.—After a continuous conference of forty-eight hours, 1,200 Constitutionalistas, with all their war equipment, including horses and eighty-three Federal prisoners, and commanded by Gen. Obregon, left in four trains this morning for Hermosillo, Sonora, thence to attack Guaymas. Col. Alvarado and 350 men were left to garrison Naco, Cananea, and Ague Prieta. As the trains started from the station the revolutionists shouted "Viva Madero!"

Smallpox in Guaymas, Too.

NOGALES, Ariz., April 16.—Although no more meningitis has developed on the cruiser California, smallpox is raging on the shore of Guaymas Bay. As yet the plague has not affected American residents in Empalme.

The 600 Federals of the Guaymas garrison remain in a suburb of the town awaiting the advance of State troops from Hermosillo. Gen. Obregon's forces from Naco arrived here to-night and will proceed directly to the State Capital to participate in the mobilization of Constitutionalistas at Empalme.

FULLER AGAIN A CAPTIVE.

American, After Paying $20,000, Is Held for $10,000 Ransom.

Col. W. B. Fuller, an engineer engaged in building the Conchos River dam in Northern Mexico, was kidnapped two weeks ago by Mexican bandits and held for a ransom of $20,000, according to a letter received recently by one of his friends.

In his letter, Col. Fuller expressed the wish that the news might be kept from his wife, but Mrs. Fuller, who lives in Palisade, N. J., read of the kidnapping in an evening paper. The account said that Col. Fuller had paid the ransom of $20,000 asked by the bandits, but after several days of freedom had been recaptured and held for a $10,000 ransom.

Mrs. Fuller tried to get into communication with her husband or with her son, Bernard, who also is an engineer at work on the dam, but she found the wires in the northern part of Mexico had been cut. Bernard Fuller was to have been married in Paterson, N. J., on April 29.

PRICE OF UNITED WIRELESS.

$750,000 to British Marconi Co.—Resold for $1,400,000 in Stock.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

LONDON, April 16.—A feature of to-day's Marconi inquiry was the angry discussion between members of the committee when Godfrey Isaacs appealed to it not to press him to reveal the price paid for the assets of the United Wireless Company of America. Half a dozen members were talking at once, and eventually the room was cleared while the committee deliberated privately and decided that the question should be put.

Mr. Isaacs thereupon said that the assets of the United Wireless Company had been bought by the British Marconi Company for $750,000 and sold to the American Marconi Company for $1,400,000 in shares; this latter sum, however, including various other "considerations."

"You appealed from Philip sober to Philip drunk?" said his questioner.

"That is not very complimentary to England," Mr. Isaacs observed.

He said that the American public did subscribe for Marconi stock.

WON FAME AFTER 30 YEARS.

London Applauds Fanelli, a Composer Discovered a Year Ago.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

LONDON, April 16.—The Colonne Orchestra of Paris performed at Queen's Hall this afternoon a sequence of three "symphonic pictures," entitled "Thebes," by Ernest Fanelli, who a year ago was still unknown to the world, although "Thebes" was written thirty years ago.

When this music was produced a year ago in Paris the public welcomed it with a heartiness which was no ductor, Gabriel Pierne, to whom the circumstances of the discovery of the work by the Colonne Orchestra's conductor, Gabriel Bierne, to whom the composer, a discouraged man, submitted part of his score merely as an example of his work as a musical copyist.

The merits of "Thebes" are considerable. The audience to-day was enthusiastic and called for the composer who, it is understood, was present but did not appear.

TURCO-BULGARIAN TRUCE.

For Ten Days, According to a London Telegraph Correspondent.

LONDON, Thursday, April 17.—A ten-day truce has been arranged between the Bulgarian and Turkish commanders, according to a Constantinople dispatch to The Daily Telegraph.

WHITMAN PLACED IN RACE FOR MAYOR

East Side Diners Cheer 15 Minutes When Rabbi Schulman Says Work Merits Reward.

TAMMANY MEN MISSING

Waldo, Too, Fails to Send Regrets—District Attorney Says He's Willing to Stay Where He Is.

District Attorney Charles S. Whitman sat as the guest of honor at a dinner given to him last night in the Café Boulevard by the professional and business men of the east side. He smiled when the Rev. Dr. Samuel Schulman of Temple Beth-El launched a boom for the District Attorney as Mayor, and which was referred to by other speakers. The diners, of whom there were 350, cheered themselves hoarse when Dr. Schulman declared that as a reward for faithful service Mr. Whitman should be nominated for the highest office in the municipality.

At the speakers' table with Mr. Whitman set Seth Low, the Rev. Percy Stickney Grant, Justice Otto A. Rosalsky, Justice Joseph F. Mulqueen, Samuel S. Koenig, Adolph Lewisohn, Sheriff Harburger, Magistrate Joseph H. Corrigan, and others. Tammany Hall was noticeably lacking in representation. Invitations were sent to Police Commissioner Waldo, Controller Prendergast, Borough President McAneny, and Fourth Deputy Police Commissioner H. W. Newburger, but the Dinner Committee received neither acceptance nor regrets from them. Commissioner Newburger had consented to act on the Dinner Committee at first, but later he asked that his name be withdrawn. He announced, however, his intention of attending the dinner, but he failed to appear.

In front of the restaurant a large electric placard blazed, "Welcome Whitman." The banquet hall was decorated with American flags. On the east wall hung a large portrait of the District Attorney.

William Blau, the toastmaster, said that the purpose of the dinner was to show to Mr. Whitman the esteem the people of the east side held for him for cleaning out the criminals and for the work he was doing in bringing grafting public officials and policemen to justice. Mr. Whitman, on entering the hall, was greeted with prolonged cheers.

Seth Low paid a high tribute to the District Attorney, and declared that he was the best District Attorney who had held the office. Robbins Gilman of the University Settlement said he was there to show his appreciation of the work accomplished by Mr. Whitman, and like praise came from Justice Mulqueen, who told of the obstacles the District Attorney had overcome in the performance of his duties. Such a man, he said, was certain to have a career ahead of him.

The Rev. Dr. Schulman brought the diners to their feet when after a recital of the events leading up to the graft investigation he declared it would be fitting for the citizens to show their appreciation by electing Mr. Whitman again to the highest office in the community. When Arnold Kohn, Vice President of the State Bank, said that Mr. Whitman should be nominated for Mayor the diners shouted their approval in cheers that lasted fifteen minutes.

Mr. Whitman, who followed Justice Mulqueen, said in part:

"I only wish there were no statutory inhibitions upon occupying or holding all the possible offices and emoluments for which in the opinion of some of my friends I am a possible candidate this year. I am satisfied where I am. I am perfectly willing if the people of this county shall so decide to continue to the best of my ability to do the work where the people have placed me.

"Most offices, all offices which are elective offices in this city are important offices, and the work falling to the lot of those elected to these offices is important. No work is more important than the work performed by our Judges in the highest and lowest courts. I appreciate the spirit which has prompted the utterances to which you have listened, but I would not for a moment minimize the work which has been done and is being done by the men in my office. I have not done all that has been done there. There are fifty men who have been laboring just as faithfully as myself, and I accept all the praise that has been uttered here to-night in behalf of not only myself but for those other men laboring with me."

Mr. Whitman then told of his early bringing up in a Presbyterian parsonage, and how his early training had helped him later in his life. He paid a tribute to Justice Mulqueen. "I remember," he said, "how he called the Grand Jury together and sat away into the night when it seemed especially necessary that we should meet that night, and I remember that it was due to him in a very large degree that we were able to bring what has since been regarded as the most important indictment which has been brought in this county for many years, and it is a pleasure to acknowledge that obligation to Judge Mulqueen."

In referring to the police he said: "It is not even true, notwithstanding what has been said, that any of our policemen are crooks, or that all of our public officials are dishonest. They are not. The vast majority of them want things right. The vast majority of our policemen are honest, and want to lead honest lives, and it is our duty to make conditions such that they can live clean and upright lives."

Letters of regret were received from Ex-President Taft, Gov. Sulzer and Supreme Court Justice Hughes, in which the writers said that Mr. Whitman was deserving of a dinner in his honor.

GREY TO VISIT BERLIN.

Foreign Secretary to Accompany King George to Germany.

LONDON, Thursday, April 17.—The British Foreign Secretary, Sir Edward Grey, will, says The Daily Express, accompany the King to Berlin on the occasion of the wedding of Princess Victoria Luise, daughter of the German Emperor.

This will be Sir Edward's first official visit abroad, and, as the Russian Emperor is also expected in Berlin, the occasion may have political significance.

Fitting Square Pegs Into Square Holes

The manufacturer or wholesaler to whose business Bush Terminal is adapted enjoys facilities, conveniences and economies not possible anywhere else, and which give him a big advantage over competitors less favorably situated. Our plans were based on a careful study of the needs of the average successful manufacturer or distributor, and were carried out with such success that we already have some two hundred satisfied tenants.

No part of our organization or policy is designed to persuade people to become tenants at Bush Terminal. Our purpose is to make its advantages known to those concerns who would profit by locating here. If there are peculiar or unusual conditions in the business of any prospective tenant which might make this location an unsuitable one, we seek to discover and point them out.

To provide against any possibility of mistake, we insert a clause in the lease to the effect that

"IF FOR ANY REASON WHATSOEVER A TENANT IS NOT SATISFIED HE MAY, DURING THE FIRST YEAR, CANCEL IT AT THE END OF ANY MONTH."

COOLEY SEES FRIEDMANN.

Former New York Lawyer Comes from Mexico for Treatment.

Special to The New York Times.

PROVIDENCE, April 16.—Alford W. Cooley, formerly a resident of New York and once Assistant Attorney General, who now holds a Government post in Mexico, visited Dr. Friedmann to-night, and will receive the vaccine treatment to-morrow. Mr. Cooley, accompanied by his wife, arrived in this city about 6 o'clock. They traveled from Mexico in a private car with Lars Anderson, Mrs. Cooley and Mrs. Anderson being close friends.

Theodore Roosevelt had arranged for Mr. Cooley to meet Dr. Friedmann and the visitor went from the home of Senator R. Livingston Beeckman to the office of Dr. W. G. Dwinnell, where he met the German doctor. After an examination of Mr. Cooley Dr. Friedmann said he would apply the treatment to-morrow.

Dr. Friedmann was reticent to-day about the communication sent to him by the Government physicians who are to pass on his treatment.

"I am going back to New York on Friday," he said, "and shall go from there to Canada. The purpose of both of these visits is to administer the second treatments. I am doing this according to my own method, not according to what some other physician thinks should be done."

By Way of Dr. Johnson

¶ Dr. Samuel Johnson, that sonorous singer in prose, said that description only excites curiosity, but that seeing satisfies it.

¶ The trouble is that men, unlike women, will not always take the trouble to satisfy their curiosity.

¶ But, on the other hand, once a man is satisfied with his clothes he is not easily induced to desert the house that makes them.

¶ And that is the big factor in this wonderful clothing business of ours—the wearers of Saks clothes stick to them like a limpet sticks to a rock.

¶ And the reason is, that Saks clothes are so palpably better than the average that the man who wears them simply refuses to exchange the certainty of satisfaction at Saks' for the uncertainties offered him elsewhere.

¶ He knows that Saks assortments are the most representative that brains and money can get together, and that whatever price he pays for a Saks garment, he is paying for that money can buy.

1,000-Foot Uptown Piers Planned by Dock Commissioner Smith.

NEW LONG PIER PLAN OUTLINED BY SMITH

1,000-Foot Structures Proposed for Foot of West 44th, 45th, and 46th Streets.

TOMKINS PLAN WITHDRAWN

Uptown Piers Can Be Built for $1,000,000 Each Less Than in the Downtown Section.

At a meeting of the Sinking Fund Commission yesterday permission was given to the Dock Department to withdraw the plan submitted by ex-Dock Commissioner Tomkins for long piers on the North River, between Forty-fourth and Forty-eighth Streets, and between Chambers and Desbrosses Streets, and R. A. C. Smith, the new Commissioner, announced that he would submit a new plan, whereby the city could begin work immediately on new piers at the foot of West Forty-fourth, Forty-fifth, and Forty-sixth Streets. In a letter to the Mayor and the Commissioners of the Sinking Fund, Commissioner Smith outlined his plans and gave his reasons for asking the change. The letter said:

"You have before you two plans for piers on the North River, submitted by the Commissioner of Docks—one on March 15, with estimates for construction of a 1,200-foot pier at the foot of West Forty-sixth Street, and a half-pier at the foot of West Forty-fourth Street, and on March 25, with estimate for constructing a pier between Chambers and Canal Streets, first pier to be located at the foot of Harrison Street.

"On April 30 I will submit to your board an estimate showing conclusively the feasibility of immediately beginning work for piers at the foot of West Forty-fourth, Forty-fifth, and Forty-sixth Streets, the cost of which for property and construction for a modern 1,000-foot pier is less than $3,000,000, as against a cost of over $4,000,000 for a modern 1,000-foot pier at the downtown section. Therefore, I respectfully request the withdrawal of the plan submitted on March 15.

"On April 10 I submitted a modified plan for piers at the foot of West Forty-fourth, Forty-fifth, and Forty-sixth Streets, a hearing on which will be held before the Commissioners of the Sinking Fund on April 20.

"I respectfully request that the plan for piers between Chambers and Canal Streets, submitted March 26, be withdrawn for the following reasons:

The first question to be considered in this plan is, what to do with tenants occupying piers in the Harrison Street section. These tenants are:

Erie Railroad Company; value of property to be eliminated, $2,000,000, with a lease till 1923; rental value, $154,000 per year.

Baltimore & Ohio Railroad; value of property to be eliminated, $1,000,000; rental value, $62,551 per year.

Pennsylvania Railroad Company; value of property to be eliminated, $3,000,000, with a lease till 1924; rental value, $148,532 per year.

In addition to these, there are the Albany Day Line, Old Dominion Steamship Company, and others, making a total of $11,250,000 of property to be eliminated, with a total rental value of $570,265 per year.

One pier, 980 feet long, foot of Jay Street, with slips 360 feet wide, and piers 150 feet wide, means the elimination of piers occupied by the Erie Railroad Company, West Shore Railroad Company, and the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad Company, a total of $3,000,000 of property to be eliminated; rental value, $183,558.34 per year. The above amounts do not include the cost of dredging and construction.

At the foot of North Moore Street, a 1,000-foot pier would mean the elimination of piers of the Old Dominion Steamship Company, with leases till 1930 and 1932; Central Hudson Steamboat Company, with lease till 1929, total property value to be eliminated, $3,000,000; rental value, $141,294 a year.

One modern pier in the north end of this section, just south of Desbrosses Street, would necessitate the removal of the Pennsylvania Railroad's provision and produce piers, eliminating property of $3,000,000 value, with a total rental value per year of $153,454. This would include, also, the elimination of the Albany Day Line.

"To this loss must be added the compensation to be paid these tenants for the value of their leases, and cannot at this time be calculated with any degree of certainty, if indeed such leases can be condemned by the city. I am informed that this question has never been adjudicated, and will doubtless be carried to the Court of Appeals, resulting in great delay, and may in the end be decided adversely.

"It must be taken into consideration that there is no place to provide for these carriers of foodstuffs for the daily needs of the city. Therefore, the plan is impossible of adoption.

"On April 30 I will make every endeavor to make as conclusive as possible the estimate for long piers uptown because of the National importance attached to the beginning of constructing such piers. The extensions in the Chelsea section, providing for protection for long steamships that may require berthing, are there only by courtesy of the War Department. That department is withholding its decision concerning the time these extensions may remain—until it is convinced by practical demonstration on the part of the city that it will make the proper provision I know it means to make."

At the meeting ex-Commissioner Tomkins urged that before the city should lay out a new plan for all or any part of the district between West Forty-fourth and West Fifty-sixth Streets it acquire the land under water between the street lines in this section. William E. Tierney of the New York Board of Trade and Transportation urged that the city construct long piers and use the piers already built in South Brooklyn for transatlantic liner service.

BRIDE AND 7 MEN PICKED UP AT SEA

Adrift in Little Boat for Twenty-four Hours After Abandoning Waterlogged Schooner.

WOMAN SANG TO CHEER MEN

Mate's Wife Also Helped Bale—Sharks Menaced Yawl—Freighter Georgian Prince Makes Rescue.

Arriving on the British freighter Georgian Prince yesterday, which came from Tuxpan, were Capt. J. C. James, Van Zant, the mate, and five men of the American schooner Lottie R. Russell, and Mrs. Van Zant, the mate's wife, who was on her wedding trip. They were rescued by the freighter from an open boat, in which the seven men and the woman had been drifting about for twenty-four hours after abandoning the waterlogged schooner on Sunday afternoon, seventy miles off Cape Henry.

In addition to the danger of having the frail craft swamped by the heavy seas for ten hours the party was menaced by the sharks which drift down toward the virginia coast with the Gulf Stream. The Georgian Prince came along on Monday afternoon. During the awful ordeal Mrs. Van Zant never flinched, Capt. James said yesterday, although she could see the fins of the big sharks above the surface of the water, and realized that the monsters were ready to seize them all if the boat capsized. All they had to drink or eat were some canned peaches.

"We sailed from Charleston on Friday," Capt. James said, "for Philadelphia, and on Saturday ran into a strong northerly gale that continued all day, and seas swept the decks of the schooner fore and aft. Late in the afternoon off Cape Lookout we sprang a leak, and all hands had to stand by the pumps and work hard to keep the vessel afloat. The galley was flooded and the provisions were all spoiled, and all we had that night was hardtack soaked in salt water. By 2 o'clock Sunday afternoon we were drifting helpless in the Gulf stream in a waterlogged condition, and I decided to abandon the schooner and take to the yawl. We got clear of the vessel and pulled away, while some of the crew baled out the boat. The mate's wife took her turn with the rest and insisted upon it. When she was not bailing the plucky woman sang old home songs to cheer the men along."

When the freighter was sighted Capt. James stood up in the stern of the yawl and waved his oilskin jacket to attract the attention of the officer on the bridge. He soon saw that the course had been altered to pick the yawl up. Capt. Durant of the Georgian Prince had the rescued crew made comfortable and gave Mrs. Van Zant a glass of water, which was the first thing she asked for.

The Lottie R. Russell was a three-masted schooner of 260 tons, built in 1895 and owned at Bridgeton, N. J., where the Captain and crew, including the mate's wife, live.

AIDS SON-IN-LAW TO DIVORCE

Dr. Lawrence Schoonover Brings Daughter's Confession to Court.

Dr. Lawrence Schoonover of 115 East Fifty-eighth Street appeared yesterday before Supreme Court Justice Giegerich and offered in evidence a confession of misconduct by his daughter, Mrs. Mattie Schoonover Parkhurst, defendant in a divorce suit brought by her husband, George W. Parkhurst of 201 East 108th Street. Dr. Schoonover said that his daughter, who had been married in 1890, had proved a dutiful wife until last Fall, when she ran away with a Capt. Jack McKenna.

He said that his efforts and her husband's had failed to persuade her to return home, and that she had signed the confession he handed to the court. Justice Giegerich announced that he would grant an interlocutory decree of divorce.

SAMUEL BLUM GETS DIVORCE

Charge of Kidnapping Against Him Likely to be Dismissed.

Samuel Blum, son of a wealthy merchant of Corona, who sued his wife, Mrs. Goldie Blum, for an absolute divorce on statutory grounds, and was indicted by a Queens County Grand Jury for having kidnapped his own son, on complaint of Mrs. Blum, obtained his divorce yesterday from Justice Scudder in the Queens County Supreme Court. Blum was married in January, 1907. A year ago he and his wife parted. Mrs. Blum obtained the custody of their three-year-old son, Eugene. She went to Liberty, N. Y., to live.

On a visit to see his son last Summer Blum did not like the stories he heard of Mrs. Blum's actions, so he brought the boy back with him to the home of his parents in Corona. He was followed by Mrs. Blum, who went before the Grand Jury and had him indicted under the new law which makes it a felony for a parent to kidnap a child which has been put by order of the court in the custody of either the father or mother. Blum was released on bail, and a few weeks ago the boy was found late at night sitting on the front porch of his grandparents' home, with a note pinned to his clothing asking that some one take care of him. It is thought that the charge of kidnapping against Blum will be dismissed.

—Two New Novels.—

THE SOJOURNER
By Robert D. Elder

A story of the West, with realistic descriptions of adventure and life, and a tender love story. The hero, a popular senior at Princeton and son of a multi-millionaire, had apparently a smooth way of life ahead of him. Yet fate and his own idealism led him into rough roads. A woman tried to wreck his life, and nearly succeeded.

THE WINGS OF PRIDE
By Louise Kennedy Mabie

"Fiction readers are all talking about Louise Kennedy Mabie, a new novelist, and her first book, 'The Wings of Pride.' The story is at once so human and so masterly in style that it promises great things from its writer for the future. It is a first novel of rare power."—Boston Globe.

GIRL WHO RAN AWAY RETURNS TO MOTHER

Lydia Steed, Tired of Going to School, Says She Went to Seek Missing Brother.

HOMESICK FOR HER FAMILY

Mother, Bereft of Two Children in a Month, Is Prostrated by Grief and Anxiety.

"I thought I might find Vincent," twelve-year-old Lydia Steed told her mother yesterday afternoon in explaining why she disappeared from her home at 752 Westchester Avenue, in the Bronx, on Monday morning. Her mother, Mrs. Raymond Steed, had been prostrated with grief, for Lydia was the second of her children to quit her home in a month. Four weeks ago to-day Vincent Steed, Lydia's fourteen-year-old brother, departed to earn his own living, leaving an affectionate note of farewell for his mother. He has not been seen since, nor has any trace of him been discovered by the police.

Lydia Steed has been active in the search made for her brother, to whom she was devotedly attached. She started an "endless chain" of postcard inquiries among her schoolmates at St. Anselm's Parochial School, asking for tidings of the missing boy. In the meantime the boy's father was making inquiries in Richmond Borough on the strength of this note left by his son:

> Dear Mother: Don't worry about me. I am on my way to Staten Island. Kiss the baby for me. VINCENT.

Last Monday morning Mrs. Steed quit her house to do some shopping, leaving Lydia to care for her younger brothers and sisters, of whom there are four. On her return she found that the girl had disappeared, and on the table in the dining room was this note:

> Dear Mamma: Forgive and forget me. I am going away. LYDIA.

The girl had quit the house without a hat or coat and attired in a gingham gown. The next day Mrs. Steed received this letter from her daughter, which bore the post-mark of Station J, and which had been mailed from West 125th Street:

> Dear Mamma: Forgive me if you can for running away. You will never see me again. I am with some Sisters, and I am going to live with them and leave the world. The world is a bad, sinful place, and I do not want to learn to know it. Give all the children my kisses. LYDIA.

Raymond Steed, the father of the two runaways, is a bartender. He has been forced to take a temporary leave of absence from his work to search for the boy. Mrs. Steed has been under the constant care of neighbors, who fear for her reason. While a reporter was talking to her yesterday afternoon one of the younger children ran into the house.

"Oh, mamma," cried the child, "Lydia has come home. She is across the street. Here is a letter she gave me for you."

Mrs. Steed almost collapsed as she seized the envelope and read this confession of penitence from the wanderer:

> Mamma, will you forgive me and let me come home. I am not tired, mamma, because I had a good rest, but I am afraid you will not forgive me. I could not stay away any longer from you or that dear little Francis and Carrie. Do not hit me, Mamma, for I have learned a little anyway of the world, and I know how it is to make your own living. I will do everything right if you will only forgive and forget everything that has passed, and I will start over again. Lovingly,
> LYDIA.

The reporter ran out of the house and captured the disheveled, frightened runaway, whose big eyes were swollen and red from crying. He led the little girl into the house and upstairs to her mother. The moment the girl caught sight of Mrs. Steed she jumped into her lap and hid her tousled head on her mother's shoulder. After the girl had recovered her composure she told this story of her wanderings:

"I was tired of going to school and I thought that I might be able to get work, but mostly I wanted to find Vincent. When mamma went out Monday morning I went to Vincent's bank and shook out a quarter that he had left in it when he went away. I got on the Subway and rode down to 125th Street and I got off. Then I walked over to Eighth Avenue and spent a nickel for some paper and an envelope and a stamp. Then I wrote and posted the letter about being with the Sisters and after that I walked as far as the 129th Street ferry to New Jersey. I got on the ferry and when I reached Fort Lee, I took a trolley car.

"The conductor kept coming around every once in a while for another fare, and after a while I had no more nickels, so I got off and walked. I walked to a house where there was a sign 'Girl Wanted,' and when I saw that I rang the bell. The lady's name was Mrs. Wolffe. She wanted some one to help her pack some trunks. She said that her husband was in Pittsburgh and that she was going to go there and join him. She had no children and the house was awful lonesome.

"I stayed with her all Monday night and helped her Tuesday and slept there that night, too. To-day she was moving and a big wagon came for her furniture to take it to the station. She gave me 35 cents and this new dress."

At this point in her narrative, Lydia indicated a blue dress which she was wearing and her mother cried out in astonishment:

"Why, Lydia, where is your own dress that you had on when you went away?"

"I have it on underneath this one," replied the child, lifting her skirt and revealing her old dress underneath the outer garment that she was wearing. Both Mrs. Steed and the reporter cross-examined the girl at considerable length, but she persisted that she was telling the truth and it was impossible to shake her story.

"I came home because I was lonesome for the babies and I knew my mamma would be worried to death about me," she explained.

PREFERRED SUICIDE TO JAIL.

Railroad Detective Tries to Kill Himself on the Way to a Cell.

Charged with having struck Mrs. Amelia Burbank of Mariners' Harbor, Patrick Hayes, a detective employed at the Richmond terminus of the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad, surrendered himself at the Court of Special Sessions, New Brighton, Staten Island, yesterday morning, confident that he would be released immediately, for he understood that Mrs. Burbank would refuse to prosecute. Although Mrs. Burbank refused to testify, and although Hayes himself said that he had struck her unintentionally, District Attorney Fach persisted in calling for further investigation, and reminded the court that Hayes was already under indictment for having attacked a crippled girl at Tottenville.

Hayes was much amazed to have counsel assigned to confer with him, but the lawyer, Frederick Mullin, had to withdraw, as Hayes would not talk to him, and finally the Judge ordered the case adjourned for a week. As Hayes had no bail, this meant a cell, and he threatened to "do for" the District Attorney as Detective Sergt. Lawson took him from the courtroom.

Although Hayes seemed to become more and more bitter, Lawson foresaw no trouble, and the two reached Richmond. While they were walking the block through the rain from the trolley to the county jail at Richmond Hayes whipped a revolver from his pocket and turned it on the detective. Some men coming down the steps of the court house near by shouted a warning. Their shout served to distract the aim and Lawson ducked just in time. Then, before he could grapple with his prisoner, Hayes put the revolver to his own head and fired. He is dying in the S. R. Smith Infirmary at New Brighton.

DR. HOPPIN FOUND AT GRAND UNION

Remembers Only Having Been Attacked by Pains in His Head in Street.

IN HOTEL SINCE MONDAY

Brother Says Physician's Trouble Was Caused by Sandbagging Assault a Year Ago.

Dr. Lewis Weston Hoppin, a physician of Swift Current, Saskatchewan, Canada, whose disappearance was reported on Monday to the police, was found yesterday in a room at the Grand Union Hotel. For almost forty-eight hours Dr. Hoppin had been the victim of a loss of memory, while his bride of two months, with whom he had come to the city, was looking for him in various institutions.

The room in which Dr. Hoppin woke up at 9 o'clock yesterday morning was as strange to him as the view which he got from his window. He found himself on a bed, fully dressed. It was not until he inquired of the clerk that he learned he was at the Grand Union Hotel and that he had registered there last Monday morning. Slowly his memory returned and he looked about him in vain for two hand bags with which he had come to the city. He asked about his wife, but no one knew what he was talking about. His wallet he found in his coat pocket, unmolested.

Then the clerk decided that the strange patron might be Dr. Hoppin. He got into communication with John J. Hoppin, a lawyer of Newark, who had been mentioned in the newspapers as the Canadian physician's brother. Mr. Hoppin soon appeared at the hotel, identified the confused man as his brother, and straightened out the peculiar case.

Dr. Hoppin left his wife and several other friends at 10:30 A. M. on Monday to keep an appointment with a specialist in West Thirtieth Street. It was arranged that the party should meet for luncheon. Dr. Hoppin, when he left to visit the specialist, carried two hand bags. These he checked at the Grand Central Station. While walking down Fifth Avenue he remembered that he had forgotten something and he returned to the Grand Central Station to get the article out of one of the hand bags.

John J. Hoppin took up the story at this point yesterday.

"My brother told me," said Mr. Hoppin, "that while he was approaching the Grand Central Station he suddenly suffered intense pains in the head. He knew that he must lie down somewhere and he ran for the Grand Union Hotel nearby, where he was kindly treated and put to bed. His pains were so intense that he evidently did not take time to undress. It must have been about 11:30 A. M. when he suffered the attack on Monday. What happened between that time and 9 o'clock this morning is more than I know. It is more than likely that my brother did not recover consciousness during that time.

"My brother has been subject to attacks of aphasia, or whatever it may be, ever since he was sandbagged in Kingston, Ontario, last March. The blow on the head also caused some trouble with his ear. It was largely due to the pain in his head that he came to New York to consult a specialist. On his way to New York he was much annoyed by these pains. He arrived here with his wife last Friday and from Friday to Monday he had slept only about six hours. That, of course, accounts for his long sleep at the hotel.

"Checks for the handbags were in my brother's pocket, and the baggage was found. All his money and papers were found just as they were on Monday. The hotel people were unusually kind to my brother."

It was said last night that Dr. Hoppin was resting at his brother's home in South Orange. His wife, it was said, who had become very much unnerved by the doctor's disappearance, had recovered from her shock. The couple will remain for a few weeks so that Dr. Hoppin may have treatment by specialists. Then they will return to their home in Swift Current, Saskatchewan.

To Honor Memory of Strauses.

The Isidor Straus Battalion of the American Boy Scouts, which gave a military entertainment and drill at the Forty-seventh Regiment Armory, in Brooklyn, not long ago, will hold memorial services on Sunday, April 20, in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Isidor Straus and the others who died on the Titanic. The boys of the Isidor Straus Battalion collected much money for the benefit of the Indiana and Ohio flood sufferers.

Accuses His Actress Wife.

Justice Putnam heard yesterday in the Brooklyn Supreme Court the action for divorce brought by George Doan Russell, a Manhattan lawyer, against his actress wife, Bertha Noss Russell. Harry Roquemore, a leading character in the "Forty-five Minutes from Broadway" company, was named as the co-respondent. Justice Putnam reserved decision.

Dr. Wilfred T. Grenfell's Great Work

LABRADOR
THE COUNTRY AND THE PEOPLE
BY
WILFRED T. GRENFELL, C.M.G., M.D. (Oxon.), and Others

During the three years which have passed since the first edition of this work appeared, the development of Labrador has proceeded more rapidly than in the preceding twenty-five years.

The change has been so important that the celebrated arctic missionary doctor and author, with the call for another edition, has revised and enlarged the book to present this new aspect of the future prospects and increasing importance of the country.

Supplementary articles by visiting scientists of high standing complete the most authoritative and interesting work on this fascinating region of North America.

The LONDON-ORIENTAL RUG FAIR

Is Clearly the Oriental Rug Event of the Year In Quality, Diversity and Economy

Every famous branch of the Oriental Rug family is richly represented. Most sensational is our purchase, in the London Custom House, of a superb collection from Constantinople and India, on which the consignee had to raise money quickly, and which he consequently sold to us at amazingly low prices.

Connoisseurs will revel in the beauty and variety of these Rugs, which we have gathered by months of patient effort wherever we could find the RIGHT KIND, coupled with a sufficiently low price.

We can only mention some of the more important lots, and specimen sizes and prices. There are in the collection Rugs for every room in your home:

INDIA CARPETS

About 9 x 12 ft., at $87.50; usually $150 to $200.

Others from 4 x 7 ft., at $18.50, to 10 x 14 ft., at $115.

PUSHMENA CARPETS, $2.10 Square Foot

The lowest price ever on these fine Rugs. Inferior grades now sell at $5 a square foot. 200 knots in every square inch; fine Herati and Iran designs. Sizes from 6 ft. 1 in. x 6 ft. 3 in., at $75, to 11 ft. x 11 ft. 5 in., at $350.

FINE TURKISH CARPETS, 75c Square Foot

Usually $1.50 sq. ft. for this grade. Principally in wide reds and greens, plain effects. Average size 10 x 14 ft. Very exceptional.

THESE OTHER NOTABLE GROUPS

Ghorevan Carpets, about 10 x 14 ft., at $125, usually $300.

Chinese Rugs—a magnificent collection, including originals, as well as Turkish and Persian reproductions.

Hearth-size Rugs, in a great variety, including $35 Kirmanshahs, at $22.50.

Sarouk Rugs, 3 x 5 ft. to 4 ft. x 6 ft. 6 in., at $20 to $38.50, usually $40 to $75.

Daghestan, Shirvan and Kabistan Rugs, small sizes, at $12.50 to $25, including many worth double.

Bokhara, Afghan and Beluchistan Rugs, specially priced at $9.75 to $55.

Mosul Rugs, of good quality, special, $16.50 and $22.50.

Hall Runners, about 3 ft. 2 in. x 12 ft., at $22.50, usually $35 and more.

These Rugs are shown in a superb presentation on the Main and Sixth Floors.

Q.—Why do Mortgages yield a higher rate with safety than any other investment?

A.—Because, being worth at all times face and interest, in other words, not being subject to fluctuations, no quick market has been developed for them, so that they are not immediately convertible.

Q.—Is not a good Mortgage salable?

A.—Yes, but only after investigation as to the title to the property, the genuineness of the signatures, the character and value of the real estate, and the strength of the borrower.

A word of interest to Trained Nurses and their friends.

The Old Country Doctor

was a genial old soul with his ready smile, his ruddy cheeks, brisk manner and quiet humor. In times of sickness how eagerly we listened for the hoof-beats of his faithful old horse as the old Doctor clattered up the gravel drive, his saddle-bags bursting with pills and potions, and his funny old watch, 'most as big as a saucer, already in his hand, to count the pulse beats of the waiting patient

Very conscientious was that good old doctor, but his watch was not. It did not time the pulse beats absolutely accurately, because this is not possible with the ordinary watch. At certain points it gains or loses a fraction of a second—it is not, and cannot be, because of its diminutiveness, right to the fraction of a second. Because this is true, the nurse or doctor who makes an art of this work, uses a Pulse Watch, (called also Doctors' or Nurses' Watch) a neat little instrument with a free moving, absolutely accurate second hand placed on the dial just as the minute and second hand. The length of this hand makes it easily read in darkened rooms or dim lights.

Pulse Watches are made with fine Swiss movements, 7 to 15 jewels, gun metal, silver, gold-filled or 14 karat gold cases, in Nurses' or Doctors' sizes. Plain styles or fitted in neat seal, suede or pigskin wrist-bands which are convenient, simple and attractive. Movements especially adapted to withstand sudden changes of temperature, rapid or violent motion and constant change of plane.

Prices range from $7.34 for small gun metal style to $41.75 for 14-k. Swiss watch attached to solid gold link bracelet.

TO TRY SWEENEY AID TO-DAY FOR BRIBERY

Mr. Whitman Will Have Four Assistants' Help for Prosecution of Robinson.

TANCREDI THE STAR WITNESS

Three ex-Inspectors to Appear at Trial to Plead to Conspiracy Charge.

Patrolman Thomas F. Robinson, who was known about Harlem as ex-Inspector Dennis Sweeney's "getter," will be put on trial before Justice Seabury in the Criminal Branch of the Supreme Court at 10:30 o'clock this morning. Robinson is charged with both bribery and extortion.

So much importance is attached to the case in the District Attorney's office that a formidable array of legal wit has been selected for the prosecution. Mr. Whitman, of course, will have chief supervision over the case. Assistant District Attorney Clark will make the opening address, and Assistant District Attorney Moss will sum up. Assisting Mr. Whitman in the cross-examination of Robinson's witnesses will be Assistants Clark, Moss, Groehl, and Embrey. Robinson will be represented by Harry Kopp of 160 Broadway and by William Goldzier of 115 Broadway. The trial will probably last two days.

The chief witness against Robinson will be Luigi Tancredi, proprietor of a café at 109 East 125th Street, which is in the district formerly commanded by ex-Capt. Walsh. Tancredi told the Grand Jury on Feb. 17 that Robinson had collected $50 from him on Sept. 3, 1912, that amount constituting the regular monthly protection money. The corroborative witness was "Spaghetti Jake" Negro, a waiter in Tancredi's café. The patrolman was indicted for bribery a few days later and pleaded not guilty. On Feb. 20 another count was found against him, this time for bribery and extortion. In this case also Tancredi and Negro were the witnesses against Robinson.

When Patrolman Robinson was seen in Harlem recently he protested that he was innocent, but that he knew he was going to get the worst of it "from Whitman."

"A cop has no chance in this town," he said.

"And that is exactly the opinion of his lawyer," said Mr. Kopp.

"We have public sentiment against us," continued Robinson's lawyer. "It is perfectly plain to see that we can't expect a fair trial with this great barrier staring us in the face. I have nothing against Mr. Whitman. He's a friend of mine and he's all right, but the odds are against us when the whole of New York County is prejudiced in matters concerning the police."

Mr. Kopp was asked why he did not apply for a change of venue for his client.

"Didn't they try that for Hyde?" he replied. "What's the use? Hyde had 300 affidavits and it didn't do any good. Robinson didn't furnish his lawyers with enough money to go around looking for 300 affidavits.

"Just to show you how the odds are against us, let me recite an illustration. I went to-day to the Court of Special Sessions to get the records of the case against Tancredi when he was sentenced to the workhouse. They told me at the court that the records were in the District Attorney's office. I saw Assistant District Attorney Groehl and he said I could have the records. After Mr. Groehl had had a conversation with Assistant District Attorneys, Moss, Clark, and Weller, however, he came and told me that I couldn't have the records. He said that stenographers were copying from the records, and that it would be impossible for me to take a look at them."

When asked whether Robinson might not confess at the last minute, as Ashley Shea, the gambler, had done, Mr. Kopp replied:

"Robinson is innocent. I am convinced of that. There is not the possibility of a chance that he will change his plea."

An unusual incident in the trial will be the appearance before Justice Seabury of Ex-Inspectors Murtha, Hussey and Thompson to plead to indictments charging conspiracy to defeat the ends of justice. Thompson and Hussey were arraigned on Tuesday, but asked for a postponement until to-day. Murtha was arraigned on Monday and asked for a postponement until yesterday. When arraigned yesterday, however, he again asked for a postponement until to-day. This move, in itself, was considered most striking in view of the persistent rumors that Murtha had weakened, and that he was about to confess to the District Attorney.

Sweeney will be saved the embarrassment of looking into the faces of the twelve jurymen who will hold in their hands the fate of one of the men accused of collecting for him. Sweeney was arraigned on Monday and immediately entered his plea of not guilty. Hussey, Thompson and Murtha, like Sweeney, are intimately acquainted with Robinson.

Although technically a patrolman, Robinson never wore a uniform while associated with Sweeney. He was the head of the squad which kept a lookout over the disorderly women in the streets of Harlem. When the graft exposures were first made public Commissioner Waldo transferred Robinson to another precinct, where he was forced to do patrol duty. Following his indictment the Commissioner suspended Robinson.

Justice Platzek yesterday refused the application of the Baltic Hotel Company, owner of the Hotel Avenel, formerly run by George A. Sipp, for an order restraining Commissioner Waldo from stationing policemen in the hotel to warn prospective patrons of its disorderly character. The hotel men asserted that they were losing $6,000 a month because of the police interference.

LIEUT. REAP RETIRED.

Only One Detective Trained by Byrnes Now Left on Force.

Commissioner Waldo yesterday announced the retirement from the police force of Lieut. Detective Michael J. Reap of the Central Office Squad, one of the detectives who was a pupil of former Inspector Byrnes. Lieut. Reap retired at his own request, and will receive an annual pension of $1,125.

There remains on the detective force only one of the old school of detectives trained by Byrnes. He is Capt. "Jimmy" Dunn. Lieut. Reap was appointed to the force in 1883. He won his first honors twenty-three years ago while a patrolman on the Bowery. At that time the "Unger trunk" case was baffling the detectives of the country. Unger murdered his business partner and sent the dismembered body to Baltimore in a trunk. Patrolman Reap found the clue which led to Unger's arrest and conviction. Reap was made a detective for his work on the case.

1,000 SEE OPENING OF HALL OF HEALTH

"MOVIES" AID WAR ON DIRT

Bad Conditions Due to Indifference, Mrs. Hewitt Tells National History Museum Audience.

The city Spring cleaning campaign, inaugurated some time ago by Health Commissioner Lederle, with the indorsement of practically all the civic organizations of New York, received fresh support at a meeting held last night at the Museum of Natural History.

The audience numbered more than 1,000 persons, and received with marked enthusiasm the announcement of Commissioner Lederle that he was now ready to begin the second stage of the campaign, the educating of the people at large as to the value of the clean-up movement and the preparing of the householders for the arrival of the force of cleaners, following the appropriation of $37,000 by the Board of Estimate for the thorough renovation of the city.

Prof. Henry Fairfield Osborn, President of the museum, told of the part the museum was to take in the instruction of the public through the Public Hall of Health, opened for the first time last evening under the direction of Prof. C. E. A. Winslow, curator of the museum's department of public health.

In opening the meeting Prof. Osborn said:

"Has it ever occurred to you that among other inventions man is the inventor of dirt? The part that the museum can play is to furnish visual teaching, first of the perfect way in which nature, when there is a temporary deposit of what might be classed as dirt, like a decaying carcass or pile of excrement, with its army of scavengers makes a complete clean-up in short time, and second, of the clumsy way in which man does it. The contrast is really between the work of God and the work of man.

"It is curious how long it takes man to treat his fellow-men as he treats his animals. It is cruel to bring children into the world predestined to disease and suffering, hence eugenics. It is cruel to bring into our country the kind of people who will produce children like these, cruel, I mean, to those already here, hence the survey of immigration. It is cruel to bring up children in an unclean environment, hence this great city campaign. As New York goes, so goes the nation in politics. It is also the case in civics. This great city is also the centre of intense local patriotism and public spirit, and to-night we are to see some of its best manisfestations, both among those who speak and those who support the movement by their presence here."

Citizens' Support Needed.

"The most efficient Health Department and Street Cleaning Department in the world," said Commissioner Lederle, "could not effectually clean up New York City and keep it clean without the thorough-going support of the citizens. If we were going to prevent violations of the Sanitary Code by sheer force of authority we would have to keep a policeman in front of every house twenty-four hours of the day. We have laws enough and authority enough, but if we atempted to clean up the city by official authority we would keep the courts full of violation cases, and cause endless confusion and resentment. That is why we are asking the citizens' organizations to help us carry the evangel of cleanliness into every home and place of business in this city for the sake of health and decency.

"We hope to accomplish four things: First, to get the city physically clean; second, to make a decided reduction in the deathrate of the city; third, to so educate the public that they will never let the city get dirty again as is is now; and fourth, to establish eventually, by changes in the present regulations and perhaps by co-operation with permanent citizens' organizations for that purpose, a permanent cleau-up campaign."

Commissioner Lederle then had a number of lantern slides thrown on the screen, showing actual conditions found throughout the city by the Inspectors of the Health Department, such as air-shafts clogged with rubbish, basements filled with rotting accumulations, the sale of exposed food in the streets, and mosquito-breeding places. He made a special plea for the babies of the city, among whom, he said, the rate of infant mortality could be greatly reduced by the elimination of bad food, foul air, and unclean surroundings.

"We must enlist the voluntary aid of the people themselves," said Commissioner Lederle. "We cannot walk into a house and clean it whether the people want it or not, but we can show them so plainly why it should be done that they will be the first to lend us every aid in their power."

Dirt Due to Indifference.

Mrs. Edward R. Hewitt, President of the Woman's Municipal League, said that unsanitary conditions could not exist here if the people were not indifferent. To her mind, the women were to blame for the indifference of the men, and she called on those in her presence to begin a campaign of cleanliness at home. She added that American girls should know how to market, and know when a market is clean, so that she could impress the butcher, and the grocer as well, with the fact that he would have to keep his place clean to retain his customers.

"We should all be aware of the fact that it is incumbent on the wife to enforce the law in the household," added Mrs. Hewitt. "If she will only make the man a little uncomfortable, he will always be law-abiding."

Following an address by Prof. Winslow and motion pictures, the meeting was adjourned to the Hall of Health, where a reception was held, and where was seen for the first time the gigantic model of the house fly, prepared by the Museum during the last year, with other specimens dealing with the relation of insects to the spreading of disease.

Some of the guests on the platform were Dr. Josephine Baker, Department of Health; Prof. Charles Baskerville, City College; Dr. C. Ward Crampton, Dr. N. E. Ditman, Dr. Livingston Farrand, Secretary National Association for the Prevention of Tuberculosis; J. T. Fetherston, Dr. Simon Flexner, J. H. Fuertes, Edward aHtch, Jr., Rudolph Hering, Dr. Walter B. James, J. A. Kingsbury, Dr. L. L. Seaman, Dr. G. A. Soper, Felix M. Warburg, and Prof. George C. Whipple.

RESINOL SOAP
FOR THE SKIN AND COMPLEXION

A toilet soap that helps your skin and hair

ANY soap will clean your skin—a five-cent bar of laundry soap will do if you do not care what becomes of your complexion.

But you know that laundry soap contains harsh, drying alkali that would ruin your skin and hair, so you never think of using it.

Many toilet soaps contain this same injurious alkali, though in less degree. Even wonderfully scented imported soaps, for which women pay three and four dollars a cake, are not free from it. A French scientist says the average is 4½% free alkali.

Resinol Soap, costing but 25 cents a cake, contains absolutely no free alkali, but to it are added the Resinol balsams. These give it a wholesome, refreshing odor, and soothing, antiseptic properties which tend to prevent skin irritations, to clear the complexion, and to keep the hair rich and lustrous.

There is no artificial coloring matter in Resinol Soap. Its rich coppery brown is entirely due to the Resinol balsams.

You will find Resinol Soap wherever toilet goods are sold. For guest-room size cake, free, write Dept. 5-F, Resinol, Baltimore, Md.

Can't Get Away From It

Is it possible to nourish, strengthen and rebuild the Brain by Food?

Every man who thinks uses up part of the brain each day. Why doesn't it all disappear and leave an empty skull in, say, a month of brain work? Because the man rebuilds each day.

If he builds a little less than he destroys, brain fag and nervous prostration result sure. If he builds back a little more each day, the brain grows stronger and more capable. That also is sure. Where does man get the material to rebuild his brain? Is it from air, sky or the ice of the Arctic sea? When you come to think about it, the material must be in the food and drink.

That also is sure.

Are the brain rebuilding materials found in all food? In a good variety, but not in suitable proportion in all.

To illustrate: we know bones are made largely of lime and magnesia taken from food; therefore to make healthy bone structure we must have food containing these things. We would hardly feed only sugar and fat to make healthy bone structure in a growing child.

If we desired to keep brain strong and healthy we would use food known to contain the things Nature uses for the purpose.

True, Nature provides these elements in a variety of edible things. We submit the following facts for those who care to know something definite on the subject:

Analysis of brain by an unquestionable authority, Geoghegan, shows of Mineral Salts, Phosphoric Acid and Potash Combined (Phosphate of Potash), 2.91 per cent of the total, 5.33 of all mineral Salts.

This is over one-half.

Beaunis, another authority, shows "Phosphoric Acid combined" and Potash 73.44 per cent from a total of 101.07. Considerable more than one-half of Phosphate of Potash.

Analysis of Grape-Nuts shows Potassium and Phosphorus (which join and make Phosphate of Potash) are considerable more than one-half of all the mineral salts in the food.

Dr. Geo. W. Carey, an authority on the constituent elements of the body, says: "The gray matter of the brain is controlled entirely by the inorganic cell-salt, Potassium Phosphate (Phosphate of Potash). This salt unites with albumen and by the addition of oxygen creates nerve fluid or the gray matter of the brain. Of course, there is a trace of other salts and other organic matter in nerve fluid, but Potassium Phosphate is the chief factor and has the power within itself to attract, by its own law of affinity, all things needed to manufacture the elixir of life."

Further on he says: "The beginning and end of the matter is to supply the lacking principle, and in molecular form, exactly as Nature furnishes it in vegetables, fruits and grain. To supply deficiencies—this is the only law of cure."

The natural conclusion is that if Phosphate of Potash is the needed mineral element in brain and you use food which does not contain it, you have brain fag because its daily loss is not supplied.

On the contrary, if you eat food known to be rich in this element, you place before the life forces that which Nature demands for brain building.

Mind does not work well on a brain that is broken down by lack of nourishment.

A peaceful and evenly poised mind is necessary to good digestion.

Worry, anxiety, fear, hate, etc., etc., directly interfere with or stop the flow of Ptyalin, the digestive juice of the mouth, and also interfere with the flow of the digestive juice of stomach and pancreas.

Therefore, the mental state of the individual has much to do (more than suspected) with digestion.

Brain is made of Phosphate of Potash as the principal Mineral Salt, added to albumen and water.

Grape-Nuts contain that element as more than one-half of all its mineral salts.

We must remember that nearly 95% of the brain is composed of water and albumen, but the little worker Phosphate of Potash must be present in order to blend the more bulky materials into useable form.

So with Grape-Nuts. The Phosphate of Potash is more than one-half of all the mineral salts, but the total volume of those elements is exceedingly small as compared with the greater bulk of other food elements contained in Grape-Nuts.

We should also remember that this small ingredient should not be put into the food in the form it might come from a chemist, because man cannot produce these elements in as digestible a form as Old Mother Nature, when she puts them in the wheat and barley from which Grape-Nuts is made.

A healthy brain is important, if one would "do things" in this world.

A man who sneers at "Mind" sneers at the best and least understood part of himself. That part which some folks believe links us to the Infinite.

Mind asks for a healthy brain upon which to act, and Nature has defined a way to make a healthy brain and renew it day by day as it is used up from work of the previous day.

Nature's way to rebuild is by the use of food which supplies the things required. Brain rebuilding material is certainly found in a very natural and perfect form in

Grape-Nuts

RECALL THREATENS LIBERTY, SAYS ROOT

Constitution Rests on Individual Rights, and These the Laws Guarantee.

COURTS MUST REVIEW LAWS

Fear of Recall Would Make Judges Timid—Constitutional Change Now Possible.

Special to The New York Times.

PRINCETON, N. J., April 16.—In the course of his second lecture in Alexander Hall, Princeton University, to-night upon "The Essentials of the Constitution," Senator Root declared that the fundamental doctrine of the Constitution is the importance of individual liberty.

"The ancient republics," he said, "placed the State first and regarded the individual only as a member of the State. They never escaped from the attitude toward public and individual rights, dictated by the necessity of military organization and defense. The Anglo-Saxon idea, on the other hand, looked first to the individual. So, when a century and a half after the Conquest the barons of England set themselves to limit the power of the Crown, they asserted the rights of individual freedom, and laid the foundation stone of our system of government in this solemn pledge of the Great Charter:

> No freeman shall be taken or imprisoned or be disseized of his freehold or his liberties or his free customs or be outlawed or exiled or otherwise destroyed but by the lawful judgment of his peers or by the law of the land.

"It is impossible," Senator Root went on, "to overestimate the importance of the consequences which followed from these two distinct theories of government. The one gave us the dominion, but also the decline and fall of Rome. The tremendous potency of the other subdued the victorious Normans to the conquered Saxon's conception of justice, rejected the claims of divine right by the Stuarts, and supplied the amazing formative power, which has molded, according to the common law, the thought and custom of the hundred millions of men who inhabit this continent north of the Rio Grande."

After reviewing in detail the rights of the individual as guaranteed in the Constitution, Senator Root referred to the fact that just as the Magna Charta imposed limitations upon the Crown and to ensure the rights of the individual, so the Constitution imposes limitations upon the powers of the sovereign people and excludes all the agencies of popular government from authority to impair the rights of the individual.

Thus Senator Root argued against the theory of the initiative and referendum, holding that legislation under such a system would be subject to momentary impulses, passions or prejudices.

"If there be no general rules which control particular action," he remarked, "general principles are obscured by the impulses of the occasion. If governmental authority is to be controlled by rules of action, it cannot be relied upon to impose those rules upon itself at the time of action, but must have them prescribed beforehand."

Senator Root then defended the right of the courts to review laws, because it is only in the courts that their actual workings as regards the individual can be ascertained. If the constitutional rights of an individual are menaced under a statute that statute cannot stand unchallenged. The courts, the speaker asserted, do not render decisions like imperial rescripts, declaring laws valid or invalid. They merely render judgment on the rights of litigants in particular cases, and in so doing they refuse to give effect to statutes, which they find are not made in pursuance to the Constitution.

Senator Root then assailed the recall of judges and judicial decisions:

"It has been proposed," he said, "that if a specified proportion of the voters are dissatisfied with a judge's decision they may require that at the next election, or at a special election, the question shall be presented to the electors whether the judge shall be permitted to continue in office. This ordeal differs radically from the popular judgment which a judge is called upon to meet at the end of his term, however short that may be, because when his term has expired he is judged upon his general course of conduct, as a whole.

"Under the Recall judges will naturally be afraid to render unpopular decisions. They will hear and decide cases with a stronger incentive to avoid condemnation themselves than to do justice to the litigant or the accused. Instead of independent and courageous judges, we shall have timid and time-serving judges."

The recall of judicial decisions, Senator Root said, aims directly at the same result, as it would permit a majority of the voters to choose not to be bound by a rule of the Constitution. The exercise of such a power would strike at the very foundations of our Government, as it would deprive individuals of their rights at the whim of a majority, and democratic absolutism is just as repulsive and just as fatal to the rights of individual manhood as monarchial despotism.

In conclusion, Senator Root observed that the recall of judicial decisions is not necessary in order to obtain popular reforms which may appear unconstitutional, because there is already a method prescribed for amending the Constitution.

"The difference between the proposed practice of over-riding the Constitution by a vote and amending it by a vote is vital," he asserted. "It is the difference between breaking a rule and making a rule; between acting without any rule in a particular case and determining what ought to be the rule of action applicable to all cases."

MALCOM ESTATE $291,605.

Of This Valuation, $216,301 Came from Firm of Malcom & Coombe.

George Ide Malcom, a member of the stock brokerage firm of Malcom & Coombe, who committed suicide by jumping from a steamer in Long Island Sound on Oct. 2, 1910, left a net estate of $291,605.44, according to the appraisal of Solomon Golenkranz, which was filed yesterday. His contribution toward the capital of the firm was $300,000, which included a New York Stock Exchange seat valued in the appraisal at $75,000.

The firm of Malcom & Coombe made a settlement to the estate of $216,301.55 exclusive of the Exchange membership, and of this amount $35,000 was for the good will of the firm, although there was an affidavit attached to the appraisal which said that by his suicide he had destroyed the good will. The entire estate passed by the will to his wife, Mrs. Beulah A. B. Malcom.

MARSHALL RE-WARNS RICH.

Says Wealthy Men Indorse His Views of Swollen Fortune Dangers.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 16.—Vice President Marshall's speech last Saturday in New York, when he said that unless the accumulation of enormous private fortunes came to an end Socialism would result, has brought to him many letters of approval. Mr. Marshall said to-day that he was not expressing his own ideas, but the views of men of all classes as he had heard them in his travels through the country.

"I am an American," said the Vice President. "I would go down into a ditch and shake the hand of a poor man, but I would also be glad to shake the hand of a rich man. We are all brothers. My only thought has been that the men in power should know what the rest of the people are saying, and I merely repeat what has been said to me. If the men of wealth consult their consciences about their business they would not have to worry so much about the law.

"Men of judgment," he went on to say, "have told me that they believed a proposition could be submitted to the people by which all estates over and above an exemption limit of $100,000 should revert to the State, it would be carried two to one."

The Vice President reviewed the various arguments that had been used to defend protective tariff laws since the civil war. The country, he said, was tired of a system for which an entirely different argument was advanced every four years.

"Men are asking," he said, "whether there is any difference between the manufacturer who comes to the Government asking for help in his business and the poor man who goes to the workhouse asking for help. The question is being asked why the Government should be expected to guarantee profits to the manufacturer when it does not guarantee the difference in cost of food at home and abroad to the consumer and an extra dollar for a rainy day.

"The complaint is not against the honest accumulation of wealth, but the gathering in of money without working for it. There are many evils that cannot be reached by statutes, but men are saying that the danger is that if strong men do not consult their consciences instead of their lawyers when they are thinking of driving a competitor out of business, the people will take the matter into their own hands and go to the extreme remedy."

CUTS OFF HIS DAUGHTERS.

W. L. Radford Says in His Will They Were Ungrateful to Him.

The will of William L. Radford, a real estate broker who died on March 28, leaving property said to be worth "more than $10,000 in realty and more than $100 personalty," was filed for probate yesterday in the Surrogates' office. In giving $10,000 to Burlock E. Rabell the testator says: "In making this gift to my friend I do so knowing that my wife is already amply provided for and that my children will be well taken care of by my wife."

The rest of the estate is put in trust. The income of one-third of it goes to his wife, Mrs. Annie B. Radford, for her life or until she remarries, and the income from the other two-thirds goes to his daughters, Mary Amelie Christie and Annie C. Radford. In regard to the third daughter the will says: "I have made no provision for my daughter, Mrs. Maie Radford Becker Burtis, for the reason that she has been ungrateful to me."

By a codicil which was added to the will on July 29, 1910, his daughter, Mrs. Annie C. Radford Watts, was cut off with $100 and under the codicil Mrs. Maie Radford Becker Burtis obtained the same amount. The testator said he took this action because these daughters were "ungrateful and disrespectful to me."

COL. T. M. CANTON'S WILL.

Made on Wilson's Inauguration Day—Wife Residuary Legatee.

Col. Thomas M. Canton, a retired lawyer and civil war veteran, who died on March 13, made out his will on March 4, and wrote beneath the date, "Wilson's Inauguration Day."

The document, which was filed in the Surrogates' office yesterday, disposes of an estate of "over $10,000 realty and over $30,000 personalty," his wife, Minnie M. Canton, being made residuary legatee, and the military commissions, sword, and uniform being left to his nephew, the Rev. Thomas F. Myhan, pastor of St. Ann's Church. The Rev. Mr. Myhan also received $500 for the use of the church and the church school.

FIGHT IS PROMISED ON RESIDENCE LAW

QUESTION VALIDITY OF PLAN

Lawyers Go Back to Constitution of United States in Doubting Rights of New York Aldermen.

The action of the Aldermen on Tuesday in passing an ordinance requiring that employes of the city must live hereafter in New York State stirred up opposition yesterday in many city departments, and lawyers generally expressed doubt as to the constitutionality of the measure. Many employes who live in adjoining States said they were not worrying about it, for if the ordinance became a law they would contest it in the courts.

The sponsors of the ordinance were surprised to learn that they had touched unwittingly upon a legal problem which concerned the Constitution of the United States. The ordinance says that no person who is not a citizen and resident of the State of New York shall be eligible to appointment to city jobs, and lawyers pointed out that it was contrary to law, that aliens should be discriminated against in the matter of appointments. The point, they argued, was covered in the Favored Nations Clause in most of the treaties between this country and other nations. Article VI., Section 2 of the Constitution of the United States makes all treaties the law of the land.

The State Civil Service Commission has a rule that every applicant for examination for a place must be a citizen of the United States, and the local Civil Service Commission enforces the same provision. It was explained, however, that the courts had decided that any one not a citizen had a right to take an examination for a city or State position. As a matter of fact, there are very few employes in the City Government who are not citizens of the United States, for the Municipal Civil Service Commission has rigorously carried out its rule to exclude aliens from taking examinations for the past twenty years.

It was on the question of the right of an employe to live where he pleased that most of the controversy hinged, however. Several lawyers took the ground that such an ordinance could not be enforced in the courts. Others thought that the Public Officers law fully covered the point and made it mandatory for a person holding a civil office to be a citizen of the United States and to live in the State in which he holds office. The law on this point says:

"No person shall be capable of holding a civil office who shall not, at the time he shall be chosen thereto, be of full age, a citizen of the United States, a resident of the State, and if it be a local office, a resident of the political subdivision or municipal corporation of the State for which he shall be chosen, or within which the electors electing him reside, or within which his official functions are required to be exercised."

This at once raised the question as to what class of employes are public officers and whether or not all employes do not come under this head. A representative of the Corporation Counsel's office gave the opinion that the definition of a public officer applied to every one holding a municipal job, down to the day laborer. Mayor Gaynor when asked for an opinion said:

"I would not like to say anything about it. I suppose it will come before me. I think it will be found that all appointees of the city who come under the category of public officers have to be citizens here. And there are a good many of these minor officers. They have to file an oath of office. The case of mere employes may be different.

"There is a subject akin to this which is worthy of consideration. We have a large number of men here who make themselves very conspicuous by joining so-called civic organizations and talking much about civic conditions and civic virtue here, and who do much censoring of officials, and so on, but who do not vote here, and claim not to be residents or citizens here. They do business here, and actually live here, but have their so-called legal residence down on Long Island, or over in New Jersey, or up in Connecticut.

"They profess much civic virtue and pride, but it is not even skin deep. It is not honest enough to prevent them from secretly taking sham legal residences outside of the city only to enable them to avoid paying their share of personal taxation for the support of the City Government. You will have no trouble in making up a long list of these people. Most of them actually vote nowhere."

If the ordinance becomes a law, the Board of Education probably will be affected more than any other department, for between 300 and 400 teachers live in New Jersey. Superintendent Maxwell expressed the opinion that his department was a State department, and that, therefore, the ordinance wouldn't affect it. He said:

"If that ordinance is signed by Mayor Gaynor and becomes a law it is more than likely that the Board of Education will say to the Board of Aldermen:

"'You've passed your law, now enforce it.'

"In that case the city will have to sue individually each of about 350 teachers who live in New Jersey to oust them from their positions, or compel them to live in New York State. Of course, I do not know what action the Board of Education will take, but the board does not like to have other bodies attempt to run its business. It seems to me an unnecessary law. It is an established American principle to give people as much liberty as possible, particularly as to where they shall live. Of course, I have not heard the reasons for the ordinance."

The engineers and consulting engineers of the Water Board who live out of the State did not take the matter seriously, said Chief Engineer Flynn in charge of the Water Department.

"Such an ordinance is foolish," he said. "Many of our consulting engineers are necessary to the city. It makes no difference where they live. We might have to go to London for one if we needed him. So how will it be possible to limit the employes to residents of New York State?"

FIRE-COLLEGE GRADUATES.

Fifty Lieutenants Complete Course Started by Commissioner Johnson.

Fifty Lieutenants of the Fire Department, forming the first class of the Fire College started a year ago by Fire Commissioner Johnson, graduated yesterday morning. The graduating exercises were held in Fire Hall and Commissioner Johnson presided. Two captains of the Trenton, N. J., Fire Department, were among the members of the class who received certificates.

Wolf Cohen Bequests to Charity.

In the will of Wolf Cohen, a rug and carpet merchant, which was filed for probate yesterday in the Surrogates' office, the following bequests to charity were made: $500 to the Beth Israel Hospital, Home for Aged Daughters of Jacob, Machzika Talmud, Talmud Torah of East 111th Street; $300 to Congregation Mishsam Israel Anshe Suwalker, Lebanon Hospital, and $200 to Chesed Shel Ehmes. There was also a bequest of $500 for his granddaughter, Theresa Kaplan, the income to be given her until she should marry and the principal to be surrendered to her on the day after her marriage. The rest of the estate and cash legacies of $13,500 are left to sons, daughters, and grandsons.

ADVERTISING EXPOSITION.

Allied Trade Organizations to Meet While It Is in Progress.

Conventions to be held in this city coincident with the National Printing, Advertising, Publishing and Allied Trades Exposition, which will last from April 19 to 26, at the New Grand Central Palace, include the annual ones of the the American Newspaper Publishers' Association, the Associated Press and the Printers' League of America. Every appliance of a newspaper will be on view. Presses, white paper, typesetting machines, inks, stereotyping outfits, photo-engraving reproductions, bookbinding, advertising displays—everything from the written copy to the printed page—will be shown, and when possible the mechanisms will be working.

There will be perfecting presses running of the latest sort for each type of work; fast, medium, or moderate speed. The paper will turn from huge rolls and be delivered from some of the big presses all folded and wrapped for mailing. In contrast will be machines from early American printing offices. One will be a two-pull Ramage hand press such as Horace Greeley worked as an apprentice at his first job for The Northern Spectator, in East Poultney, Vt. "My hands were blistered and my back lamed," wrote Greeley in after years, "at the task beyond my boyish strength."

Marion Ownership is an Inexpensive Pleasure

SCORES of Marion owners every month report records for economy in maintenance, records for reliability and satisfactory service.

Here is one Marion owner who toured 2,086 miles through Indiana, Ohio, Pennsylvania and New York. The total car cost was but $43.81, an average of one-half cent per mile per passenger. The average gasoline consumption was 15½ miles per gallon. This shows why Marion owners are always touring.

A young merchant of Columbus, Neb., drove his Marion 20,000 miles between June 1, 1912, and January 11, 1913. He visits 32 towns every week on business, regardless of the weather. He writes, "my car is in first-class condition and is an economy in both time and money."

A Woman Can Drive It Without Soiling Her Gloves

Haven't you often wished for a car your wife, or sister, or daughter could drive? And haven't they often wished for the same thing?

It is no longer necessary for the woman who likes to motor merely to wish—or wait for a man to take her driving.

The Chalmers is a man's car that his wife can drive. Quite as safely; quite as easily as a man. In fact, every member of the family except the baby can handle the Chalmers.

Pressure on a button on the dash starts the motor.

The touch of the foot on a lever adjusts the carburetor—if it needs it.

A turn of a switch lights any or all of the lights.

The brakes are large and double acting. Chalmers ground gears shift so easily that changing speeds is almost instinctive. The powerful long-stroke motor responds instantly to the slightest adjustment of the throttle. The steering mechanism operates easily—surely.

Driving a Chlamers isn't a matter of strength—just a matter of intelligence and enjoyment.

For a Chalmers handles well—like a perfectly trained horse. It seems to possess an intelligence of its own—that's due to right design.

Let us show you and your wife or daughter how easy it is to drive a Chalmers.

YANKEES OPEN AT POLO GROUNDS TO-DAY---NATIONAL COURT TENNIS---BOXING

NEW YORK FANS WILL GREET CHANCE TODAY

Yankees' New Leader to Get Rousing Reception at Club's Opening Here.

New York fans will welcome Frank Leroy Chance as manager of the Yankees at the Polo Grounds this afternoon, when the local American League season will open with the Washington Club as guests of honor. The game will begin at 3:30, but you want to get there long before that, because things are going to happen just as soon as the band starts playing, which will be shortly after the portals are thrown open.

All this is going to happen, understand, if the rain stays away and the sun smiles away the dampness at the Brush Stadium. Yesterday afternoon the outfield was like a sponge. The sun, which got back to town late yesterday afternoon, will have to work overtime to get the green sward into shape.

This outburst for Manager Chance to-day is going to be big and noisy. Everybody is going to pat him on the back, figuratively speaking, and wish him a good time and good luck. Every one is with Chance and wants to see him play the modern Hercules and lift the Yankees out of last place.

Manager Chance is going to be presented with the largest floral tribute that was ever given to a living man. It is a huge baseball, ten feet high, containing umpty-umpty thousand budding roses. Shortly after 3 o'clock this is going to be carried onto the field by a regiment of Tom Foley's and Tammany Juniors. Joe Humphries will then take off his Kelly, expose his bald head to the elements, and tell Frank Chance a lot of stuff about himself that he never knew before. And no one can tell it just like Humphries will.

Chance will stick around sort of embarrassed-like, and wish to goodness he was out in California picking oranges.

Then he will probably say: "From the bottom of the only heart I [illegible] thank you." More noise, more [illegible].

Then Mr. Humphries will call for silence again, and he will present Chance with a beautiful engraved set of resolutions signed by some of our best families. These resolutions will make a big hit with the Peerless Leader, because he can have them framed and then mounted near the marble-top table in the parlor.

And when his fame begins to fade and the anvil chorus gets busy, he can go home at night, put on his carpet slippers, light the old pipe and get a lot of satisfaction reading the resolutions. Yes, and he can show it to all the neighbors and say, "That's how good I used to stand in Nooyork."

Then, the photographers permitting, the game will commence. You probably remember this Washington team. Last season it jumped from seventh place into second, and made the Capital famous for something besides a hang-out for officeseekers. Clark Griffith is the manager who is responsible for Washington's up-lift. He will probably try to be mean enough to put a damper on the big Chance jubilee by sending Walter Johnson against the Yanks. Let him; who cares?

Manager Chance will play first base for the first time since his injury in Brooklyn, and Hal Chase will show how fast he can play second base with the aid of his left hand. The Yankees game in Boston yesterday was postponed, and they hurried home last night to get a good rest for to-day's fray.

There has been a big advance sale of tickets for to-day's American League opening, and with a fair day the big Brush amphitheatre will be well crowded.

Hope it don't rain.

The Giants-Brooklyn game scheduled for the Polo Grounds yesterday was postponed, and McGraw's players had to put in another idle day. Each little rainy day means a big crop of doubleheaders later, and too many of these doubleheaders get one's goat. The rain, nevertheless, laid the dust about the city yesterday, and was good for all the flower beds in Mount Vernon.

Schalk's Batting Wins for Chicago.

ST. LOUIS, April 16.—Schalk's batting was the deciding factor in to-day's American League game, Chicago winning, 3 to 2. Cicotte pitched excellent ball for Chicago, while Baumgardner weakened in the ninth, Chicago hitting him for four singles, breaking the tie. Bodie led off with a single in the ninth, which, followed by Weaver's scratch hit, Schalk's third hit, and Rath's single to centre, netted them two runs. Chicago scored in the third on Schalk's double, a sacrifice hit, and a sacrifice fly. St. Louis scored in the fifth on a scratch hit, a stolen base, and Walsh's single. It looked as if St. Louis would tie the score in the ninth, when they filled the bases with none out, but a fast double play by Rath, Weaver, and Borton cut the rally short after one run was scored. Gregg Wins in Pitchers' Battle.

CLEVELAND, Ohio, April 16.—Cleveland won to-day, 2 to 1, in a pitchers' battle between Gregg, Cleveland's star southpaw, and George Mullin, whom Jennings sent in to pitch in an effort to take home to-morrow a record of more than one victory. Detroit was held hitless until the fifth inning, and not until the eighth inning did they have a chance to score. Manager Birmingham scored both of Cleveland's runs, the first on a squeeze play. Bush, Detroit's shortstop, gave a splendid exhibition of fielding. The score:

Johnson, Reds' New Indian Pitcher, Allows St. Louis Three Hits.

CINCINNATI, O., April 16.—Cincinnati uncovered what appeared to be a promising recruit to-day when Johnson, an Indian pitcher, held St. Louis to three scattered hits and the locals won for the first time this season by a score of 5 to 0. Johnson allowed only three bases on balls. On the other hand, Perritt, the St. Louis pitcher, was hit hard. He was wild and Hunt succeeded him after three innings of play, and was effective, although somewhat wild. Cincinnati scored two runs in the second inning. Egan tripled and Grant walked. Both scored when in an effort to prevent a double steal, Wingo and Oakes made wild throws. In the following inning four singles, a base on balls and a balk added three more to the Cincinnati list of runs. The game was called at the end of the seventh inning to allow Cincinnati to catch a train for Pittsburgh. The score:

Pitcher Coombs Ill with Grippe.

WASHINGTON, April 16.—"Jack" Coombs, pitcher for the Philadelphia American League baseball team, and one of the mainstays of the Athletics, is ill with a severe attack of grippe. His condition was such that Manager "Connie" Mack ordered him home to-day. Physicians hope to have the "iron man" out within a week or ten days, but several of his teammates expressed doubt if this would be possible.

TY COBB MUST BACK DOWN OR QUIT GAME

Discipline, Not Money, Stands Between Him and Detroit Baseball Club.

DETROIT, Mich., April 16.—Discipline, not money, is the all-important question at issue in the dispute between the Detroit American League Baseball Club and its star player, outfielder Tyrus Cobb, who is now under suspension because he refused to accept the terms of the 1913 contract tendered him by President Navin.

This declaration was made by Mr. Navin to-day in a signed statement. It is understood that $2,500 is the amount involved in the monetary dispute. The statement follows:

"The difference between Mr. Cobb and the Detroit Baseball Club is not over a matter of money. There are fundamental principles involved—principles of discipline recognized in all walks of life.

"It is conceded by everbody that Mr. Cobb is the best ball player in the world. And Mr. Cobb is also the best paid ball player in the world. But this is not the issue.

"Mr. Cobb did not make baseball; baseball made him. A player cannot be bigger than the game which creates him. To give in to Mr. Cobb now in his present attitude would be to concede that he is greater than the game itself, for he has set all its laws at defiance.

"Mr. Cobb instead of reporting for Spring practice and giving the club the benefit of his knowledge and his play, organized a barnstorming team and went through the South starring himself with daily ultimatums to the Detroit Club. If Mr. Cobb can persistenly defy the laws of the game, what effect will he have on the other players and where will his 'I-am-above-the-law' theory end? We may as well turn the club over to him and eventually the league.

"If Mr. Cobb doesn't like a room a hotel clerk gives him he quits the club for a week. If he doesn't like what a silly man in the grandstand yells at him he punches his face and is again out of the game.

"He quit the game when we were fighting for a pennant and publicly stated that he would not play with his comrade in left field, D. Jones, on account of some misunderstanding with that player. If he doesn't feel like practicing he stays away from the park. He has grown to believe that his greatness precludes his being a subject to club discipline. I think Mr. Cobb eventually will recognize his fault—unless he does there can be no understanding between us.

"He demands $15,000 for his services and then he goes to the other end of the country to fire ultimatums at me through the public press, proclaiming that no representative of the Detroit Club has 'been sent' to talk business with him. Mr. Cobb is an employe of the Detroit Baseball Club; he knows where the office is.

"In the past I have patiently put up with a great deal from Cobb. It has now reached a point where there must be a showdown."

AUGUSTA, Ga., April 16.—"Mr. Navin's opening statement, in which he says discipline and not money is the important question at issue between us, is enough to queer his whole vicious attack upon me."

Outfielder Tyrus Cobb made this declaration to-night in reply to a statement by the President of the Detroit American League Club to-day. In the written statement, Cobb terms as "final" his answer regarding his differences with the Detroit Club. Cobb's statement continues in part as follows:

"It seems that Navin has shifted around in his position. For several weeks past it has been a matter of money, of not being able to pay what I ask. All Navin has offered me is a contract calling for the same amount I received last year. He has certainly made no other offers. In this connection I wish to deny the statement that I am the best-paid ballplayer in the world."

In regard to his failure to report for Spring practice, Cobb says: "Navin told me not to report for Spring practice, as I was a hold-out. Had I reported, I would have been required to pay all my expenses on the training trip."

West Point Routs Dartmouth.

Special to The New York Times.

WEST POINT, N. Y., April 16.—The Army won easily from Dartmouth to-day, defeating the visitors by a score of 9 to 5. The cadets got 6 runs in the first inning off Halleck and Leven. The former walked four men and made a wild heave, and the Army batted Leven for two singles, a double, and worked him for a pass before the side was put out. The cadets got a run in each inning thereafter for three more innings. Dartmouth hit Merrillat hard, but the drives usually came when the bases were empty. The Army's outfield played spectacular ball. Prichard retired the side in the ninth on a one-handed catch of a skyscraper off Bennett's bat. The score:

Operation on Hans Wagner.

Special to The New York Times.

PITTSBURGH, Penn., April 16.—Manager Fred Clarke of the Pirates went to Youngstown, Ohio, to-night with Hans Wagner, who must undergo another operation on his injured knee. The injury to Wagner is discouraging to Clarke. The mighty Hans is needed to steady the infield and to drive out hits that bring in runs. He was very lame to-day and unable to continue practicing. Wagner limped about the short field but quit early.

The possibility of the permanent retirement of Wagner has the Pittsburgh fans just about as badly worried as Clarke is. The operation to-morrow may fix him up temporarily, but it is feared the "Flying Dutchman" will never fully recover from the injury.

Triple Steal in Northwest League.

SPOKANE, Wash., April 16.—A triple steal, the first ever made in the Northwest League, was made yesterday by Spokane players in the game against Portland, according to announcement to-day of the official scorer, who decided that all three men started when the pitcher delivered the ball. Powell, on third, Melchoir on second, and Altman on first are the men who participated, and a try for a put-out was made at the home plate.

Baltimore Gets Catcher Egan.

PHILADELPHIA, April 16.—Manager Connie Mack of the Philadelphia Americans announced to-night that he had released Catcher Ben Egan to the Baltimore International League Club.

Reds Send Kyle Back to Akron.

CINCINNATI, April 16.—Andrew Kyle, an outfielder who was obtained from the Akron (Ohio) club by the Cincinnati National League management last Fall, was returned to Akron to-day.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., April 16.—The baseball game between Yale and Fordham scheduled for to-day has been postponed until to-morrow on account of rain.

TURF FUND SUBSCRIBERS.

Twenty-four Sportsmen on List to Restore Racing.

The list of subscribers to the owners' fund to aid the racing associations has increased to twenty-four. The subscribers are all prominent in New York social and business circles. The effort to restore racing in New York State is meeting with support from many unexpected quarters, and the promoters of the fund are gratified with the result. The subscribers to date are:

August Belmont, H. P. Whitney, Thomas F. Ryan, H. K. Knapp, James Butler, C. H. Mackay, John Sanford of Amsterdam, N. Y.; Charles Kohler, R. T. Wilson, Alex Smith Cochran, Joseph E. Widener and George D. Widener of Pennsylvania, W. K. Vanderbilt, John E. Madden of Kentucky, Thomas Monahan, Frederick Johnson, S. L. Parsons, C. K. G. Billings, Anthony N. Brady, H. C. Hallenbeck, George P. Eustis of Washington, D. C.; Capt. E. B. Cassatt of Pennsylvania, Robert Gerry, and F. R. Hitchcock.

Each of the subscribers to the fund, as well as other prominent turfmen, will be invited to make nominations to the Astoria Stakes, which promises to be one of the most attractive events of the Belmont Park meeting. It is a strictly sporting event in which the nominators race for the sweepstakes and a trophy given by the association.

A change in the dates for the running of the two days' meeting of the United Hunts Racing Association at Belmont Terminal has been decided upon by the Executive Committee. The meeting will be held June 25 and 27, instead of May 7 and 10, as originally scheduled.

CYCLIST KRAMER HOME.

American Rider Very Successful in Races in Europe.

Frank L. Kramer, world's champion professional bicycle rider, returned home yesterday from Europe after the most successful season abroad ever experienced by a bicycle rider from any part of the world. Kramer has made similar trips abroad, but this time he made a decided hit with the foreign devotees of the sport, and has been proclaimed the best of all cyclists. He made his first appearance at Paris on Feb. 9, being abroad a little more than two months, during which time he did not lose a single match race. He competed in eleven events, and, excepting a handicap in which he finished second from scratch, he lost only one race, which is looked upon as a test of the rider's ability.

Kramer may go back to Europe next season, as the promoters are now trying to sign him for the season. Kramer has also signified his intention of riding in the six-day race at Paris next year.

During his stay in Europe Kramer's performances were as follows:

Feb. 9, won quarter-mile handicap from scratch, Paris; 16, defeated Hourlier in two straight heats of match race, Paris; 23, defeated Ellegaard two straight heats, match race, Paris.

March 9, third in one-mile open, Hourlier first, Ellegaard second, Paris; 16, defeated Hourlier in two straight heats of "Match Revenge," Paris; 24, won Grand Prix of Easter, Hourlier second, Ellegaard third, second in handicap from scratch; 30, tied with Hourlier in point race, Perchicot third, Bordeaux.

April 2, won six-hour team race with Egg, Comes, and Breton second, Hourlier and Engle third, Paris; 6, won three-cornered match race, Hourlier second, Dupre third. Won pursuit race, Charleroi.

JOCKEY CLUB ENJOINED.

Manager of Maryland Meeting to Test Racing Body's Power.

Following the notice of application for an injunction against the Jockey Club by Harry D. Brown, Judge Julius Mayer in the United States District Court granted a temporary injunction yesterday against the Jockey Club and the National Hunts Association to restrain them from exercising any authority or jurisdiction in any way over racing in any part of the United States except within this State. Both organizations and their officers are also restrained from interfering in any way with any horse, horse owner, race track owner, trainer, or jockey participating in any meeting not sanctioned by the Jockey Club.

The order is made returnable April 25 at 10:30 o'clock before Judge Mayer, when the officers of both organizations and of virtually every other racing association in this State must show cause why the Jockey Club and its auxiliary associations should not permanently be restrained from exercising any official influence on racing outside the State.

This is the first response of the Federal Court to the petition of the Maryland State Fair Association, which controls a race course at Laurel, Md., and which, through Manager Harry D. Brown, presents the plea that the Jockey Club's influence over racing is virtually "an illegal combination in restraint of trade," to quote the petition. Attorney Grant Fox represents the Maryland organization.

Until the matter has been thrashed out in the Federal court the jurisdiction of the Jockey Club in all meetings usually held under its sanction will probably be recognized by courtesy.

Attached to Judge Mayer's order as it was filed in the clerk's office yesterday were affidavits by United States Marshal William Henkel that subpoenas had been served upon August Belmont.

Attorneys for the Jockey Club and the National Hunts Association and Steeplechase and Hunts Association may file affidavits within four days before the return of the writ.

May Restrict Insignia at Columbia.

An attempt is being made at Columbia University to confine athletic insignia strictly to the athletes and not include the managers of the teams, who, under the present system, receive the same insignia award as the team he manages. It is felt by many that the managers should receive some other token of appreciation for their efforts than athletic insignia. In this the advocates are following the lead of Cornell, which has already passed a regulation on a popular student vote calling for different form of insignia for managers than the 'Varsity "C" awarded to the athletes. But the plan is not meeting with approbation in general on the Morningside Heights campus. However, it is probable that the entire matter will be put to a vote of the entire student body, and this decision will be binding. If the change is made, it is suggested by many that a medal be awarded to the managers, or a 'Varsity "C" with an "M" inside, or some other indication that the insignia was not gained for actual participation in sports.

Shake-up in Harvard Crew.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., April 16.—A shakeup in the Harvard 'Varsity crew followed the resumption of practice to-day. Six changes were made. Trumbull and Stratton were relegated to the second crew, Chanler and H. Meyer brought from the second to the first boat, and Pirnie and Reynolds were placed in new positions. The revised order of the eight is: Coxswain, Capt. C. Abeles; stroke, Chanler; 7, H. Meyer; 6, Harwood; 5, Mills; 4, Goodale; 3, Reynolds; 2, Pirnie; bow, Morgan. This makeup is not regarded as permanent, but will probably hold through the first race.

Improving Elgin Auto Course.

ELGIN, Ill., April 16.—Work was begun to-day for the improvement of the race course of the Elgin Automobile Association, by which it is hoped to make it the fastest road race speedway in the world. Several thousand dollars are to be spent in levelling hills and banking the turns, with special efforts being made to eradicate the dangers of the famous "hairpin" turns.

Newark Bowler Leads in Singles.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., April 16.—Brooklyn and Newark bowlers had the alleys this afternoon in the singles and two-man division of the seventh tournament of the National Bowling Association. At the end of the day the leaders in doubles were as firmly sealed as they were last night, but the high men in the individuals were shoved down a notch each by Noack of Newark, N. J., who rolled 686 and went into first place.

Chapin to Coach Pennsy.

PHILADELPHIA, April 16.—The University of Pennsylvania has engaged the services of C. E. Chapin, the veteran lacrosse player, official, and coach, to instruct the newly organized team of the Red and Blue. Chapin, who learned the game in Canada thirty years ago, was the coach of the university team in 1901.

GOULD AND HUHN WIN FIRST MATCH

Champions Defeat Wrenn and Waterbury for Doubles Court Tennis Title.

Jay Gould made his first appearance this season at the New York Racquet Club yesterday, when, with William H. T. Huhn as a partner, he won the first game of the tournament for the court tennis doubles championship of the United States. Gould and Huhn, who represented the Philadelphia Racquet Club, defeated Robert D. Wrenn and Lawrence Waterbury in straight sets by the score of 6—3, 6—4, 6—2. It was the only match played, as the second contest scheduled between Milton F. Barger and Payne Whitney of the New York Racquet Club and Edgar T. Scott and Robert Kelso Cassat of the Philadelphia Racquet Club was defaulted by the latter pair.

Although the match was decided in straight sets, the titleholders met with an unexpected resistance from the New Yorkers, who fought every game and made a favorable impression on the big gallery. It was, however, the pronounced superiority of Gould's racquet work that caused the downfall of the local representatives. Finding they were unable to break down Gould's defense or meet his attack with any degree of success, Wrenn and Waterbury directed their attack against Huhn, who for two sets was compelled to bear the brunt of the playing for his team. In this respect he succeeded, and, in addition to making a number of exceedingly clever gets, he played with sound judgment and changed his pace and stroke with such baffling consistency that the attack signally failed. Gould, however, kept a watchful eye on his partner, and many of the returns meant for Huhn were taken off the back or side walls by the young champion.

Wrenn brought into play a number of the strokes that won for him the amateur lawn tennis championship of the United States, but his famous smash repeatedly failed in its purpose, mainly through the alertness and playing ability of Gould. Wrenn succeeded in finding the dedans and grille opening, and negotiated several difficult chases, while Waterbury made a surprisingly good showing on the side of the court. He executed a number of good strokes and played a sound game. His principal weakness was his ground strokes, which he failed to make effective.

While the contest lacked brilliancy, it was a sterling exposition of court tennis. The superiority of Gould overwhelmed the other three players, and he not only scored the majority of points, but showed a versatility of stroke and perfect mastery of all the finer points of the game.

Lack of familiarity with the court was responsible for the somewhat indifferent work of the players in the opening set. After Huhn had opened the service, Wrenn got his volleying down to working order, and surprised his opponents with his accuracy of stroke. Gould, in following Huhn, served three faults in succession. In the second game Huhn made a splendid get from the tambour and carried the score to deuce. Wrenn, however, made the winning point with a good cut to the corner of the court. Huhn served the first point in the dedans in the third game, and Gould sent a splendid shot into the grille opening in the next game. The fifth game was a love one for the New York pair, putting the Quakers in the lead for the first time. The first point in the sixth game was made by Gould in the dedans, and a good rally followed, which ended by the ball going out of court. Waterbury sent a high bounding ball, which dropped into the dedans, making the score three-all. Gould's deadly shots now began to tell, and two more games were added to the Philadelphia score. The ninth game closed the set. Both teams lost a chase and failed at a hazard, but the Quaker combination succeeded in capturing the set.

Two games are scheduled for to-day owing to Joshua Crane and George R. Fearing of the Boston Racquet and Tennis Club defaulting to George H. Brooke and Wilson Potter of the Philadelphia Racquet Club. R. Gambrill and T. Frotheringham, Boston Racquet and Tennis Club, will play Milton Barger and Payne Whitney, New York Racquet Club, and Charles E. Sands and T. W. Lowell, New York Racquet Club, will face P. Rhodes and Percy Stockton, Boston Racquet and Tennis Club. The summary:

Koster Takes Road Race.

E. Koster of the West Harlem Athletic Club won the three-and-one-half-mile road race last night of the St. Vincent Ferrer Athletic Club. The course was from the clubhouse, 145 East Sixty-fifth Street, through Central Park and return. Twenty-four athletes started, and the order of the finish of the first ten men follows: E. Koster, West Harlem Athletic Club; E. Boylan, Holy Cross Lyceum; L. Metzger, West Harlem Athletic Club; S. Greenwalt, Pennant Athletic Club; C. Stein, Morningside Athletic Club; C. Dunne, Paulist Athletic Club; J. Dingras, St. Vincent Ferrer Athletic Club; W. Donahue, West Harlem Athletic Club; T. Whitney, St. Vincent Ferrer Athletic Club, and T. Greenwalt, Paulist Athletic Club.

Summers Outclasses Goodwin.

SYDNEY, April 16.—John Summers, lightweight, of England, defeated Alf. Goodwin here to-night in the ninth round of a scheduled twenty-round bout. Goodwin was outclassed from start to finish. The match was stopped because of the poor showing Goodwin made.

McGoorty Beats Hicks Easily.

WINDSOR, Ontario, April 16.—Freddie Hicks of Detroit was helpless before Eddie McGoorty of Oshkosh in an eight-round bout here to-night, the Wisconsin boy having the advantage of every round by a wide margin.

NEWS FOR THE GOLFERS.

At a meeting of the Board of Governors of the Plainfield Country Club last night it was decided to offer the course for the use of schoolboys on May 12, 13, and 14 for the annual interscholastic championship tournament. It was the original plan of the boys to hold their championship at Baltusrol, but the club wished to make some changes for the New Jersey championship early in June, which would interfere with the interscholastic competition. As a result, the boys were without a course until Max R. Marston, President of the organization, communicated with Plainfield and received a favorable answer last night. Plainfield will be the scene of the metropolitan junior championship June 24 and 25.

More changes are being planned in Baltusrol course. Two-thirds of the bunker about 200 yards from the first tee is to be removed, the remaining section being on the right. A series of sand traps will be built just beyond to run diagonally across the course, so that a player may attempt as much as his nerve allows. A similar change is being made at the second hole. The first bunker and the sand traps near it are being removed, and from the right side several traps are to run diagonally across the fairway. A long driver will try to clear the traps, while shorter players will keep clear with a shorter stroke. A big trap is being substituted for the bunker guarding the fifth green. The ninth green has been widened so that there will be less danger of rolling off.

What is believed to be a world's record drive was recorded by Herbert Strong of the Inwood Club in the open event of the thirteenth annual United North and South Amateur Golf Championship at Pinehurst, N. C. With the wind back of him Strong made the first green on the No. 2 course, a distance of 408 yards.

McCARTY BEATS FLYNN.

Defeated Boxer No Match for White Heavyweight Champion.

PHILADELPHIA, April 16.—Luther McCarty, claimant of the white heavyweight boxing championship, was awarded the popular decision by a wide margin at the end of a fast six-round bout with Jim Flynn of Colorado, at the Olympia Athletic Club here to-night.

McCarthy led throughout the fight, and frequently compelled his opponent to clinch to avoid his vicious straight left jabs.

Although he appeared to be outclassed in the start, Flynn fought gamely throughout the entire six rounds. With both gloves protecting his jaw and his body crouched in such a manner as to prevent McCarty from reaching a vital part, the Pueblo fireman rushed into clinch after clinch and succeeded in landing many blows on the champion at close quarters. McCarty, however, seemed to be in the pink of condition and was not affected by Flynn's short-arm hooks. With straight left jabs he pounded away at his opponent's face as the latter rushed into the clinches. At the end of the first round Flynn's nose was bleeding. In the second round his mouth was cut, and before the close of the bout one eye was nearly closed.

After shaking hands in the first round both men rushed to a clinch. After they had been separated by the referee, McCarty jolted Flynn with two rights to the jaw, while the latter sent three short jabs to McCarty's face. Blows were exchanged in rapid succession at close quarters until the bell.

The following rounds were a succession of clinches, with McCarty using both right and left with effect on Flynn's body, while the latter kept rushing in an attempt to land a blow which would end the fight.

The four bouts which preceded the wind-up furnished plenty of excitement to the crowd, which filled the club house.

All were closely contested except the first, in which "Young" Al Kaufman, McCarty's sparring partner, knocked out Al Benedict of New York with a right swing to the jaw in the second round, and the fourth, in which Joe Jeannette won from George Cotton in the fourth round by a hard right-hand swing to the jaw. The latter was knocked down but not out. He was not allowed to continue, however, and the fight was awarded to Jeannette.

Benedict, who substituted for George Rodel, the Boer heavyweight, who was unable to go on because of an injured hand, went down and out for the count from a blow that almost fractured his jaw.

Frank Moran of Pittsburgh, who is McCarthy's next opponent, was given a hard fight by "Sailor" White of New York, but seemed to have the popular verdict at the close of the six rounds.

Jim Savage of New York and Tim Logan of this city also put up a whirlwind fight from start to finish, with the New Yorker slightly in the lead.

BOXING CLUB ON RACK.

Complaints Against Atlantic Garden A. C. to be Heard by Commission.

Several complaints against the Atlantic Garden Athletic Club and a discussion of the contents of the second annual report, which is soon to be sent to the Legislature, occupied the attention of the State Athletic Commission for three hours yesterday afternoon. After some changes have been made in the report it will be sent to Albany and the detailed account of the commission's work during 1912 will be made public.

The complainants against the Atlantic Garden Athletic Club were Michael McGowan, manager of Joe Mooney; Willie Johnston, manager of Eddie Powers, and N. J. McCormick, manager of Mike Rosen. All three had signed articles for their boxers to appear at the east side club, while Jimmy Johnston was the matchmaker there, and all three agreements had been repudiated after Johnston had severed his connection with the club. The officers of the club and the Fordon brothers, who were announced as Johnston's successors as matchmaker, will be subpoenaed to appear at next week's meeting of the commission. The complaint entered against the club two weeks ago by Dan McKetrick, manager of Frank Moran, has been withdrawn, as the club officials settled McKettrick's claim Tuesday night.

The efforts of the commission to put the regulation of boxing on an international basis, covering all countries where the sport flourishes, have borne more fruit. A letter was received at the commission's office yesterday from A. F. Bettinson, manager of the National Sporting Club of London, the biggest and most influential club in England, that in the future all rulings of the commission would be upheld. This will prevent boxers who are suspended here from taking part in any bouts at that club, possibly in England, while the suspension is in force. In return the commission will accept any rulings that may be made by the London club.

Three applications for boxing licenses were considered at the meeting, but only one was granted, that being the Military Athletic Club, situated at Scholes and Leonard Streets, Brooklyn. P. J. Meura was named as the head of the new club. The application of the Golden Athletic Club, at 134th Street and Park Avenue, was laid on the table until an investigation is made by the commission. The request of the Buffalo Social Club was put over until next week for decision. William F. Long and W. F. Barnett are named as the incorporators of the Golden Athletic Club.

The commission passed a vote of thanks to William Gibson for the able way in which he conducted the boxing and wrestling benefit for the flood sufferers at the Twenty-second Regiment Armory on April 4.

BOXER HURT IN BOUT.

Eddie Smith Was Winning When He Broke Bone in Arm.

An injury to Eddie Smith's arm during the fourth round of his scheduled ten-round bout with Jimmy Flynn of Long Island City caused a sudden and early termination of the star bout of last night's show at the Atlantic Garden A. C. Smith sustained the injury just as the bell announced the end of the round, and the arm immediately began to swell. A physician who examined the arm said that Smith had evidently broken a bone and could not continue. In the other ten-round bouts Eddie Sherman gained the honors over Young O'Leary and Pinkey Burns fought a draw with Johnny Keyes.

At the time that he was forced to give up because of the injury Smith held the lead over the Long Island City boy. The ringside weights were 137 for Flynn and 134 for Smith. The former, who is a left-handed boxer, bothered Smith somewhat in the early round by his awkward style, but he was outpointed clearly in two of the first three rounds, lost another by a shade, and got an even break in the fourth.

The O'Leary-Sherman bout was hardly up to what was expected of these featherweights, as they wasted too much time in clinches. Sherman had the better of four rounds and got an even break in four more. O'Leary did his best work in the latter part of the bout, doing especially well in the tenth, when Sherman appeared tired from his previous exertions. Sherman gained the honors by his continual left jabs to the face.

In the opening ten-round bout Pinkey Burns and Johnny Keyes, local bantamweights, furnished an exciting battle, the tide turning often from one to the other. Burns weighed 100 pounds and Keyes was six pounds heavier.

Montana Has Boxing Commission.

HELENA, Mont., April 16.—The Montana State Athletic Commission, appointed under the State boxing law, organized here to-day and adopted rules for elimination of brutality, betting at the ringside, and the sale of liquor. The referee is required to stop a bout when one boxer apparently is outclassed. The first match authorizezd under the new law is that between Pal Brown of Minnesota and Jimmy Duffy of Boston at Butte on April 25.

KOLEHMAINEN AND DREW ARE DEFEATED

Olympic and National Champion Runners Fail at Paterson Elk Games.

Special to The New York Times.

PATERSON, April 16.—Hannes Kolehmainen, the world's greatest distance runner among the amateurs, was the chief attraction here to-night at the games of the Elks, which attracted a capacity crowd in the Fifth Regiment Armory. The wonderful Finn was making his first appearance in this city, and the reception tendered him almost equaled that accorded Strobino when he returned from the Olympic games.

Kolehmainen was scratch man in the two-mile run, an invitation limited handicap affair, which attracted a dozen of the best distance runners of the metropolitan district. The track over which the men ran measured 146 2-3 yards to the circuit, and each of the men named, with the exception of Sidney Leslie, Long Island A. C., and Eddie Jordan, Xavier A. A., who were on 80 and 90 yards, respectively, was placed at the Finn's shoulder, with approximately one lap start.

From the pistol crack Kolehmainen went away in his inimitable style, and soon began to make great inroads upon the starts handed his opponents. Timed at the first half mile in 2:13 4-5, he had lessened the gap between himself and his nearest opponents by almost one-half. At the mile the watches showed time of 4:34 2-5, with the Finn going in famous fashion, while Leslie and Jordan were setting a merry clip in the van.

The Finn appeared to ease off a bit in his pace to the mile and a half mark, and gave evidence of the soreness which put him out of the championships last month in New York. He set after the leaders, beginning the last half mile, and overhauled Jordan at the one and three-quarter mile mark. Leslie was going along at a nice, strong gait, with the Finn gaining slowly, and while Leslie had a fifteen-yard advantage at the gun lap, he won by five yards in seeming easy fashion from Kolehmainen in 9:26, exceptionally fast for the track conditions. The Finn was timed in 9:27 1-5, with Jordan third, fifteen yards back, and the rest of the field distanced.

Matt Geis, who recently returned from Buffalo for a stay on the metropolitan circuit, took care of the mile handicap from scratch, although he was all out to win by two yards from M. Golden, Irish-American Athletic Club, to whom he was giving 20 yards, with the time 4:33.

With Howard P. Drew of Springfield Training School, the National champion short-distance runner in the 60-yard dash, in which he was placed at the post of honor, the spectators were immediately assured of some top-notch sprinting. They were not prepared, however, for the announcement which followed Drew's showing in the second trial heat, in which he was returned the winner in the world's record time of 6 1-5 seconds. It developed that the timekeepers had been a trifle too anxious to stop their watches, and no claim will be made for the record.

In his semi-final he appeared to be running fully as fast as in the trial, with the watches recording but 6 3-5 seconds, similar time being attributed to D. Politzer, Sheridan Athletic Club, who won his heat from the nine-foot mark. The final was a splendidly fought-out contest, having as competitors, aside from the two men named, Frank L. Stephenson, Trinity Club, Brooklyn, the junior indoor sprint champion, and "Jack" Eller, Irish-American Athletic Club, the National hurdles title holder at several distances. The start was perfect, although, as usual, Drew was quickest into his real running.

Politzer, a much-improved lad and one of much promise, soon found himself and sprinted well enough to break the worsted apparently inches to the good of Drew, whom the judges eventually placed third, deciding that the pair had been split by Stephenson, who was accorded second place, with the time 6 1-5 seconds, which is not considered seriously by those close observers who viewed the contest.

The summaries:

60-Yard Dash, Open Handicap, Semi-Finals—First Heat—Won by Frank L. Stephenson, Trinity Club, (4 feet;) D. Politzer, Sheridan A. C., (9 feet,) second. Time—0:06 3-5. Second Heat—Won by Howard P. Drew, Springfield High School, (scratch;) John J. Eller, Irish-American A. C., (3 feet,) second. Time—0:06 3-5.

Final Heat—Won by D. Politzer, Sheridan A. C., (9 feet;) Frank L. Stephenson, Trinity Club, (4 feet,) second; Howard P. Drew, Springfield High School, (scratch,) third. Time—0:06 1-5.

One-Mile Run, Novice, Passaic County.—Won by W. L. Withers, South Paterson A. C.; E. A. Gras, unattached, second; Thomas Dunkley, unattached, third. Time—5:00 1-5.

880-Yard Run, Open Handicap.—Won by F. H. Hoffman, unattached, (33 yards;) E. W. Hills, Mohawk A. C., (35 yards,) second; J. Bromilow, Irish-American A. C., (6 yards,) third. Time—1:58 4-5.

300-Yard Run, Open, Handicap.—First Heat—Won by Lea Holmes, Belleville C. C., (3 yards;) A. E. Neil, unattached, (7½ yards,) second. Time—0:35 3-5. Second Heat—Won by Harold Dodd, Belleville C. C., (7½ yards;) Harold Seney, Bronx Church House, (8½ yards,) second. Time—0:34 2-5. Third Heat—Won by J. J. Eller, Irish-American A. C., (scratch;) J. E. Harris, Loughlin Lyceum, (7 yards,) second. Time—0:42. Final Heat—Won by Howard Seney, Bronx Church House, (8½ yards;) A. E. Neil, unattached, (7½ yards,) second; Lea Holmes, Belleville C. C., (3 yards,) third. Time—0:33 2-5.

Three-Mile Run, Handicap, Passaic County.—Won by Louis Scott, South Paterson A. C., (scratch;) Gaston Strobino, South Paterson A. C., (90 yards,) second; W. A. Grass, South Paterson A. C., (150 yards,) third. Time—15:08 2-5.

One-Mile Run, Open, Handicap.—Won by Matt Geis, New York, (scratch;) M. Golden, Irish-American A. C., (20 yards,) second; J. Schleifer, Pastime A. C., (60 yards,) third. Time—4:33.

Two-Mile Run, Invitation, Limited Handicap.—Won by Sidney Leslie, Long Island A. C., (80 yards;) H. Kolehmainen, Irish-American A. C., (scratch,) second; Eddie Jordan, Xavier A. A., (90 yards,) third. Time—9:26.

23d Street Y. M. C. A. Games.

The Twenty-third Street Branch of the Young Men's Christian Association ended its athletic season with a championship medal meet in the gymnasium last night. An interesting programme of six events was presented, and some of the most hotly contested races of the season resulted. The performance of J. Boak, who won the half-mile run, was particularly creditable, winning from scratch from a large field in the fast time of 2:10, this being within two-fifths of a second of the branch record. The summaries:

220-Yard Run.—H. A. Lhuillier, (5 yards,) first; L. M. Johnson, (7 yards,) second; Ray Engle, (2 yards,) third. Time—0:26 3-5.

440-Yard Run.—L. M. Johnson, (20 yards,) first; George Schneider, (25 yards,) second; H. Gissel, (scratch,) third. Time—0:56 2-5.

880-Yard Run.—J. Boak, (scratch,) first; J. H. Cooper, (15 yards,) second; J. Crawford, (50 yards,) third. Time—2:10.

One-Mile Run.—G. Foster, (125 yards,) first; E. Hutchins, (80 yards,) second; O. P. Bishop, (100 yards,) third; W. Bartels, (125 yards,) fourth. Time—4:47.

12-Pound Shot Put.—W. H. Ferris, (2 feet,) first; W. J. Montgomery, (2 feet,) second; C. F. Shea, (5 feet,) third. Distance, 39 feet 10 inches.

Running High Jump.—W. J. Montgomery, (2 inches,) first; F. W. Snow, (2 inches,) second; S. Ford, (4 inches,) third. Height, 5 feet 2 inches.

NEW YORK, THURSDAY, APRIL 17, 1913.

MR. ROOT ON POPULAR RULE.

It may be a surprise to some of the progressive critics of Senator Root to learn that he is deeply convinced that popular Government, really popular, giving the fullest practicable effect to the deliberately formed and clearly expressed will of the majority of the voters, is the best Government that the wisdom of men has yet devised. Mr. Root points out, however, with that succinctness and cogency for which he is noted, that in the working of this form of government "the "difficulty is not to determine what "ought to be accomplished, but to determine how to accomplish it." In his address at Princeton University on "The Essentials of the Constitution" he traced the provisions of the American Constitution for dealing with this ever-present and ever-pressing difficulty.

Of course, the most important of these provisions relates to representation, which, as developed in the last century and a quarter, has been America's richest contribution to the system of orderly freedom. Mr. Root perceives that there are defects in this branch of our Government and that they have resulted in "real evils "in the form of undue control by "organized minorities, with the sup-"port of organized capital." There are other and graver defects in connection with elective officers—executive, administrative, and judicial. These have come from the omission to change our methods of selection with the marked changes in conditions. We have kept on trying to apply village methods to cities and States. We have clung to short terms and frequent elections to numerous offices, which answered very well the needs of small communities, but which in large ones answer only the needs of professional politicians, who alone find profit in devoting to them their time and labor and ingenuity.

For these evils, which are very serious, the remedy, according to Mr. Root, is, as to the Legislature, direct nominations, and as to the rest the short ballot. We do not ourselves feel sure that there is necessarily much virtue in direct nominations even "in the simple proceeding of electing members of a Legislature." In that device we fear that the professionals would find as ample and as easy play for their skilled talent as in the present methods; but there is no special harm to be feared from it, and in times when the voters are awake, some important improvements may be attained. But from the short ballot much may reasonably be expected. The term is a convenient one for a system reducing the number of elections and candidates and giving to the voters as few and as important matters to decide as possible. This would be a radical and practical reform. It would go to the very root of our worst conditions. It would be a grant of real and effective power to the people. As compared with the notion of the initiative, the referendum and the recall, it would be the substance of control for the voters as against a mere delusion. These fanciful and ill-digested measures simply crowd the voters with a mass of decisions that it is a physical impossibility for them intelligently to make. By the limitations of time and brain, they are forced to let their "vote turn upon "the avowed intention of such pro-"posals rather than upon their ade-"quacy to give effect to the inten-"tion."

By the short ballot the voter can give effect simply and easily to a judgment on really important matters which he has had leisure and opportunity to form for himself. He is equipped with an adequate weapon and he has the chance to use it so that it will serve his deliberate purpose. He will not dispense with party organization, but he will not be a slave to it, as too often now he is. No organization can defy or control voters with class views which they can express decisively in a single vote. The short ballot would be in reality and lastingly that emancipation of the voter of which so much, often sincere, nonsense has been written.

THE STILWELL SENATORS.

By stress of emotion, roused by the impassioned appeal of the accused, enough of his forty-nine colleagues, who were apparently convinced that Senator Stilwell extorted a bribe, were constrained to make up the majority who voted to acquit him. Some of them, doubtless, considered Stilwell's accuser, Kendall, as questionable as the man he was trying to convict. Perhaps as many felt that they might conjure up a "reasonable doubt" that Stilwell had committed a crime, forgetting that they were not passing upon his criminality but on his fitness to remain in the Senate.

These men have already had time to realize that they will be known henceforward as the "Senators who voted for Stilwell"—who voted to confirm in the public mind its impression of legislative immorality. That State laws can be bought, that State legislators can be bribed, and that, when exposed, their colleagues will stand by them are axioms of public suspicion. The Senate is sole judge of the qualifications of its members. It can disqualify for any reason. It was enough that Stilwell was strongly suspected. His usefulness in the Senate was ended. For the sake of its good name that body should have expelled him.

NO PARK ATHLETIC SHOWS.

Some one, according to the "Committee on Demonstration" of the Public Schools Athletic League, "evident-"ly thinks it more important for the "City of New York to raise velvety "English lawns than to produce a crop "of red-blooded American boys." Dreadful dilemma! Especially since we are impinged upon its horns because of our protest against the proposed athletic demonstration in which 10,000 public school children would participate in Central Park. We are reminded that the green in Central Park is open to sports and games, and especially to baseball players, and that the 10,000 boys will be under "professional supervision." Our neighbor The Evening Post says the children "will come to the park under guid-"ance, and to many thousands of lit-"tle folk from the east side and Hell's "Kitchen this will be the first glimpse "of the park in their lives."

The objection is not to games in the park, but to exhibitions in the park that draw a concourse of thousands for stated events. The park was not made for shows. When Commissioner Stover threw open the upper end of Morningside Park for a fireworks show on July 4 last, the multitude that lined the slopes for a brief hour destroyed the grass and shrubbery that are the chief adornment of the park, and ruined the growth of years. It is not necessary to choose between velvety lawns and "red-blooded American boys." We can have both. Why not use the vacant lots adjoining the City College, which are not a public park, and are dedicated to athletic uses?

WHEN IS COPYRIGHT PROTECTED?

The Circuit Court of Appeals, Judges Coxe, Ward, and Noyes sitting, in an opinion written by Judge Coxe has affirmed the decree of the United States District Court, dismissing on demurrer the complaint of The New York Times Company against The Sun Printing and Publishing Association in an equity suit to secure an injunction forbidding the publication by the defendant of Amundsen's account of his discovery of the south pole, of which copyright had been secured by The Times. The decree of the District Court is sustained on the ground that at the time the injunction was applied for The Times had not complied with that provision of the copyright law which requires that two complete copies of the publication must be deposited in the mails addressed to the Register of Copyrights at Washington, although these copies, with the necessary papers, were deposited in the mails a few hours later and before the injunction was served, the delay in the deposit being due to a strict compliance with the regulations of the Register of Copyrights which have the force of law. The Times had published the Amundsen story as a book with a printed notice of copyright, such publication and notice, according to the law, securing copyright to the owner; nevertheless the court holds that failure to comply instantly with the mailing requirement deprives the owner of the copyright of the power to protect himself by injunction against a threatened invasion of his right. The opinion sustaining the lower court's decree is based on technical grounds, they seem to us to be narrowly technical. If the law should in all cases be construed in this manner, we think it plain that its purpose would be defeated and the property of owners of copyright would in many cases, and very important cases, be without protection.

The history of the case is that The Times acquired by purchase from The London Chronicle the full American rights of publication and copyright in Amundsen's personal narrative of his discovery of the south pole. The Amundsen story was cabled to The Times on the afternoon of March 8, 1912. The matter was put in type, bound in book form, with a copyright notice on each copy, and prior to the application for injunction it was publicly exposed for sale and copies were sold. This step was taken in order to secure a copyright under Section 9 of the Copyright act, which provides: "That any person entitled "thereto by this Act may secure copy-"right for his work by publication "thereof with the notice of copyright "required by this Act; and such notice "shall be affixed to each copy thereof "published or offered for sale in the "United States by the authority of the "copyright proprietor." With a copy of the law before it by which all its procedures were guided, The Times felt that this publication with copyright notice had made the copyright secure. The word "secure" is used in Section 9. The word is again used in Section 12—"that after copyright has "been secured by publication of the "work with the notice of copyright as "provided in Section 9 of this act." If the provisions of Section 9 and Section 12 mean anything, they mean that by publication of the Amundsen story in book form with copyright notice, The Times had before 10 P. M. of March 8 secured its copyright. That is, it had a property right in the publication, a right entitled to the protection of the laws by appropriate process.

Now as to the mailing provision. Section 12 provides that after copyright has been secured by publication with the copyright notice, "there "shall be promptly deposited in the "copyright office or in the mail ad-"dressed to the Register of Copy-"rights, Washington, D. C., two com-"plete copies of the best edition "thereof then published." It is perfectly true, as Judge Lacombe said in his opinion, on which the decree of the District Court was made, that The Times had in its possession copies of the publication, two of which it might at once have deposited in the mails. But on the evening in question The Times had before it the rules and regulations established by the Register of Copyrights for procedure in such cases. One of these rules related to the form of the affidavit to be submitted to the Register with the copies mailed or deposited by the applicant. It is here quoted:

> Notice.—The date of the execution of this affidavit must be subsequent to the stated date of the publication of the book.

That is not permissive, but mandatory. The date of the publication of the book was March 8. The date of the execution of the affidavit accompanying the mailed copies, as it unmistakably appeared to The Times, must be some day later than March 8, some day not earlier than March 9. Therefore two copies of the book with the accompanying affidavit were deposited in the mails addressed to the Register of Copyrights at Washington a few minutes after midnight. The copies were mailed, that is, on March 9. But as The Times had been put on notice of an intention on the part of some of its contemporaries to publish the Amundsen story, which their London correspondents could easily obtain from The London Chronicle, and by reason of the difference of time transmit to New York early enough for publication here, it was necessary that the application for an injunction to restrain such acts in violation of its copyright should be made before midnight on March 8. The application was so made and a restraining order issued. Both the application and issue necessarily preceded the deposit of the copies in the mails addressed to the Register of Copyrights, which did not take place until a few minutes after midnight.

On this account the District Court set aside the restraining order, and on this ground the Circuit Court of Appeals affirms the decree dismissing the injunction proceedings. The court bases its affirmance upon this provision of Section 12 of the copyright law:

> No action or proceeding shall be maintained for infringement of copyright in any work until the provisions of this act with respect to deposit of copies and registration of such work shall have been complied with.

This decision would seem proper enough in a suit for damages for infringement begun before the deposit of copies in the mails. But The Times had begun no such suit; its proceeding on the night of March 8 was taken for the purpose of preventing, not punishing, infringement. Section 36 of the Copyright act provides

> That any such court or Judge thereof shall have power, upon bill in equity filed by any party aggrieved, to grant injunctions to prevent and restrain the violation of any right secured by said laws.

Taking the words of Section 9, "may "secure copyright for his work by "publication thereof with the notice "of copyright," in connection with those of Section 36 just quoted, it would seem to the lay mind that The Times had a clear right to protection, by injunction, against intended theft. But the court holds otherwise.

Plainly, The Times when it applied for the injunction had not complied with the mailing provision. But why? Because of the regulation of the Register of Copyrights above quoted, requiring that the date of the execution of the affidavit accompanying the copies deposited in the mails "must be subsequent to the stated date of the publication." That regulation was a part of the law, for the act itself in Section 53 provides that "the Register of Copyrights shall be "authorized to make rules and reg-"ulations for the registration of "claims to copyrights, as provided by "this act." So it appears that exactly and faithfully complying with the law, The Times deprived itself of the protection of the law, so far as the injunction proceeding is concerned. This is proverbially a strange world, but the law is stranger if it works such havoc as that with the rights it professes to safeguard. Section 12, upon which the Court bases its judgment, says that "no action or pro-"ceeding shall be maintained for in-"fringement of copyright" until the copies of the publication have been deposited in the mails. In vain the counsel for The Times pointed out to the Court that the action was not for infringement of copyright, it was not a suit to recover damages, it was an equity proceeding to restrain a threatened violation of its copyright. Judge Coxe said in Gunnert vs. Rupert: "It is the policy of the law "to arrest the pirate before he actu-"ally makes off with the plunder"; and in Hein vs. Harris the Circuit Court of Appeals here said that it knew of no reason why a person who has secured a copyright "may not "maintain it by injunction against "another person who threatens to in-"vade it."

If the law is to be construed as it has been construed in the present case, what may we expect when the courts are asked to pass upon the meaning of the "registration" in Section 12? That section, already quoted, provides that no action for infringement shall be maintained "until the provisions of this act "with respect to the deposit of "copies and registration of such "work shall have been complied "with." Registration is the act of the Register and can be performed only in his office at Washington. In the case of a San Francisco publisher, for instance, there could be no protection of copyright until a week after the article had appeared. In the case of a book or magazine any unauthorized person who came into possession of advance proof sheets might publish them for his own profit and whistle defiance at the baffled owner of the copyright.

In this case Amundsen had been at great expense, he had suffered toil and privation and risked his life in the attempt to discover the South Pole. He had disposed of the copyright in his personal narrative for a large sum of money. The Times had paid to the London Chronicle for Amundsen a part of that money. Plainly, newspapers will not in this way contribute for the encouragement of deeds of valor or any other enterprise unless the copyright law which aims to protect them can be made effective, and in view of this narrowly technical construction of the law, it is to be feared that the word "registration" above referred to would form the basis of another defense for the protection not of the owner but of the purloiner of the property. Laws ought not to work that way, and if by construction under the light of reason they can be made to work other ways according to their plain intent, according to their policy as declared by the courts, it would seem that an interpretation in favor of the rightful owner of property instead of one against him might without impropriety be expected. The Times has sought not only to protect its rights but to ascertain what the law is. If the copyright law is what the Court, thus far in this case, has declared it to be, then manifestly it stands in need of amendment.

In the present case there remains to The Times, of course, the remedy of a suit for damages for infringement, for it is not anywhere denied that the copyright has been perfect in every respect since the early morning of March 9, 1912, when copies of the copyrighted Amundsen narrative were mailed to the Register of Copyrights.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

Newspapers Print the News.

When a critic of the press as eminent, and as variously eminent, as Joseph H. Choate refers to "one of the most reputable papers in the country" we feel justified in hoping that he means The Times. When he further characterizes the object of his remarks as one whose motto is "All the News That's Fit to Print" hope changes to certainty. But that feeling wanes to doubt when he says that a "representative" of the paper in question recently told him that wicked doings were described in its columns "because people want news of crimes."

For representatives of The Times do not say things like that. Either Mr. Choate misunderstood what he heard or he was mistaken or misinformed as to the journalistic connection of his—shall we say, explainant?

What an authorized and accurate representative of The Times might have said is that it prints what it does "be-"cause people want the news, of which "crimes, as they are committed, form "an essential part, of perfectly legiti-"mate interest to all concerned for the "public safety." That would have been quite true, and it would have been, in brief, a sufficient justification not only for the printing of criminal news by reputable newspapers, but for the printing of that news at the length and with the prominence deserved by its intrinsic importance.

That importance is often very great, and a newspaper should not be condemned merely because it puts big headlines over a long account of a murder, or a theft, or a case of corruption in public life, or even over one dealing with what by special limitation is called "scandalous." There may be — there often is—the best of reason for doing this, and by not doing it papers can, and occasionally do, show themselves the servants and agents of criminals, their paid protectors from deserved punishment.

Of course, reputable newspapers do not devote their columns wholly to narratives of crime; they do not do it even largely except on occasions of actual necessity in the actual performance of journalistic duty. Whoever says that the papers print nothing but crimes convicts himself, or at least tends to convict himself, either of reading the very worst paper he can buy or else of reading only one part, and that a comparatively small one, of a better paper. Readers of The Times have no difficulty in finding in it, and in large quantity, exactly the sort of matter for which Mr. Choate pleaded — "discov-"eries, inventions, and constructive "achievements." That they also find in it "murders, robberies, and divorces" is true. It is a newspaper, not a tract.

Parochialism Finds Manifestation.

Our Aldermen have offered, recently, several rather convincing justifications of their official existence. They have shown an unexpected efficiency as aids in the reforming of municipal abuses, and earned not a little of hearty praise from critics hitherto almost continuously severe. That being the case, it is lamentable, it is almost pathetic, that they should have taken just this time, when they had such a good chance to make themselves loved and respected by all, to prove that Aldermen will be Aldermen, and that when they do not err from intention they do it from ignorance.

This they have brilliantly achieved by passing with a large majority a particularly foolish resolution, limiting employment in the city departments to resident New Yorkers and putting out of their places all present servants of the city who do not meet that absurdly irrelevant requirement.

The effect of such action could not be other than to deprive the city of an important part of the advantage which the founders of our Government tried to secure for all its citizens by forbidding the restriction of inter-State commerce. The Aldermen have not proposed—yet—to ignore the Constitution to the extent of saying that we shall not eat or wear or use anything not grown or made within the city limits. What they do propose is that we shall not buy brains wherever they can be found—that in our selection of engineers, teachers, architects, departmental officials—experts of all kinds—we are to take what we can get right here and make the best of it, even though that best be bad.

Two gross fallacies underly this proposition. One duplicates that discussed on this page yesterday—the fallacy of those who see loss of money in the purchase of foreign products. The other is the illusion that a position under the city is something more than, and different from, other positions—not a simple exchange of honest work for adequate pay, but a chance at the public treasury given as a reward or favor for services unrelated to the job. The public servant has the right of anybody else to live where he or she chooses, so long as the choice does not decrease efficiency.

We all remember what a howl there was when Col. Waring was imported from Rhode Island. Can it be that this stupid resolution is based on knowledge or that a similar howl against the architect of the new Court House would be as ineffective as that one was?

Safety Lies in His Abolition.

That a corporation "dummy" should have mutinied at last and should have refused to give up on demand property placed in his name is less surprising than that the thing didn't happen long ago. For obviously the practice is a dangerous one, if the dummies choose to make it so, and dangerous in exact proportion to the degree in which their announced ownership approaches legal reality.

Of course no dummy could more than once refuse to play the second as well as the first part of his allotted rôle, and not many instances of recalcitrancy would be required to end the whole system. In each case, however, the temptation must be as great as the possible profit, and the wonder is that it has been resisted.

Why, anyhow, should there be dummies? Sometimes, probably, their use is merely a convenience and perfectly innocent, but oftener there must be at least a little intention to deceive somebody or to conceal something, and there seems to be no avowable necessity for creating a merely nominal ownership. It is distinctly out of harmony with the new business morality.

NO CASH FOR SUFFRAGISTS.

Mrs. J. Kennedy Tod Turns a Denying Countenance.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I was about to send a contribution to the women's suffrage cause, when my eye fell upon the communication of Mrs. Andrew D. White, published in your journal of this morning. Mrs. White's thoughtful and profound article set many things before me in a new light, and the check I had contemplated sending will not be sent. I could easily write her my thanks direct, but I desire the acknowledgment of my indebtedness to her to be a public one, and at the same time to thank you, sir, for the wide dissemination her communication will find through your valued columns.

My sympathies with all the earnest people who are laboring for the uplift of women through an extension of the franchise and in many other directions remain undiminished, and will be expressed in campaign funds when the line between law and order and crime and anarchy is firmly drawn.

MARIA KENNEDY TOD.
Sound Beach, Conn., April 14, 1913.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The letter of Mrs. White strikes, it seems to me, the truest note yet, relating to the militant suffragists, and incidentally to the suffragist question in general. These hysterical and ill-balanced women, bright as many of them are, fail to think, in any true sense of the word. There is, I verily believe, not one "open mind" among them, and the same may be said of the suffragists here who in any way condone these mediaeval piracies which work nothing but evil to the cause they advocate.

The English Government, so strong and efficient in most things, is here pusillanimous beyond belief. These women see this, and under the advantage of sex protection commit atrocities which if committed by men would result in punishment dire and quick.

A. D. ROCKWELL.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

While, generally speaking, I am not averse to woman's suffrage, I agree with Mrs. White that the conduct of the English militants "resembles a raving and gibbering of insane and idiots," and can express but surprise that England endures the present conditions.

THE LAND SHARKS

A Pest to Long Island, Mr. Langdon Says.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Those who are really interested in the welfare of Long Island should be thankful for the article in the Magazine Section of The Sunday Times about "land sharks" and their operations on Long Island, for they not only cheat the ignorant poor and many credulous persons living at a distance, who write intelligent letters of inquiry after they have parted with their money, but they injure every legitimate business on Long Island.

Real estate values on Long Island began to increase rapidly when the Pennsylvania Railroad Company acquired an interest in the Long Island Railroad and announced the great projects of tunneling under the Hudson and East Rivers and building a station in the heart of Manhattan. The completion of these projects and the improved means of transportation provided with money furnished by the Pennsylvania Railroad, together with the opening of bridges and tunnels connecting Long Island with Manhattan, have been sufficient reason for a continual increase in land values where the natural conditions are so favorable.

Many persons have profited by these increased values by intelligent purchase and sale of real estate, and there are many real estate companies now honestly engaged in systematically changing farm lands and large estates into attractive and valuable settlements in various sections of Long Island, and they properly advertise them according to their character and worth.

There are in Suffolk County about 200,000 acres of land which has never been cultivated, from which the original timber was removed years and years ago, and later growths have been cut for telegraph poles or cordwood or allowed to be burned over so that it has become known as waste land. This land can be profitably cultivated, as is proved by the successful fruit and vegetable growing of several small farmers and by the experimental farm of the Long Island Railroad Company at Medford and the Suffolk County farm at Yaphank. But small building lots laid out on these lands are of no value to the distant purchasers.

The "fake" real estate operators acquire this cheap land, which they try to sell for as much per small lot as they have promised to pay for it per acre. They misrepresent the location of their so-called "developments" and appropriate to their own use the facts which apply to other localities. If a law can stop their operations it would be welcomed by all legitimate interests.

APATHY OF VOTERS.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The letter of Miss Chittenden in The Times is interesting, as it presents actual statistics of the recent charter elections in Pasadena and Los Angeles, Cal. The argument drawn by the writer from these statistics is against woman suffrage, but actually the real showing made in those elections is the inutility of the referendum.

There were no offices to be filled at those elections, so called—the vote was upon the passage of charter amendments. In Los Angeles 130,000 voters, both men and women, did not vote at all. The registered vote in the city was 161,000. So it appears that four out of five qualified voters took no interest in the matter. In Pasadena the non-voters were about three out of four. These figures present arguments against popular Government rather than against woman suffrage, and in the last analysis all the arguments against woman suffrage are arguments against a democratic form of government.

A BACHELOR'S LAMENT.

Sighs for a Return of the Old-Fashioned Woman.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Pity the vagaries of a poor bachelor who is moved to tears and pity on reading the performances of the militant suffragettes abroad. O woman, whither art thou bound, and what will the reckoning be?

The erstwhile customary air of decorous tranquillity does not pervade the atmosphere when women gather. They used to guide us through life, and very few of us could escape their subtle and all-pervasive influence, but now—will all this change? What is to become of woman's mystic and resistless charms, her spiritual influence, upon which mere man depended so much?

Will some good genii give us the old-fashioned women—the ones whose lives were as open and as sunny as the days in June, and between whom and those around them there were no timidity and lack of frankness, and who were the true missionaries in the world, rising above reserve, misgiving, and repining, and making all around them more beautiful and glad by the sunny inspiration of their presence? O woman, do not turn mere man out of paradise into the nightmare of hideous militancy. Come back to your own true self.

"Not Voice, but Vote."

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The quotation of Mr. Olney in to-day's issue beginning "Non vox," &c., is from St. Augustine. I cannot give the exact reference, but it is most likely in one of his numerous sermons of which, thanks to the stenographers of the fourth century, more than 300 have come down to us.

The original as I have it is, "Non vox, sed votum; non chordula, sed cor; non cantans, sed amans, cansat in aure Dei." Like St. Paul, Augustine is very fond of epigram and play upon words, of all which the one quoted is perhaps the most felicitous. Some other instances given by Dr. Simpson in "St. Augustine the Preacher" are "Errores sapientia, terrores patientia superavit"; "Diversa species claritatis, quia diversa sant merita charitatis"; "Non exitio sed exitui"; "Tangitatque angit," from sermons 311, 241, 319, 88. St. Augustine's combination of the learned theologian and popular preacher is very unusual.

Bronx County Records.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Referring to The Times's article headed "Bronx County Grab Bill Is Analyzed," I have no hesitation in saying that the bill to which it refers should never become a law for the reason that there is absolutely no necessity for going to the expense of transcribing those records.

Most of the old titles in the Bronx have been thoroughly examined and re-examined by attorneys, real estate men, title companies, and individuals, and if they will begin recording instruments in the county from and after the first day of January, 1914, and continue, that will avoid all unnecessary expense and the county can start with new books if the officers of it know how to inaugurate a proper system.

The examination of titles in Nassau County is being done on those same lines. The back titles are to be found in Jamaica in the Queens County Clerk's office, and since the county was divided in Mineola.

MARRIAGE OF MINORS.

Mothers and Clergymen Blamed for Lax Laws.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

When Justice Cohalan of the Supreme Court decided the other day that a girl, under 18 years of age, who had married with her parents' consent and became tired of her contract before she had reached 18, had a right to ask the court to annul it, not a few of our clergymen protested zealously, though the Justice was merely accentuating one of the ridiculous and shameful features of our marriage laws—laws which should be the most sacred and vital of any which control human action and for which our churches more than any other cause are responsible. In this case, by the laws of the State of New York, the girl was an infant until she was 18, and consequently could not make a valid contract, even with the consent of her parents. Without her parents' consent she could not have married at all, legally, and with it she could break the contract at any time before she ceased being a legal infant.

That sounds like comic opera, doesn't it? But it is solemn, legal fact. In other States it is even worse than it is in New York. In Kansas, Kentucky, Louisiana, Missouri and Virginia the statutory limit is 12 years, and a child of that age may marry if she be so inclined. In other States it is 14, 15, 16 and 18, and when the State has been too careless to mention a limit, the common law, or common sense, applies, though common sense does not appear to have been overworked in such important legislation. The laws applying to boys are no better, and are quite as diversified, though the lowest age at which they may marry is 14 years.

I have said the churches are more to blame for this condition of affairs than any other cause, and it is plain that since they insist upon marriage being a sacrament they are satisfied to permit it to continue in its present haphazard fashion. Not less than the churches, though they are not organized bodies, are the women, the mothers of these children that the laws do not protect. A hundred years ago if the clergymen and the women had combined to establish proper marriage laws for the entire country, Federal not State. the whole institution of marriage would have been made as nearly perfect as human wisdom could make it.

WAGES OF NURSES.

Their Demands for an Increase Declared Unwarranted.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The nurses who recently met and asked that their wages be increased from $25 to $27 a week accompanied their request by two reasons. First, the high cost of living; second, the scarcity of work due to the oversupply of nurses.

No one will doubt that the high cost of living is a reality, and that it has been a difficult situation to face. But it has affected all classes, not merely the trained nurses. Every wage earner has felt the need of more money or less luxuries. Sufficiency of wages is a function of the plane of living. What would be considered a small salary for a skilled mechanic would be big in the eyes of an untrained laborer, simply because the plane of living to which each is rightfully accustomed is substantially different. Can the nurses honestly demand that their plane of living and consequently their salary should be higher than that of school teachers, who receive approximately the same income?

The second reason is equally poor. Almost every vocation which has been known for any number of years is overcrowded; at least it is so alleged. However, let us assume for the sake of argument that there is a decided oversupply of nurses. What are we to infer? Nothing more than that, everything considered, time and cost of training and wages, the lot of a nurse is more attractive and desirable than that of other wage workers. Ordinarily such a set of circumstances brings into play the laws of supply and demand and consequently a decrease in wages.

THE GOOD PHYSICIAN

May Be Found Through Inquiry at Reputable Hospitals.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

"A. B. C." asks "How are the people of New York City to find the doctors?" The safest method is based upon the fact that a man's ability largely depends upon his medical education and subsequent training and experience; and that these may, in general, be judged by the medical school from which he was graduated, the hospital in which he received his practical training, and the institutions in which he has gained further experience and broader knowledge through contact with other workers, and in the practice of his profession.

These data are difficult to secure; but the results may be obtained by applying at the office of one of the best hospitals for the names and addresses of one or more of the visiting physicians or surgeons. At the same time an approximate idea of their fees may be gained. Many of the best medical men are willing to meet the self-respecting worker half way as regards the matter of fees. In fact, this seems one of the most logical ways to remedy the abuse of the dispensaries by those who are not really needy. Those who are unable to pay even a moderate fee can often secure the services of a recent graduate of a good hospital at a still lower rate by application through the office of the hospital.

"Pelorus Jack's" Habitat.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Periodically for many years the New York papers have printed a considerable amount of nonsense about Pelorus Jack.

He dwells in a little bay in Cook's Strait, between the North and South Islands of New Zealand, some 1,250 miles from Australia.

Pelorus Jack is only seen from small coastal boats trading between Wellington, south of the North Island, and Nelson, north of the South Island of New Zealand. These two islands are divided by Cook's Strait, and the small steamers trading between the above mentioned ports usually go through French Pass, where "Pelorus Jack" is constantly to be seen.

He does not pilot ships. He simply accompanies them, at least all except those of one line, which he does not accompany, owing, it is claimed, to their lack of palatable food.

A Married Woman's Name.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

In a recent editorial The Times asserts that the true name of a married woman is her husband's name. If this statement were true, then the name of Mary Brown upon her marriage to John Smith immediately becomes Mary Smith.

But the truth is that Mary Brown after her marriage to John Smith can sign her name Mrs. Mary Brown, and the signature is perfectly legal. It is customary for a married woman to assume her husband's name, but there is no compelling law—she assumes his name "by courtesy."

"Baseball" in Latin.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Col. Lampton's "Te Salutamus" is certainly a worthy panegyric on the great game of baseball. To render it perfect, I'd suggest that the title be corrected so as to read: "Te Salutamus Faseballius," or "Baseballium." It would be unfortunate if in the future the historian should discover that the gifted Colonel aforementioned was rusty in Latin.

OLEOMARGARINE'S ENEMIES.

Editor Says Proposed Tax Would Benefit Butter Interests.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The Cole bill, now before the Agricultural Committee of the Assembly at Albany, putting an added annual license tax upon retailers of oleomargarine, is a measure which merits the attention of consumers. Under the guise of regulating the sale of the product, it really discourages it by adding to its cost to the consumer or narrowing the profit of the retailer who sells it. This is the object sought by the butter interests, which introduced the bill and which are pushing it. They have secured the co-operation of the middlemen, or commission interests, and of farmers who make butter.

Why are they so anxious to pass this bill? Let us see. Butter last week in New York City sold as high as 42 cents a pound at wholesale, and decent butter has cost the consumer 40 cents and above all Winter, while the best oleomargarine can be bought for 20 to 22 cents wholesale and from 25 to 28 cents a pound retail. If the butter men can make it harder to sell oleomargarine, or can make it cost more, retailers will not be inclined to push it, and consumers will have to pay high butter prices or go without. That is why they are trying to put through this Cole bill, taxing retailers who sell oleomargarine. The retailer already has to pay a Federal tax, besides the tax per pound on the product which makers pay, all of which is a discrimination against oleomargarine and in favor of butter.

I asked my grocer what the effect of the proposed State tax would be, and he told me that I would have to pay more for my oleomargarine. He is a big dealer. I asked a small dealer who has not developed a very large trade, and he replied that if they put a tax on him he would stop selling oleomargarine. Which is exactly what the butter people are after.

REDUCTION IN LYNCHINGS.

And These Were Not for Assault on White Women.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

There have been about thirteen lynchings in the United States during the first three months of 1913, while for the same period of time a year ago there were twenty-four; this represents a reduction, by nearly one-half, in the number of lynchings. It is a gratifying record; even though it is very deplorable that there have been any at all. If all the people, white and black, will work together in a courageous manner, I feel quite sure that we can go through the present year with a much smaller number of lynchings than has been true in the history of the last twenty-five years.

In order to throw some additional light on the subject, I give below some details as to the places and causes of the lynchings which have taken place:

A colored man in Paris, Texas, for murder.

A colored man in Houston, Miss.; case of murder. It was later discovered that the wrong colored man had been lynched, and another was burned at the stake instead of the wrong one lynched.

One was lynched at Shreveport, La., in February; cause unknown.

One at Drew, Miss., lynched by negroes for killing two negro women.

One in South Carolina, a seventeen-year-old negro boy, for assault and battery on a white man.

Two negroes of Harrison County, Texas; one for cause unknown, the other for horse-stealing.

Andalusia, Ala., in February, negro was lynched for shooting a white woman.

Cornelia, Ga., two negro tramps for killing a policeman.

Union, Tenn., negro accused of killing a white man.

West Point, Miss., a negro, who was confined to jail for attempting to kill members of his family, attacked the Sheriff and Deputy when they tried to lock him in his cell for the night.

It will be noticed that in not a single case was the person lynched charged with committing assault on a white woman.

BOOKER T. WASHINGTON,

Contented Mistress and Maid.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

As I read the interesting article of Dr. Woods Hutchinson in The Sunday Times, the merry notes of my kitchen songster reached me. "Inefficient, shiftless, and unproductive." Her honest blue eyes deny the charge. A peasant, she came from the Emerald Isle not many weeks before I found her. Intuitively refined and unselfish; strong and attentive, eager to learn, in a short time she was able and willing to do all the work, including laundry, for a family of four adults. Nor is this maid any exception in my housekeeping experience. She is not overworked; is in her own room two or three hours each afternoon; has one afternoon a week out, and, with rare exception, every evening. The work is systematized and the day's order is seldom disturbed. Necessary criticism is given only when the maid is rested, while ever, praise exceeds blame. Interest in her health, dress, amusements, friends is appreciated and repaid. Dickens's slatternly servant, downtrodden and irresponsible, belongs to another age.

Mrs. Thomas well expressed in a recent number of The Times the views of an ideal mistress. If the woman of the day would spend less time trying to solve economic questions outside her door and wrestle with the one close at hand the conditions of living would improve.

The Servant "Stigma."

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Permit me to add a few words concerning the much-written-about servant problem. Mrs. Thomas makes the astonishing statement that she and her friends have no servant problem because they have no servants. Now, this is a bit of sophistry by use of which not even the uneducated mind can be fooled. If she has people who work for her, who serve her, she has servants, for that is what the word means—one who serves. But only the uneducated mind can feel that there is any stigma attached to the word. Why, we are all servants in some form or other. Even the President himself could be said to be a servant of the Republic. Every man who holds a position under a corporation is a servant of that corporation.

It is when women realize this, and that no stigma whatever is attached to the word servant in the minds of educated people, that they will choose to take positions in the household rather than the shop or the nerve-racking factory.

The sheets are gone forever,
  The glims will not be doused,
And Jacky home a-coming

CHERRY BLOSSOMS AT SPRING WEDDING

Marian de Forest Cannon Marries John Dyneley Prince, Jr., at St. Thomas's.

Bridesmaids in Spring Colors of Green and White—Reception at Home of the Bride's Mother.

The flowers and colors of Springtime were used to charming effect yesterday afternoon at the wedding of John Dyneley Prince, Jr., son of Prof. and Mrs. John Dyneley Prince of this city, and Miss Marian de Forest Cannon, a daughter of the late Henry Le Grand Cannon of New York, which was celebrated at 4:30 o'clock in St. Thomas's Church, Fifty-third Street and Fifth Avenue. This was the largest and most brilliant wedding in town so far this Spring, and a profusion of apple and cherry blossoms prevailed in the decorative scheme both at the church and at the residence of the bride's mother and stepfather, Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Frelinghuysen, 15 West Forty-seventh Street, where the reception was held, while the touches of green and pink in the costumes of the bridal attendants served to add to the note of Spring.

The chancel of the church was banked with rambler roses, pink hydrangeas, white daisies and cherry and apple blossoms, against a background of camellia trees and towering palms, and the way to the altar was marked with bay and orange trees. The altar was a mass of bridal roses under an immense trellis of trailing smilax.

While the guests were arriving an organ recital was given by G. Darlington Richards, who played several selections at the bride's request, including the "Evening Star" from "Tannhäuser," the prelude to "Lohengrin," the gavotte from 'Mignon," and Simonetti's "Madrigale."

The ushers who seated the guests included the bride's brother, Le Grand R. Cannon, Frederick Frelinghuysen, Grafton Minot of Boston, Ives Gammell of Providence, R. I.; Charles Russell, Jr., William Jay Schieffelin, Jr., H. Rivington Pyne, John Munroe, Phoenix Ingraham, and Erskine Hewitt.

The full vested choir service was used for the ceremony, and Barnby's "O Perfect Love" was played as the processional. The bride walked down the nave with her stepfather, who gave her in marriage, being preceded by the ushers, bridesmaids, and maid of honor. She wore a robe of heavy white satin, the skirt being draped with long motifs of old family lace and finished with a square train, which was edged with clusters of orange blossoms. The bodice was cut low and square in front, of lace and chiffon, with a deep collar of rose point lace of square and distinctive cut at the back. Her tulle veil was arranged about her head in cap effect, held by a coronet of orange blossoms. Her only ornament was a superb necklace of diamonds, the gift of the bridegroom. She carried a bouquet of white orchids and lilies of the valley.

Miss Adelaide Cannon was maid of honor for her sister. She wore a costume of soft white charmeuse, with an overskirt drapery effect of green chiffon, almost as deep in color as jade green, and the upper part of her gown was a combination of satin and white chiffon, with a V opening at the neck. Her round leghorn hat was encircled with jade green satin, and topped at the side with bows of green ribbon and pink roses. Her only ornament was a solitaire diamond suspended on an invisible platinum chain, and she carried a bouquet of Mme. Chatenay roses and Spring flowers.

The four bridesmaids, which included the Misses Mildred Rives, Katherine Miller, Helen Dinsmore Huntington, and Lois Cunningham, also wore gowns that were a charming combination of white and green. Wide panels of green chiffon fell from the back of the shoulders almost to the hem of the ankle-length skirts of charmeuse, which disclosed white slippers with large rhinestone buckles. The green chiffon crossed the shoulders in fichu effect, and the elbow length sleeves were edged with bands of green. Their leghorn hats of brown straw were trimmed with green satin and white chiffon, and faced with black velvet, with upright bows of green at the side. They each carried bouquets of roses, sweet peas and field daisies, tied with pink satin streamers, and their ornaments were locket watches, the gift of the bride.

The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Ernest M. Stires, rector of the church, who was assisted by the Rev. Endicott Peabody of Groton, Mass., and the Rev. Dr. Tibbetts, a cousin of the bride. Henry Potter Russell was Mr. Prince's best man.

White and pink blossoms were used in the floral display at the home of the bride, where the reception was held, the conservatory between the drawing room and the dining room, where a collation was served, being hung with cherry and apple branches in bloom, and the other rooms and halls were decorated with Killarney roses.

After the reception Mr. Prince and his bride left for the South on their honeymoon. They plan to go abroad for the Summer, and will take up their residence in New York early next Autumn. Mr. Prince is the only son of Prof. John Dyneley Prince, who has the chair of Semitic languages at Columbia, and he has been the President of the New Jersey Senate, and last year was Acting Governor of New Jersey during the absence of Gov. Woodrow Wilson, now President. The bridegroom is a grand-nephew of Mrs. James Speyer and Mrs. Richard Irvin.

Among those invited to the wedding were Mrs. Chester Griswold, Mr. and Mrs. Chester Griswold, Mr. and Mrs. Grenville Clark, Mr. and Mrs. Le Grand C. Griswold, Mrs. W. Seward Webb, Mr. and Mrs. Le Grand Tibbetts, Mr. and Mrs. Geraldyn Redmond, Mrs. Lawrence Lee, Miss Lee, Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Frelinghuysen, Pierre Lorillard, Mrs. H. McK. Twombly, Miss Ruth Twombly, Mr. and Mrs. F. de P. Foster, Richmond Talbot, Mr. and Mrs. Peter H. B. Frelinghuysen, Gordon Fellowes, Richard Mortimer, Mr. and Mrs. John Rutherfurd, Mr. and Mrs. Forsyth Wickes, Mr. and Mrs. Charles B. Alexander, the Misses Alexander, Mr. and Mrs. George Henry Warren, George H. Warren, Jr., Count and Countess Guy de Lasteyrie, Mr. and Mrs. Whitney Warren, Mr. and Mrs. Amos Schermerhorn, Mr. and Mrs. L. Cass Ledyard, Miss Jean Morris, Mr. and Mrs. Royal P. CONSTABLE—MICHALIS.

Miss Wanda G. Michalis, daughter of Mrs. E. Martin Michalis of East Orange, N. J., was married to John Pierrepont Constable of Boston, Mass., son of the late James Constable of Utica, N. Y., at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon in the Church of Zion and St. Timothy, West Fifty-seventh Street. The Rev. Charles F. Walkley, rector of Grace Church, Orange, N. J., performed the ceremony, assisted by Dr. Lighthipe.

The bride wore her mother's wedding dress, and although it had been changed to some extent for this occasion, it still had a quaint appearance. The gown was of heavy white satin trimmed with brocaded satin and hand-done Spanish lace. The court train hung from the shoulders, over which fell the tulle veil, surmounted with orange blossoms. She carried a shower bouquet of lilies of the valley.

Miss Agnes Tyler of Orange, N. J., was the bride's maid of honor. She wore a gown of lavender charmeuse, with the bodice of shadow lace and a large black picture hat. She carried an arm bouquet of pink roses. Little Miss Sarah Howells of Morristown, N. J., was the flower girl, and Eugene Livingston Delafield, Jr., acted as page. Miss Howells wore a white frock with a yellow sash and a small poke bonnet trimmed with rosebuds. Master Delafield wore a white sailor suit, and they carried a basket of yellow roses and lavender sweet peas.

Mr. Constable had as best man Charles Edison of West Orange, N. J. The ushers were William Constable of New York, F. R. Kneeland of Boston, John White of Utica, N. Y., and Bruce Brownlee of Spokane, Wash.

The church ceremony was followed by a reception in the ballroom of the Hotel Plaza. After a short wedding trip Mr. and Mrs. Constable will live in Boston.

DAVENPORT—ELKIN.

The wedding of Miss Agnes M. Elkin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Elkin, to Allen Sturges Davenport of Yonkers, N. Y., was celebrated at 8 o'clock last evening in All Angels' Church. The Rev. Dr. S. de Lancey Townsend, rector of the church, officiated.

The bride wore a trailing gown of white satin brocade trimmed with old lace. Her veil was of duchesse applique and was held about the face with a coronet of orange blossoms. She carried a bouquet of lilies of the valley.

Mrs. Marmont Edson, who wore a gown of yellow brocaded satin, acted as matron of honor, and Miss Lucie G. Elkin, who was attired in yellow crepe de chine, was her sister's maid of honor. They carried arm bouquets of yellow roses and daisies. The bridesmaids were the Misses Marie Patterson, Alice Muller, Dorothy Patterson, Mildred Dockstader, Marion L. Davenport and Adele Mackenzie. They wore pink chiffon frocks, with sashes of amethyst colored ribbon, pink garden hats, and carried bouquets of pink sweet peas.

Howard R. Alexander was Mr. Davenport's best man, and the ushers were Lemuel Lloyd, Thomas M. Alexander, Marmont Edson, Charles Elkin, Jr., Sidney B. Carragan of Brooklyn and Ralph H. Clark of Derby, Conn.

After the church ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, 315 West 106th Street. The couple left later on their honeymoon, and upon their return will live in Yonkers.

SCHREINER—SELBY.

The wedding of Miss Mabel E. Selby, Hotel Marie Antoinette, a sister of Edwin Selby of this city, and George J. Schreiner, also of this city, took place last evening at 7:30 o'clock at the Hotel St. Regis.

The Rev. Dr. Tilton of the Dutch Presbyterian Church performed the ceremony in the Louis XVI. reception room, under a bridal bower decorated with lilies, white roses, and forsythia.

The bride, whose brother gave her in marriage, wore a white brocaded satin gown with old point lace and pearl trimming. Her lace veil was caught up with a wreath of orange blossoms, and she carried a shower bouquet of orchids and lilies of the valley. Her only ornament, the gift of the bridegroom, was a diamond bar pin.

Mrs. William Carroll Wilson, sister of the bride; Mrs. Frederick Staubs, sister of the bridegroom, and Mrs. William E. Selby were matrons of honor. They wore gold-brocaded silk trimmed with fur and beads, and carried bunches of American Beauty roses.

Herbert Schreiner acted as best man for his cousin, and the ushers were Frederick Straub, Edgar Cook, William Carroll Wilson, and M. Carl Pye.

Mr. and Mrs. Schreiner will go South for the honeymoon and later reside in New York.

DUNN—KRACKOWIZER.

The wedding at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon in the Church of the Ascension at Eleventh Street and Fifth Avenue of Lieut. Walter Kilshaw Dunn, U. S. A., and Miss Mary Parmelee Krackowizer was gay with blue and gold uniforms, it being a full military wedding with the church decorated in American flags. The Rev. Percy S. Grant officiated.

Lieut. Dunn, who is a son of Capt. Beverly W. Dunn, U. S. A., retired, wore his full dress uniform, and his best man and six ushers were also in full military array with clanking swords.

Miss Krackowizer walked up the nave with her father, Dr. Emil W. Krackowizer, who gave her in marriage. She had two matrons of honor, who entered the aisle at the chancel and came down to meet the bride, the double row of ushers forming an aisle for them to pass through.

The bride wore a white satin gown, trimmed with lace, a tulle veil with orange blossoms, and carried orchids. Mrs. Amos G. Torrey, a sister of the bride and one of the matrons of honor, wore a pink chiffon gown, flowered in violets and other flowers in Dresden effect, and Mrs. Allen Kimberley, a sister of the bridegroom and the other matron of honor, wore a similar frock in blue. They were pannier frocks, with lace at the neck, and were topped with large Leghorn hats, having chiffon crowns to match the frocks, with white lilacs as decorations and light-green ribbons forming bows, and then tying under the chin in bows. White flowers were carried with these costumes.

Lieut. Dunn's best man was Lieut. Beverly C. Dunn, and the ushers were Lieut. Creswell Garlington of Washington, Lieut. Frederick A. Holmer of Fort Totten, Lieut. Allen Kimberley of Fort Monroe, Lieut. Meade Wildrick of Fort Totten, and John K. Dunn, a brother of the bridegroom, and Hermann C. Schrimm, a cousin of the bridegroom.

A reception was held at 430 Lafayette Street after the wedding. Lieut. Dunn and his bride will live at Fort Totten, where he is stationed, where he has a house, and where they will be at home after May 14.

H. SHOEMAKER ENGAGED.

Mrs. Ord Announces Daughter's Engagement to New York Man.

Special to The New York Times.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 16.—Mrs. Robert Brent Ord of this city, announced to-day the engagement of her daughter, Miss Mabelle Ord, to Henry W. Shoemaker, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry F. Shoemaker of New York City.

It was learned here last night that the wedding of Miss Ord and Mr. Shoemaker will take place on May 10 at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Ferguson, Idesmore, Premium Point, New Rochelle. None but the families will be present, and no invitations will be sent out. Mr. Shoemaker and his bride purpose sailing on May 17 on the George Washington to spend the Summer abroad, and on their return will live in New York.

Miss Ord's father, who died some years ago, was a lawyer in San Francisco. She is the niece of the late Major Gen. E. O. C. Ord, U. S. A., and also of the late John S. Ord, a Justice of the Supreme Court of California, and a granddaughter of the late James Ord, an oficer in the United States Navy, who took up his residence in California in 1849.

Mr. Shoemaker has one sister, Mrs. Alfred Wagstaff, Jr., who was Miss Blanche Shoemaker, and whose volumes of verse are well known. His late brother, William Brock Shoemaker, married Miss Ella Morris de Peyster, a daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Frederick J. de Peyster.

Mr. Shoemaker was graduated from Columbia in 1901, and is a member of various clubs, among them being the Union League, the Army and Navy, Morris County Golf, Aero and Riding, and is also a member of the Sons of the Revolution. He was at one time Secretary of the American Legation at Lisbon, and later Third Secretary of the American Legation at Berlin.

He is the owner and editor of the Morning Tribune of Altoona, Penn., and has written and published several volumes of legends and stories of the Pennsylvania Mountains.

Mr. Shoemaker's father, Henry F. Shoemaker, was formerly well-known in the railway world, and held office and was a Director in many of the important Western railway companies.

TO HELP CRIPPLED CHILDREN

Spence Alumnae Present a Burlesque of "Within the Law."

The first two of three performances of "Without a Flaw" and a Sylvan Ballet and Greek Dance for the benefit of the class of tubercular crippled children maintained in a ferryboat in the East River off Bellevue Hospital took place yesterday afternoon and evening in the Aerial Theatre.

Two new scenes were added for these performances to "Without a Flaw," a take-off on "Within the Law," since it was presented at the annual entertainment of the Students of the Beaux Arts, and Mrs. S. Hinman Bird, who starred in it then, took the part of Mary Turner, and Miss Margaret French was Little Aggie. Edgar C. Lackland was Mr. Gilder, and Howard Greenley was his son, Richard. Kenneth M. Murchison, who wrote the music, was Inspector Burke; Arthur Ware was Detective Sergt. Cassidy; Joe Garson, the crook, was done by Donn Barber, and John Reid, Jr., took the part of English Eddy.

In the afternoon "The Shades of Night" took the place of the other play, and in this Miss Jeannette Flagg was the Hon. Terence Trivett, Miss Dorothea Darlington was Sir Ludovic Trivett, Miss Helen Rich was Winifred Yester, and Miss Priscilla Flagg was the Lady Mildred Yester.

The Sylvan Ballet scene was laid in a forest, with nymphs asleep under the moon. In this were Miss Dorothy Taylor, Mrs. Robert Bowler, Mrs. S. Hinman Bird, Miss Beulah Hepburn, the Misses Margery Brown, Helene Underwood, A. Louise Williston, Eleanor R. Townsend, Mrs. Barent Lefferts, Mrs. Frederick Van Beuren, Jr., Mrs. Harold Turner, Mrs. James Otis Post, Miss Jeannette Flagg, Miss Dorothy Flagg, Miss Vouletti Proctor, and Miss Priscilla Flagg.

The day nymphs were the Misses Caramai Carroll, Dorothea Darlington, Greta Hostetter, Mary Kane, Marguerite Kennelly, Gertrude Mall, Mildred Rice, and Helen Rich, and the night nymphs were the Misses Lydia Butler, Dorothy Clark, Helen Eggleston, Diantha Fitch, Isabel Foote, Gertrude Hill, Harriet Lummis, and Margaret Trevor.

The ushers and flower sellers were the Misses Mary H. Brooks, Pauline Clarkson, Edith E. Cook, Marjorie Cleveland, Julia Edey, Lillian Frazer, Elizabeth Sabin, Margaret Overton, Eleanor Marshall, Julie Ione, and Lois Ralli, Mrs. David H. Taylor, Mrs. Douglas Elliman, and Mrs. Carl Victor. Miss Kate Fox was the head usher.

The officers of the Spence School Society for this year are Miss Eleanor Rodman Townsend, President; Mrs. James Otis Post, Vice President; Mrs. Francis Le B. Robbins, Corresponding Secretary; Miss Isabel Foote, Recording Secretary; Miss Catherine S. Burton, Treasurer, and Mrs. Michael Gavin and Miss Louise Freeman, Directors.

Mrs. Francis Le B. Robbins has a few more tickets for sale. The performance will be repeated to-night.

STOVER DENIES GAMES HURT PARKS

Commissioner Says He Won't Erect a Stadium for Athletic Contests in Central Park.

BARS BASEBALL FROM THERE

These Contests Will Be Restricted to Other Grounds He Has Prepared—Not Decided on Swimming Pool.

Park Commissioner Stover told last night some of his plans for public amusements in Central and other parks, including athletic grounds, baseball diamonds and swimming pools.

"They accuse me of trying to destroy the parks, whereas I am trying to improve them and make them more useful to the public," the Commissioner said. "I do not believe in the policy that the parks are places merely for people to walk through and look at the trees and gaze at the landscape from a distance, nor do I believe that any one should be permitted to destroy anything, but I take the position that certain parts of Central Park, the asphalt and the lawns should be open most liberally to the young people for amusement, proper athletics, and recreation, under proper restrictions.

"This has always been a bone of contention from the beginning in Central Park. None of the lawns will be opened to the public until May 15. Even in Winter there must be some restrictions on the use of the lawns. It has been decided to permit two children's pageants, one of the girls from the public schools, and the other the Boys' Athletic League, in May and June, but they will be two weeks apart so that the lawns may be renovated in this interval."

He said the statement that he intended to erect a stadium for the spectators at these athletic games was untrue. "The public will be allowed to stand on the lawns to witness them," he said.

"The children will not destroy the park," he continued. "Even the apparatus which they use will have bases so that they will not dig into the turf. I am going to drive baseball out of Central Park and Riverside Park, and confine it to filled-in land on the Hudson River, comprising in all some ten acres, opposite Eightieth Street, Ninetieth Street, and 120th Street, all of which I have created without any special appropriation. People who think I am destroying the park ought to remember that from the beginning the founders set aside a baseball field in Central Park. Now, I think it is a great improvement to banish baseball from this park to these other points, and to some of the smaller parks on the east side."

Commissioner Stover has not decided as to the plan for a swimming pool in Central Park. But he said he thought it would be a good idea to have one in some of the other parks and under the approach of the Manhattan Bridge. In that case he would have a swimming pool there for Summer and a skating rink for Winter. The cost of free baths around the city he said he considered a poor investment, because the use of them by the public was restricted on account of the polluted waters.

"Many persons are bent only on preserving the landscape beauties of the parks. I am not banishing the boys from baseball in Central Park and Riverside Park just for the beauty of the landscapes, but to carry out the plan of real park preservation. Tennis has been played in Central Park for a generation, and I think it should continue there. It was impossible to maintain the sod on the tennis courts, and I turned them into dirt courts by spreading 15,000 cubic yards of gravel, making a permanent playing ground equal to those of San Francisco and France, and yet I was criticised for this and charged with destroying the lawns.

"This playground, some 850 feet long, is hidden from the Fifth Avenue side, and is cut off on the other end by the transverse road, and will be concealed on the southern end by rows of trees."

The Commissioner said the park was full of dead maple trees, many of them nothing more than bare poles, which ought to be cut down, but there were many objections to this from persons who did not understand the situation. To replace the trees he is removing, and to cover places where there are no trees, he is planting a new species of trees.

Other improvements, he said, would include gardens conducted by public school children. The old wooden circular platform around the conservatory lake, where children sail their boats, is to be removed, and a concrete sunken walk replace it so that the children will not fall in the lake. He would like to remove the stables at Eighty-sixth Street, and is removing the shanties that are used for storage purposes at the lakes.

At the lake at Fifty-ninth Street and Fifth Avenue he intends to restore the swan boats, two of which will be put in operation this afternoon. These boats will carry about a dozen passengers. They were abolished five years ago when a little girl was drowned. Mr. Stover says the boats will be safely managed.

No Tango at Fordham Dance.

By a unanimous vote, the Seniors of Fordham University decided yesterday to bar the turkey trot, tango and all varieties of one-step dancing from the class dance to be held on the evening of April 29 at the Hotel Gotham. The programme will contain only the most decorous of the old-fashioned waltzes and two-steps. This action was taken entirely on the initiative of the students themselves, without any suggestion or pressure from the faculty.

Benefit for Children's Garden.

To raise funds for the Children's Garden that was maintained last year on the grounds of the Rockefeller Institute, the Children's Garden Club of the National Plant, Flower and Fruit Guild, New York City Branch, will give the operetta of "Red Riding Hood" on Friday at 8 P. M. at the John Hall Memorial House, 342 East Sixty-third Street. The Countess Anna Leary is patroness of the entertainment, and it is arranged and will be directed by Miss Laura Shreve. Ceremonial songs and dances of the Zuni Indians will be given by Miss Zahrah Preble, in Indian costume, preceding the operetta. Tickets, for sale at the Guild office, 70 Fifth Avenue, and at the Memorial House, are only ten cents.

ELGAR'S "MUSIC MAKERS."

A Concert by the University Festival Chorus Under Walter Henry Hall.

The University Festival Chorus, an organization of which the motive power emanates from the extension teaching of Columbia University, gave a concert last evening in Carnegie Hall that had unusual elements of interest. It was announced as the fourth concert of the organization, which is conducted by Walter Henry Hall, who holds the chair of choral music in the university. Sir Edward Elgar's setting of Arthur O'Shaughnessy's ode "The Music Makers" was given for the first time in America, followed by Sir Arthur Sullivan's music to Longfellow's "Golden Legend."

Elgar's composition is one of his latest compositions, written for the Birmingham festival of last Autumn. It is one of the things expected of English composers to write choral works for the great English festivals. Sometimes they are real music and sometimes they are not; but the Birmingham festival, with a long history behind it, has some immortal works to its credit, using the word "immortal" in the approximate sense it must have in musical art. "The Music Makers" will probably not reach so near to immortality as, for instance, Mendelssohn's "Elijah," but it is real music and is not unworthy of the man who may reasonably claim to be the foremost English composer of the day. Skill in writing for the chorus and especially in enhancing his effects by a rich and varied treatment of the orchestra marks the work throughout. It is of a length that makes it somewhat difficult to fit into an evening's programme, being too short to occupy the whole and too long to be joined with many others, but its difficulty is by no means so great as the difficulty which may well embarrass many choral societies in considering the oratorios that have most contributed to Elgar's fame—"The Dream of Gerontius," "The Apostles," and "The Kingdom.'

There are two contralto solos in it, both of which are effective. These were sung by Miss Mildred Potter with admirable skill and taste. The others of the solo quartet singing in "The Golden Legend" were Miss Grace Kerns, soprano; Dan Beddore, tenor, and Herbert Witherspoon of the Metropolitan Opera Company, bass.

ORIENTAL ART OBJECTS SALE

The opening sale of Oriental art objects belonging to the amateur collectors, Walter Manchester and Miss Ida M. Manchester, at the American Art Galleries yesterday afternoon brought $3.760. A Japanese bronze okomono, "An Enraged Tiger," went to George B. Wheeler for $85; an ivory carving, a mammoth cockle shell invaded by dwarfs, went to Oshima for $135; Mrs. Varicks paid $115 for a Japanese bronze vase, with teakwood stand; Mrs. J. Osterlem $57.50 for a fine old Imari ginger jar, with carved teakwood stand and cover.

David Belasco made a number of purchases. Among these was an old Japanese brocade hanging of dark blue satin, with dragons and cloud forms, which went for $102.50; Chinese silk fringe in colored silk tassels, $47.50, an old rose gift cloth, with embroidered chrysanthemums in silk and gold thread, $22.50, and a blue satin gift cloth, with the hundred storks design in the embroidery for $72.50.

The sale will be continued this afternoon, and concluded this evening, when Japanese color prints, Japanese stencils, with etchings, woodcuts, water colors, and a few paintings by other artists will be sold.

Mme. Cottrelly Sings Opera Again.

Mme. Mathilde Cottrelly gave up her own matinee of "The Five Frankforters" yesterday afternoon and appeared at the Casino Theatre for one performance only in the rôle of Palmatica in "The Beggar Student." Twenty-five years ago she was the stage director, costume designer, wardrobe mistress, and soubrette of the original production of the piece by the McCaull Opera Company, and yesterday's performance was recognized as hers.

FINANCIAL MARKETS

Prices Move Narrowly—Trading Small—Further Declines in Bonds.

In some respects yesterday's stock market events served to strengthen the view that short selling had been the main factor in depressing prices on Tuesday. Inasmuch as nothing occurred yesterday which would have checked a liquidating movement the sharp contraction in the selling and the relative steadiness of prices may more readily be accounted for on the assumption that the previous day's trading was mainly professional operations, which included a large share of transactions for the short account. This view was further borne out by the movement in a stock like Reading, which rose over a point yesterday in a manner which suggested covering of sales which had previously been effective in causing a sharp decline in that stock. So small seems to be the outside participation in the market these days that there is hardly ground for considering the dealings on the Stock Exchange as anything more than manoeuvrings for a position of advantage by traders who make a profession of Stock Exchange dealings. If this be a true estimate of the situation temporarily prevailing those interested in the financial situation as a whole may well pass to other matters as the chief features of interest in the present situation. Most of those in the financial district seem to be doing this, for much less is being heard these days regarding the stock market itself than is heard regarding the position of the bond market, the investment situation generally, and the money and general business outlook.

Perhaps the most conspicuous incident of the day's bond dealings was the further decline in New York City securities. Last year's issue of 4¼ per cent. bonds sold as low as 96¾, and most of the city issues traded in on the Stock Exchange also made new low records for the year. It is clear, of course, that the market for these issues is feeling the effects of the general expectation that a large issue of bonds presumably bearing 4½ per cent. interest will shortly be made by the city. This, however, is based on assumptions regarding the city's needs for money rather than on any intimation of an official decision regarding new financing. The view still prevailed yesterday that the offering of St. Paul 4½ per cent. bonds will call forth sufficient subscriptions to fully cover the issue—at the same time sales of these bonds on the Stock Exchange at one-quarter under the price of the public offering naturally was taken by many as an indication that the basis on which the bonds have been offered has not more than met the requirements of the investment market. The prevalence of this view helps to account for the fact that the recent decline in bond prices and the offering of new issues at relatively high interest yields have not led to an aggressive buying movement. The position of the bond market continues to suggest that either the amount of capital awaiting investment is small or that the yields even at the lower prices to which bonds have declined are not for the moment regarded by investors as particularly attractive. The position of the bond market, whatever the relative weight which should be given to the several factors entering into it, is very naturally regarded as reflecting the most interesting phase of the present financial situation.

If hopes which the London market has been entertaining with a good deal of confidence are fulfilled, the official discount rate of the Bank of England will be reduced to-day from 5 to 4½ per cent. The London market itself was expressing some last moment uncertainty on the point yesterday after having looked upon a reduction as practically assured. The open market discount rate has now been established under 4 per cent., and the present position of the London money market, so far as it is concerned, seems fully to justify a reduction to 4½ per cent., but considerations other than those based on the immediate money position will probably enter into the decision of the Directors of the Bank for or against a reduction in the discount rate. If a reduction is made, it will rightfully be regarded, no doubt, as an indication that the Directors of the Bank feel that the greater confidence which the European markets as a whole have lately been showing in the early establishment of peace has been justified. Therein, it would seem, will lie the importance of a reduction in the rate.

Home news bearing on the general business situation included the weekly reports from the iron trade, which recorded a further weakening in pig iron prices contrary to the general expectation of the trade. This represents a continuance of a movement which has been in progress for a number of weeks past and which has been accepted in some quarters as pointing clearly toward a recession in steel production. So far the decline in the market for pig iron has had but slight effect upon the prices of finished products. Indeed, yesterday's news included announcement that an advance in the price of steel pipe made by the principal producer had been followed by other makers.

One phase of the controversy which is going on between certain stockholders of the Vulcan Detinning Company and the management of that company is of widespread interest—the demand of the protesting stockholders that the company issue quarterly reports of earnings. The assumption is so strongly in favor of frequent statement of earnings by corporations that this particular feature of the controversy, is hardly sufficiently disposed of by the management of the company, in the circular just issued to its shareholders, by the bare statement that the Directors have concluded that there was no good reason to issue quarterly statements and that the best interests of the company would be served by not doing so. If some good reason exists why the stockholders, the partners in the enterprise, should be given information regarding its earnings only once a year, a fuller explanation of the case seems needed to satisfy the public at large that the best interests of the company would be served by refusing the request of some of the shareholders for quarterly statements.

THE TREASURY STATEMENT.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 16.—The Treasury statement, issued to-day, gives receipts and expenditures for yesterday and for the elapsed periods of the month and of the fiscal year as follows:

	April 15.	Month.	Fiscal Yr.

*Deficit.

These figures exclude Panama Canal and public debt transactions.

The condition of the United States Treasury at the beginning of business to-day was: Working balance, $77,885,819; in banks and Philippine Treasury, $42,323,040; total of general fund, $146,765,964.

TOPICS IN WALL STREET.

New Progressives on Exchange.

The selection of an independent ticket for officers of the Stock Exchange gives evidence of a changed attitude on the part of an important element of the membership toward internal politics. A year ago the parties were clearly defined. The progressives stood for fixed business principles and the conservatives had their own opinions on various items of policy which differed radically from the principles the progressives favored. In some directions, it appears now, the conservative members of influence have adopted numerous ideas of the progressives, and even have gone beyond them. It is said that several conservatives of a year ago, who were outspoken against publicity of Exchange matters, have been the most active lately in having the public informed. They were the first to indorse the plan of equipping a meeting room for the newspaper men, and have lost much of the hesitancy they used to display when questioned on subjects having to do with internal affairs of the Stock Exchange.

Copper Shares Swing Apart.

Amalgamated Copper and American Smelting and Refining shares swung along side by side, fluctuating between a fraction above 68 and a fraction above 70, from the middle of March to the 26th of the month. On that day they both sold at 69¾ some time during the session, but in closing transactions a somewhat greater force was shown by Amalgamated. Copper metal had begun to recover from its low price under 14 cents and it seemed as though the better quotations were being reflected more generously by Amalgamated than by Smelters in the opening week of April. Then, too, the Guggenheim stock was adversely affected in the mind of traders by rumors of a coming Government suit, and at times lost ground while its contemporary was moving forward. In following days Amalgamated continued to advance and Smelters experienced much difficulty in holding its own. The net product of a month's trading, as set forth in yesterday's quotations, was a gain for Copper of nearly 9 points, while Smelters stood very little changed from its position on March 16.

Copper Price and Supply Abroad.

The price of copper was firmly fixed at 15¾ cents in London yesterday, according to dispatches received in the local trade, and signs of a fractional advance from this figure were detected in active inquiries for metal for quick delivery. The fortnightly statistics from abroad showed a net increase in the visible supply on April 15 of 716 tons to 45,793 tons since the end of March, but the aggregate of copper stocks in Europe, with this expansion, was still more than 15,000 tons less than the total on hand at the corresponding date of last year.

Hill on Money Conditions.

James J. Hill advised the railroads yesterday to exercise extreme caution in making financial commitments just now. The price of loans was too high, he said, and the outlook for cheaper rates was not entirely favorable, because too many borrowers were heading for the money market, ready to acquire capital at topheavy figures. Farming in his part of the country, Mr. Hill said, was thriving despite the late Spring, and a good year should result.

Industrial Advantage.

The decision of the International Harvester Company to move its twine plant from Auburn to Germany, since labor conditions in this country were proving difficult, recalls an oft-made remark by James J. Hill. When various State commissions adopted new restrictive regulations, or the Inter-State Commerce Commission declined a rate advance, Mr. Hill used to say that no matter how onerous the situation in which it found itself, a railroad could not stop its trains or pick up its property and move to a more congenial territory.

St. Paul's 4½s on the Exchange.

There is no better token of the apathy of the bond market than that the early enthusiasm over the offering of a first-class mortgage bond on slightly better than a 4½ per cent. basis has already begun to wane. No announcement as to the amount of the $30,000,000 St. Paul 4½s, which has been sold, has yet been made, but the premium over the public offering price of 99½ was quickly lost, and the new bonds closed yesterday at 99¼. This situation has proved very discouraging to those corporation heads who planned to follow the St. Paul issue with financing of their own.

Delaware & Hudson Financing.

The fact that the Delaware & Hudson has a floating debt of $3,500,000 which it desires to provide for, and has the usual amount of improvement work to do this Summer, added strength to a report yesterday of an early bond issue by this company. Bankers, who have handled previous issues, said that while the company would probably apply to the up-State Commission shortly for permission to sell bonds no arrangements had been made for any new financing.

FINANCIAL NOTES.

Prof. S. H. Huebner of the Wharton School of Finance of the University of Pennsylvania has arranged with authorities of the Stock and Cotton Exchanges to bring his class in economics to study these institutions at first hand on April 23.

Frank Johnson has been appointed Treasurer of the Missouri, Kansas & Texas Railroad Company, to succeed C. N. Whitehead, who has become assistant to President Schaff.

H. L. Ingersoll, formerly Assistant General Manager of the New York Central, has been appointed assistant of the Senior Vice President of the company.

Hermann Sielcken was elected a Director of the Miami Copper Company yesterday.

BOURSES OF EUROPE

London Money Market Hopeful of a Reduction of the Bank Rate To-day.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

LONDON, Thursday, April 17.—The Times in its City article to-day will say:

"The supply of money was greatly in excess of the demand. Balances could not be lent at the close in many cases. Discount rates were weak on the expectation that the Bank rate would be lowered to-day, an opinion which good judges think justified by the recent improvement in the Balkan situation.

"The stock markets, after opening rather dull owing to the prominence given to the Franco-German incident at Nancy, developed a firmer tone when it was found that the chief Continental Bourses were quite undisturbed. Investment business proceeded on a satisfactory scale, although the appearance of the new Western Australian loan acted as a damper and brought about a small relapse in scrips of recent issues. Home railway stocks closed higher, as a rule. The Canadian Pacific Railway shows once more that it has resumed an upward course, but in the American market slight falls were shown in a majority of instances. The foreign market was cheered by news of the success of the Argentine loan, while in the foreign railway section a certain amount of profit-taking was in progress."

PARIS, April 16.—Prices were easy on the Bourse to-day.

Three per cent. rentes 86 francs 32½ centimes for the account.

BERLIN, April 16.—Trading was active and prices were firm on the Boerse to-day.

MONEY AND EXCHANGE.

Money on call loaned on Stock Exchange collateral at 2½@3 per cent., with the last loan at 2½ per cent. Most of the day's business was done at 3 per cent.

Time money rates were 3¾@4 per cent. for thirty days, 4@4¼ per cent. for sixty days, 4½@4¾ per cent. for ninety days and four to six months.

Commercial paper was quoted at 6 per cent. for the best names.

Clearing House exchange, $361,809,684; balances, $16,715,796; Sub-Treasury credit balances, $20,211.

The local banks have lost $712,000 on their Sub-Treasury operations since Friday.

FOREIGN RATES.

Discount rates abroad yesterday were: London, 3⅞ per cent. for short bills, 3 15-16@4 per cent. for three months; Paris, 4 per cent., and Berlin, 4⅝ per cent. Money was 3¼@3½ per cent. in London, and 4 per cent. in Berlin.

The Paris check rate on London was 25f. 24½c., and the Berlin check rate on London was 20 marks 47 pfennigs.

Foreign exchange rates at the points noted were quoted as follows at the close of business yesterday:

CABLE AND SIGHT RATES.

London—Cable, $4.87; demand., high, $4.8655; low, $4.8645; last, $4.8655.

Paris—Cable, 5.18⅛ less 1-32; check, 5.18¾ plus 1-64.

Berlin—Cable, 95⅛ plus 1-32; check, 95 1-16.

Switzerland—Cable, 5.19⅜ less 1-16; check, 5.20 less 1-32.

SIXTY AND NINETY DAY BILLS.

London—Bankers', 60 days, $4.8305; 90 days, $4.8140.

London—Commercial, 60 days, $4.82¾; 90 days, $4.81⅛.

Paris—Commercial, 60 days, 94 3-16 less 1-32; 90 days, 93 13-16.

DOMESTIC EXCHANGE RATES.

Boston, par; Chicago, 15c premium; St. Louis, 30c premium; St. Paul, 50c premium; San Francisco, 40c premium; Montreal, 15⅝c premium.

SILVER QUOTATIONS.

CONSOLIDATED EXCHANGE.

Firmness was an underlying characteristic of the market on the Consolidated Stock Exchange. Operators who were short showed a tendency with the openings at 9.30 o'clock to retire their bearish commitments. This disposition was reflected on the initial call, when a number of prominent stocks changed hands at prices slightly above the closing quotations of Tuesday. While the market sold off after the call, there was no pressure of offerings and rallying tendencies were displayed in the afternoon.

PACIFIC HEARING IN ST. PAUL

Merger Dissolution Plan to be Submitted to the Court.

Special to The New York Times.

ST. LOUIS, April 16.—Judge Adams of the United States District Court said to-night that the Union Pacific-Southern Pacific hearing would be held in St. Paul on Monday next, and that he expected to sit in the case. The announcement was made after a message had been received from St. Paul saying that according to plans formulated by Judge Walter H. Sanborn at St. Paul, further hearings would be before the Judges of the United States District Court for the Eastern District of Utah, where the original suit of the Government against the merger was brought. Maxwell Evarts will represent the Southern Pacific, E. L. Markham the Southern Pacific Stockholders' Protective Committee, Judge R. H. Lovett the Union Pacific, and F. W. McCutcheon the Western Pacific. The revised merger dissolution plan, if ready, will be submitted to the court at the hearing.

N. Y. C. LINES CONSOLIDATE.

J. P. Morgan Succeeds His Father as a Director of the New Company.

ALBANY, N. Y., April 16.—The consolidation of the New York Central & Hudson River Railroad Company and several of its subsidiaries was effected at a special meeting of the old company held this afternoon, at which 68 per cent. of the stock voted for consolidation and for the formation of a new corporation, which bears the name of the old company. The capital stock of the new corporation is $225,581,100, of which $222,729,300 belongs to the stockholders of the old New York Central and $2,851,800 to those who were stockholders of the other companies which were consolidated. By the mergers and consolidations all of the railroad companies organized under the laws of New York which were leased or controlled by the New York Central, with the exception of the New York & Harlem, the Wallkill Valley, and companies whose owned lines are partly in other States, were brought together in this new corporation.

At the annual meeting of the stockholders of the New York Central at noon the old Board of Directors was re-elected with one exception. J. Pierpont Morgan was elected in place of his father. The new corporation retained the Board of Directors of the old company, as well as all the old general officers. Dwight W. Pardee, the Secretary, filed copies of the agreement and articles of incorporation with the Secretary of State and the Clerk of Albany County.

The election of Mr. Morgan to the New York Central Directorate is in keeping with the policy expected to be followed by all the corporations in which his father was a Director. The Steel Corporation is excepted because of the fact that Mr. Morgan is already a Director. The First National Bank meeting will be held on the second Tuesday of May, and Mr. Morgan will, it is expected, be made a Director at that time.

REPORTS ON BRADEN COPPER

Mr. Birch Says Plant in Chile Is Producing 20,000,000 Lbs. a Year.

Stephen Birch, Vice-President of the Braden Copper Company, has returned from an extended visit to the company's property in Chile prepared to recommend that the plant be increased to double its present capacity. He says:

"There are at the present time about 4,000 men employed on the property, managed by Americans of the highest type.

"The railroad from Rancagua to the mines, seventy-two kilometers long, which is owned by the mines company, has been well ballasted and put in excellent condition. All the power used in the mining and milling operations is developed by use of the Cachapoal River, and the company owns one of the best power sites and plants in Chile. Operations at the new mill and the old mill are being carried on with the ordinary wet method of milling, the slimes being treated by mineral-separation process. A crushing plant for fine grinding is now being installed, and upon its completion we will be treating 3,000 tons of ore per day. It is also planned to smelt the concentrates on the property, and a smelter for this purpose is now nearing completion.

"We are now producing at the rate of 20,000,000 pounds of copper per annum, and with the completion of the smelter in a few months our production should be about 36,000,000 pounds yearly."

ALLIS-CHALMERS FREED.

Plants Pass from Receivers to New Company—All Officers Elected.

Directors of the Allis-Chalmers Manufacturing Company completed their organization yesterday by electing Max W. Babb Vice President and General Attorney; L. F. Bower, Secretary and Treasurer. The new officers all live in Milwaukee, and the company will be managed from this city as the Allis-Chalmers Company was before its reorganization. At a meeting shortly after the company was incorporated in Wilmington, Del., in March, the Directors elected J. M. McClement Chairman of the board, and Otto H. Falk, the former receiver of the Allis-Chalmers Company, President of the company.

The plants which formed the old Allis-Chalmers Company were taken from the hands of the receivers yesterday and began operations under the new management. All legal requirements were completed on Tuesday with the approval of Judge Geiger, in the United States District Court at Milwaukee.

Confidence in Standard Oil is best shown by the accumulation of the stock of the various former subsidiary companies, since the dissolution of the parent company, by those in a position to judge their intrinsic worth.

We know it to be the policy of a number, who are well informed, to continually reinvest their dividends and surplus funds in these stocks; it is our advice to the investor desiring large return, secured by enormous earning power, and the possibility of enhancement in value, to become thoroughly familiar with this class of securities.

COTTON EXCHANGE SHUTS OUT NOVICES

AN OLD PROVISION REVIVED

Only Those Who Have Worked in Cotton Brokerage Houses Will Have Much Chance of Election.

The New York Cotton Exchange decided by a majority vote yesterday that election to membership on the Exchange should hereafter be denied to applicants who do not have a thorough knowledge of buying and selling cotton. The ruling makes practically impossible the purchase of seats by other than those who have served a long apprenticeship in cotton brokerage houses or gained in other ways familiarity with methods of trading in the commodity as practiced on the Exchanges of New York, New Orleans, Memphis, and other cities in the South.

It was decided that no hard and fast rules of eligibility should be established. The requirement was made, however, that application for election must be accompanied by a sworn statement that the prospective purchaser of a seat possesses the knowledge that the Exchange demands.

While the rule was new to many of the members who voted upon it, it was, as a matter of fact, the revival of one of the fundamental laws of the Cotton Exchange. For a number of years after the Exchange was founded only actual dealers in cotton were admitted to trading. When transactions in cotton expanded to large proportions in the '90s the rule gradually was disregarded, and the revision of the constitution a few years ago was made with the old provision on membership requirements omitted.

Section 63 of the Exchange by-laws was amended yesterday to admit of the old ruling.

Secretary King said yesterday that the amended by-law was self-explanatory.

"The Exchange has decided that a complete insight into trading is essential for the carrying on of business in the most efficient manner," he said, "and the best interests of the board can be forwarded by having members who know exactly what problems they will meet when they are elected. Heretofore, it has only been necessary for an applicant to possess an excellent reputation and a stable financial position to be elected, and his technical knowledge of the business might be incomplete. The ruling, of course, cannot apply to any persons who have already been admitted to membership."

The knowledge required for membership, said Mr. King, would not necessarily extend to the growing and marketing of cotton, but the Exchange would insist upon a comprehensive grasp of the details of buying and selling of contracts on the board.

DEPOSITS $111,000,000 LESS SINCE LAST CALL.

The Clearing House issued yesterday its compilation of the returns of the National banks of New York City in response to the Controller's call of April 4. Between Feb. 4, the date of the previous call, and April 4 aggregate deposits decreased more than $111,000,000, loans more than $42,000,000, and the banks lost $24,700,000 cash. The loss in cash was due almost entirely to the exports of gold to Europe and South America. Compared with the corresponding call of last year, deposits showed a decrease of $72,458,000, loans a reduction of $25,856,000, and cash a loss of $23,789,000.

In view of the recent reports that selling of bonds by banks has contributed to the decline in the price of investment issues special interest attaches to the change in the National banks' holdings of securities other than United States bonds. Those holdings amounted on April 4 to $181,047,000, a decrease compared with Feb. 4 of $8,395,000. Compared with a year ago a decrease of $2,190,000 was shown.

The reduction in deposits was accounted for chiefly by the drawing down of bank balances held by the National banks here. This explained $77,200,000 of the total decrease, the reduction in individual deposits amounting to $34,400,000.

The several items of the returns under the call of April 4 showed these changes compared with the previous call and the corresponding call of last year:

WEAKNESS IN PIG IRON.

Floods Didn't Have Expected Effect of Hardening Market.

Discussing current developments in the iron and steel trade, The Iron Age says in its issue of to-day:

The decline in pig iron has been more marked in the last week, low prices which were exceptional before being now generally quoted. The effect has not been the same on all consumers. A few have bought, perhaps on the theory that the average buyer recognizes the bottom after a rebound from it, but the great majority take the view that prices will go lower.

It has been assumed that the Central Western floods by cutting down pig-iron output more than they cut down consumption would bring a firmer market; on the contrary, weakness has been more pronounced. In Ohio, foundry iron has declined about 50 cents to $15.50 at furnace for No. 2 iron. Eastern markets have been more active, due to buying by larger consumers.

The steel trade has found the floods a very much smaller market factor than was expected. Railroad demand for quick shipment cut no large figure; but jobbers in the Chicago district have been called upon to ship far afield to supply the urgent wants of consumers whose mill connections were cut off. An advance of a half point, or about $1 a ton, in steel pipe by the largest producer, effective April 12, has been followed by the independent companies. Rail buying is small, but the mills are being pressed for Spring deliveries.

The Iron Trade Review says:

The continued decline in pig iron prices has been accompanied by heavy buying in some sections, and it is confidently believed that a continuance of this buying will strengthen the pig iron market. The effects of the recent floods are still being felt, but principally in delays of the railroads in delivering raw materials and finished products. Some financial effect is also noticeable, as many sellers are receiving pleas for leniency from flood sufferers, and are manifesting a disposition to be very considerate with buyers who have had good credit in the past and are now struggling to rehabilitate themselves. Although new buying is noticeably less vigorous in finished materials in most sections, the tone to this market remains very favorable. Measured by the recent high mark of business, new orders are relatively moderate, but in fact they constitute a good tonnage.

Vacuum Oil Profits Grow.

ROCHESTER, April 16.—The Vacuum Oil Company reported to-day for the year ended on Dec. 31, 1912, profits of $4,159,006, a gain of $1,220,000 over the previous year. Secretary Wendell M. Smith announced in his annual report that total sales had increased 15 per cent. over 1911. The portion of the net earnings which was not required to pay a dividend of 3 per cent., he stated, had been used to finance the increasing volume of business.

BANK OF THE METROPOLIS
31 UNION SQUARE
SAFE DEPOSIT VAULTS

Organized 1871 Member of N. Y. Clearing House

A GROWTH OF FOUR DECADES

The Bank of the Metropolis for over 40 years has been closely identified with the business growth of the city in the vicinity of Union Square.

From a small bank, serving the banking needs of the retail stores in the neighborhood, it has developed into a great commercial banking institution with capital and surplus of $3,100,000.

Its officers will be glad to extend a welcome to new business houses establishing themselves in the neighborhood.

OFFICERS:
EDWIN S. LAFFEY, Cashier
EDWARD C. EVANS, Vice-President

Travelers' Checks
For Payment of U. S. Customs Duties

The Travelers' Checks issued by this company in denominations of $10.00, $20.00, $50.00 and $100.00 are now accepted by the U. S. Government in payment of duties at any Port of Entry.

European tourists can thus avoid the annoyance of having to carry a quantity of American money during their travels, or of securing it upon landing in this country.

These checks are self-identifying; are payable at face value all over Europe; and when used in connection with our Letters of Credit are a great convenience to travelers both here and abroad.

SEEK TO RESTORE TRADE WITH MEXICO

Exporters Think of Asking State Department to Declare Itself Toward New Government.

BUSINESS OFF 80 PER CENT.

Special Meeting of the Export Association to be Called and All Members Sounded.

A committee representing the American Manufacturers' Export Association was appointed yesterday with authority to get from association members throughout the country an expression of opinion as to whether a demand be made upon the State Department at Washington for immediate information concerning this Government's plan to accord or withold recognation of the Republic of Mexico as at present constituted. It was decided also to call a special meeting of the association. Because of the importance of the association, whose members export more than a billion dollars worth of goods annually, it was believed that the Government would be compelled to recognize a demand for information, and that great caution should be exercised before such a demand was made. Secretary of Commerce Redfield was President of the Export Association before he was called into President Wilson's Cabinet.

The appointment of the committee followed a lively discussion at a luncheon held at the Railroad Club, 30 Church Street, and attended by fifty representatives of leading exporters in this country. It was announced that as a result of the revolution in Mexico the business of American exporters with Mexican clients had fallen off 80 per cent., and that these depressed conditions would continue until the Republic of Mexico was recognized by the United States.

M. de Moreira, President of the association, whose father was for many years Brazilian Minister to France, presided. The feature of the occasion had been announced as an address by Franklin Johnston, editor of The American Exporter, on the topic of export business as seen by the press. At the conclusion of Mr. Johnston's address, a discussion concerning this country's policy toward Mexico was precipitated by Maurice Coster, export manager of the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company.

"Is there anything we can do to make this country recognize Mexico?" Mr. Coster asked. "Many of us have interests there which are being jeopardized by the uncertainty regarding the attitude of our Government toward Mexico. This matter is one that concerns our bread and butter. Just so long as our Government holds aloof, just so long will the rebels of our sister republic be encouraged. Our exports to Mexico are 80 per cent. less than the normal amount. We can recover this if Mexico be recognized and thus aided to return to her old state of economical adjustment. This is a matter which has nothing to do with politics. Our association is sufficiently powerful to demand that light be thrown on the situation, and we should not be afraid to take the initiative in a matter which is of so much importance to the commercial prosperity of the United States. I ask the Chairman to call for a vote."

M. de Moreira replied:

"I believe that one of the reasons why the Government is delaying its decision is because of the pending investigation of the methods and administration of Ambassador Wilson in Mexico. Until this investigation is completed and a successor to Mr. Wilson appointed—if such action be taken—I am of the opinion that Secretary Bryan will withhold announcement of the Government's policy. He might be embarrassed by a demand for information made by our association at this time. There can be only a short delay, at most, before the investigation will be completed."

Mr. Coster repeated his suggestion that a vote be taken to ascertain the views of those present. R. G. Easton of the A. & F. Brown Company said he was in complete sympathy with Mr. Coster's efforts to find relief for American exporters, but advised that a vote be deferred until it was more representative of the association's entire membership.

"It is better to think the matter over," he said, "before going any further. We ought to give the Government a chance before committing the association to a declaration which would have to be considered by the State Department."

Charles Muchnic, representing the American Locomotive Company, suggested that the association as a whole be consulted.

"The subject of export relations may come up soon with Japan and other countries," he said. "It is better to present the matter in omnibus form at a special meeting of our association so that whatever be agreed upon by us may be placed before the State Department."

Mr. Coster said he believed that many of the politicians in Washington did not recognize the importance of American export trade with Mexico. "Our export trade with Mexico constitutes a large proportion of my company's total business," he said. "It is furthermost from my intention to drag this matter into politics."

A. J. Jupp of the Lunkenheimer Company made a motion that a special meeting of the association be called to ask the State Department to express its intention in regard to Mexico. The motion was carried and a committee of four was appointed, consisting of Mr. Coster, Mr. Muchnic, Mr. Leigh of the Western Electric Company, and Mr. Stevenson of the Remington Arms Company.

In his address preceding the discussion, Mr. Johnston pointed out that the work of the exporting manufacturer and the export manager was becoming more and more complex and difficult year by year owing to increased competition among American factories for export business.

"We see in your association," he said, "the first genuine attempt to organize the export trade in the same way that the hardware trade, for instance, is organized. At present the export trade is a heterogeneous collection of various sorts of firms and manufacturers, commission houses, export agents and forwarders. The action of your association in meeting the Commission House Organization and discussing points of mutual understanding was a fine thing."

FIREMEN'S AWARD.

Board of Arbitrators Will File the Wages Decision on Wednesday.

It was announced last evening that the arbitrators in the case of the demands of the firemen on the Eastern railroads will make public their award on Wednesday next, after first filing it under the provisions of the Erdman Act in the clerk's office of the United States Circuit Court. Each side will get a copy of the award, from which there will be no appeal.

The board has nearly finished with the exhibits in the form of statistics filed by both sides at the open hearings and Judge Chambers, Chairman of the board, said last night that the arbitrators are making better progress than they did last week.

The Conference Committee of the railroads will hold a meeting at the end of this week or on Monday next to prepare for its first meeting in the Engineering Societies Building with the General Adjustment Committee of the trainmen and conductors on the railroads. The meeting will be held on Tuesday in the Engineering Societies Building. The adjustment committees of the trainmen and conductors on these roads consist of the chairmen of the Adjustment Committee of the trainmen and conductors on each of the fifty-four Eastern railroads involved in their demands.

ELECTRIC ARC WAVE LONGER

Salem Radio Tests Show It Far Exceeds Spark Apparatus Energy.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 16.—Reports to the Navy Department regarding the experiments conducted on the recent voyage of the scout cruiser Salem to Gibraltar to test the Arlington naval radio plant reveal a fact of great value in that there appear to be wave phenomena in the ether surrounding the earth. It has been demonstrated that between the two types of radiation, the spark apparatus and the electric arc, or "undamped" oscillations, the latter is less modified by absorption as each progresses over the face of the earth.

The spark waves have proved to be less energetic up to a distance of several hundred miles. In the experiments with the Salem both types of transmission were used, and up to 900 miles distance it was found that there was little if any appreciable difference in their respective energy.

It was possible in the daytime to communicate with the Salem from Arlington with both types, equally up to 2,100 miles, and at night communication with the Salem was easily maintained at Gibraltar. But beyond the distance of 2,000 miles it was discovered that the waves produced from the electric arc showed an increasing efficiency and possessed an energy four times as great as those from the spark apparatus.

The discovery makes it necessary to conduct further experiments along the same line, and the plan is under consideration of sending the Salem out again, this time to the Mediterranean, to continue the trials at a gradually increasing distance.

MAYORS APPEAL TO SULZER.

Ask Governor to Aid in Obtaining Cash for Reform Institutions.

The Mayors of thirty-seven of the forty-nine cities of this State, through W. P. Capes, Secretary of the Conference of Mayors of the State of New York, has sent a letter to Gov. Sulzer asking him to use his influence to obtain adequate appropriations for Letchworth Village, the State Reformatory for Women, at Bedford; the New York Training School for Boys, and the State Farm for Vagrants. Here is the letter:

April 16, 1913.

Hon. William Sulzer,
The Capitol, Albany, N. Y.

Dear Sir:

Believing that you are in hearty sympathy with securing humane care for the feeble-minded, the reclaimable girl offenders and the reclaimable vagrant, we, the Mayors of cities in New York State, and members of the Mayors' Conference, trust that you will use all the influence of your high office to secure a prompt and adequate appropriation for Letchworth Village, for the State Reformatory at Bedford, the New York Training School for Boys, and for the State Farm for Vagrants.

ROBIN AGAIN A WITNESS.

He Asserts Morris and Cheney Got Money on Notes He Indorsed.

Joseph G. Robin, convicted of wrecking the Northern Bank and sentenced to one year's imprisonment in the Blackwell's Island Penitentiary, was brought yesterday before Supreme Court Justice Newburger and a jury to testify in the suit brought by the State Banking Department to recover $164,000, the balance due on three promissory notes which in December, 1910, he made payable to the Northern Bank. To prove that Robin while Chairman of the Executive Committee of the Board of Directors of the Northern Bank indorsed the three notes and that the notes had been discounted, George W. Morgan, counsel for the State Superintendent of Banks, called to the witness stand Anthony Stumpf of the Bankers' Money Order Company; Charles A. Horne, Deputy State Superintendent of Banks, and William L. Brower, formerly Vice President of the Northern Bank.

When not testifying himself, Robin sat beside his counsel, Robert D. Ireland, and whispered to him to interpose objections to the testimony. When Robin was called to the stand in the afternoon he asserted that he did not obtain any money through the discounting of the notes and that it all passed to F. K. Morris, Secretary of the Robin Development Company, and to L. A. Cheney, also connected with the company. Robin did pay $25,000 toward the settlement of the Northern Bank's claim, and counsel for the Banking Department said yesterday that he would prove that the two men whom Robin alleges received the money were merely his "dummies," used to cover up the transaction.

NEW CONTEMPT RULING.

Proceedings Must Be Instituted by Government, Not by Individuals.

The Circuit Court of Appeals handed down yesterday a decision which will affect Federal Court practice so far as contempt cases are concerned. A few weeks ago Louis J. Kahn of the fur importing firm of Kahn & Co. was brought before Judge Holt in the Federal District Court on the charge of having given evasive answers in bankruptcy proceedings before Commissioner Gilchrist. He was committed to the Ludlow Street jail for ten days for contempt, and took an appeal to the higher court.

In the opinion of the Circuit Court of Appeals, Judge Noyes has upset the commitment on the ground that contempt proceedings must be instituted by the Government and not by a private individual, and says that this ruling must apply to civil as well as criminal proceedings.

Moreover, the Circuit Court of Appeals holds that in contempt proceedings growing out of civil cases the District Court Judge cannot send a defendant to jail for any fixed period. He should receive the alternative of purging himself of the contempt at any time, and should be able to obtain his release immediately. Only in criminal cases in which the charge of contempt has been brought by the Government can a fixed sentence be imposed.

REJECT ELEVATOR WOMEN.

Board of Education Blasts Hopes of Washington Irving Pupils.

Students in the Washington Irving High School are disappointed, for the elevators in the new building in Irving Place will be run by boys, and women will not be employed for that purpose as the girls had hoped.

There was to be a hearing on the subject at the office of the Municipal Civil Service Commission, 299 Broadway, yesterday morning, but the Board of Education sent a letter to the commission saying that it would not appoint elevator women to the Washington Irving High School building, even if they were made eligible, and the matter was dropped for the time being.

SPRING BRINGS OUT DOUBLEPURPOSE CAR

Bodies That Can Be Either Open or Closed Popular—More Autos for Orphans.

With the coming of Spring days comes the familiar question in motordom:

"Shall it be an open or a closed body this year?"

This is a more serious question now that the ownership of the motor car is not confined to wealthy folk. Formerly, when automobiles were luxuries, it was simply a matter of having a closed car for cold weather and an open one for the warmer season and the country. Of course, there are a great many people nowadays who can and do have one car, as compared to the few who can maintain two or more.

It is for the owner of a single machine that the open or closed question assumes seriousness. To answer this problem, double purpose cars, convertible in a complete sense, have made their appearance. This type of car body is popular in England, where one form of it is called the cabriolet—although it by no means resembles the type of horse-vehicle which has that name. A representative of one of the American makers, who has had great success with the convertible body, Frank Eveland said of it yesterday:

"The attractiveness of the convertible is great for the ease with which the car can be changed from open to closed or back again, out on the road, and with only a few minutes' work. Open, it does not look different from any ordinary touring car, save for an added compactness."

Judging from the number of requests already received by the Orphans' Automobile Day Association, the orphanages of New York are eager to have their inmates participate in the outing of the association, which will take them to Glen Island, New Rochelle, on June 5. Many cars will be required to take care of all the children. It has been decided that the minimum age limit for children shall be six and one-half years, and that not more than one adult to each twenty children can be taken from the respective institutions. In addition to the twenty-two cars previously offered for the outing, the association has received during the last few days the offer of fifteen more pleasure cars, and ten trucks, to help give the children their jolly time. It has also received donations from Louis Fischer, $10; Howard Lilienthal, M. D., $5; Dolores G. Chadbourne, $10, and Homer E. Sawyer, $50.

⁂

All the preliminary arrangements for the commercial car show, which will be held at Olympia, London, July 18 to 26, are now complete. Contrary to the sentiment in this country regarding truck shows, the Society of Motor Manufacturers and Traders looks forward to much success from this exhibition. Pleasure car shows in provincial England, however, seem to be coming under the ban. After a recent vote on this subject, the debating society of the motor traders voted to continue shows of this kind by the narrow margin of but three votes.

BETTER WORK ON SUBWAYS.

Allied Real Estate Men Have Plans to Keep Broadway Free of Litter.

Resolutions have been passed by the Allied Real Estate Interests, the Merchants' Association, and the Central Mercantile Association asking the Public Service Commission to modify, if possible, the method of subway construction along Broadway, so as to prevent such obstruction of traffic as has taken place along Lexington Avenue and lower Broadway. Objection is taken in particular to the shafts in the streets and to the "by passing" of gas mains by their elevation on trestles along the sidewalks.

Suggestions have been made to the commission by Henry G. Opdycke, consulting Engineer of the Broadway Association, by which it is hoped that these annoyances may be avoided. He has pointed out that it would be easy to sink the shafts either in park areas or private property leased for the purpose, and that the pipes which had to be moved might easily be laid temporarily along the curb lines sufficiently below the surface to be out of harm's way.

REFUSES TO ADVISE TRUSTS.

McReynolds Declines to Interpret Sherman Law for Them.

WASHINGTON, April 16.—Attorney General McReynolds is receiving scores of requests for advice as to whether certain lines of action by combinations of capital would violate the Sherman anti-trust law. He refuses to commit the Department of Justice to interpretations of law, holding that such action would put the department in the light of being counsel to the commercial interests.

Among others this attitude was made known to W. P. G. Harding of Birmingham, Ala., who asked if the Government would object to the American Wire Company, a subsidiary of the United States Steel Corporation, completing its steel plant at Corey, Ala. Mr. McReynolds refused to say whether the Government would regard this as an improper move in view of the pending suit against the Steel Trust.

PUBLIC VIEW OF PLANS.

All Designs for New Court House, Winning and Losing, to be Shown.

The Court House Board has made arrangements for a public exhibition of all the designs for the County Court House submitted in the recent competition. Not only will the plans of Guy Lowell, who has been selected as the architect of the Court House, be shown, but also those of the 21 other competitors. Altogether about 300 drawings will be exhibited.

The exhibition will be held at the Fine Arts Building, in Fifty-seventh Street, between Broadway and Seventh Avenue, from Thursday to Sunday, April 24 to 27, and the public will be admitted free.

A number of the Judges of the Supreme Court and the City Court have visited the offices of the Court House Board, at 115 Broadway, in the last few days, and have inspected Mr. Lowell's Court House design. All of them have expressed themselves as well pleased with the plans.

NO MONEY FROM SICKLES.

Sheriff Unable to Collect State's Judgment Against Veteran.

Sheriff Julius Harburger said yesterday that he was unable to satisfy the judgment of $24,317 against Gen. Daniel E. Sickles obtained by the State to recover funds of the State Monument Commission, which he is accused of having retained. He has until April 27 to return the money, but should he be unable to make a settlement by that time the Sheriff will be called upon to put him in Ludlow Street Jail.

The Bowery Bank has a judgment of $148,000 against Gen. Sickles, but it has extended the period in which he can satisfy the claim. He will lose the control of his property.

Davison Will Sail with Harjes.

Henry P. Davison, partner in J. P. Morgan & Co., and Henry Harjes, senior member of Morgan, Harjes & Co., the Paris branch of J. P. Morgan & Co., will sail for Europe to-day. Mr. Harjes came to this country last week to attend the funeral of the late J. Pierpont Morgan. Mr Davison is going abroad for a vacation of two or three months.

TWO NORWICH BANKS CLOSE THEIR DOORS

ECHO PROVIDENCE FAILURE

President of Both Institutions Was Treasurer of the United States Finishing Company.

Special to The New York Times.

NORWICH, Conn., April 16.—The First National Bank did not open for business this morning and the Thames Loan and Trust Company closed soon after noon.

N. S. Dean, National Bank Examiner, has been placed in charge of the First National Bank. The Controller of the Currency has announced that the bank was closed by order of the examiner and its directors because of the relations of its President with a commercial concern now in financial difficulties.

The President of the bank, Franklin S. Jerome, recently resigned as Treasurer of the United States Finishing Company, which has been in financial embarrassments. Jerome also was President of the Thames Loan and Trust Company.

The resources and liabilities of the First National Bank on April 4 amounted to $1,272,680, including capital stock of $300,000; surplus, $108,745; deposits, $538,654; loans, $737,198.

The closing of the local institutions is attributed to the failure of the Atlantic National Bank of Providence last Monday. That bank had a capital of $300,000 and deposits of more than $2,400,000. It is understood that the difficulties of the United States Finishing Company were the contributing cause of that failure.

This notice was posted on the door of the Thames Loan and Trust Company to-day:

> On April 4 we published, in response to the call of the department, a statement of our condition. We were solvent at that time, and we believe that we are now, but the suspension of the Atlantic National Bank of Providence and of the First National Bank of Norwich has created a distrust that is resulting in our depositors calling for our deposits, and, in order to protect all our customers fully, we have decided to suspend, and place ourselves in the hands of the State Banking Department.
> R. W. PERKINS, Treasurer.

The last printed report of the condition of the Thames Loan and Trust Company placed its capital at $100,000 and its surplus and undivided profits at $38,822.83.

Edward P. Metcalf of Providence, who recently resigned from the Atlantic National Bank of that city, formerly was a Director of the First National Bank of Norwich, and for several years the two banks have had close business relations.

WASHINGTON, April 16.—John W. Schofield to-day was appointed receiver of the Atlantic National Bank of Providence, which closed its doors a few days ago by order of its board of Directors. This action was taken by the Controller of the Currency, because of a reported movement to attach the assets of the bank.

DIVIDENDS NOT TAXABLE.

Those Paged by Insurance Companies Are Not Earnings, W. A. Day Says.

W. A. Day, President of the Equitable Life Assurance Society, replied yesterday to the arguments advanced by the sponsors for the income tax bill in Washington in support of the tax on the "dividends" on life insurance policies. Congressman Hull had taken the position that the contention that these payments were not actually dividends had been overruled by Internal Revenue Commisssioner Cabell in respect to the present corporation tax. While this is true, it is also a fact that Mr. Cabell in turn has been overruled by the United States Court for the district embracing New Jersey.

"Under the old corporation tax law," said Judge Day, "the Commissioner did hold, contrary to the fact, that insurance dividends were profits and therefore subject to the tax. The mutual companies appealed to the United States Courts to save policy-holders from this erroneous decision. The United States Court for New Jersey found that in the case of insurance companies conducted on the mutual or participating plan, the premiums charged to policy-holders for reasons of safety and to meet unforeseen calamities of flood, pestilence, or war, were larger than were ordinarily required, but that at the end of the year so much of the premium as was unused for such purposes was returned to the policy-holder under the term 'dividends'; that such return premiums were not earnings, but savings of principal, and, therefore, not subject to taxation.

"We do not question the good intentions of the gentlemen who drafted this bill. We are not discussing the intention. What we assert is that the language of the bill as it now stands may put a tax on reserves and also on the face of the policy when it is paid to widows and orphans, and that it does tax the unused portion of the premiums returned to policyholders.

"It seems extraordinary that these gentlemen may not understand the nature of these refunds, and that the tax upon them comes directly from the pockets of the policyholders, who constitute the companies operating upon the mutual or participating plan.

"To escape the effect of the decisions of the courts the new law enlarges the old law by inserting the words 'or as return of premiums,' thus specifically taxing the unused portion of premiums returned to policyholders. Congress may sustain Mr. Cabell's opinion by enacting this law, but if it does so it will most unjustly discriminate against life insurance policyholders."

LATEST CUSTOMS RULINGS.

Ore Taxed Both as Lead and Zinc—Auto Models Held as Paper Charts.

The Board of United States General Appraisers yesterday overruled a protest by the Consolidated Kansas City Railways Company on ore shipments from Mexico assessed at both zinc and lead duties on their contents under paragraphs 181 and 193, Act of 1909. The importers asserted that it was improper for the Collector at El Paso to levy under both paragraphs and that duty should have been taken on the lead content, or the zinc, but not on both. Judge Fischer decided.

The American Express Company was sustained in a controversy over the classification under the present law of sheets of cardboard printed and cut out, having superimposed metal parts arranged to demonstrate the working of automobile engines to students. The Collector at St. Louis levied 45 per cent. ad valorem under paragraph 199, as manufactures in chief value of metal. The importers established that the articles should come in at 25 per cent. ad valorem under paragraph 416, as paper charts.

The Mouquin Restaurant & Wine Company of New York lost a protest on canned peas and beans, asserting that the water in the tins should not have been included in the dutiable weights.

Wireless Time for Jewelers.

WASHINGTON, April 16.—Jewelers and other commercial concerns all over the country, it developed to-day, are erecting wireless masts over or close to their places of business to catch the officially correct time flashed at 10 o'clock every night from the Navy's powerful wireless station at Arlington, Va. Local jewelers have seized the idea with enthusiasm.

COMMODITIES MARKETS

Wheat sold off from the day's high prices, but closed at net advances of ¾ to ⅞c. Corn prices closed unchanged to ¼c. net higher, and oats, after some irregularity, ⅛ to ⅜c. net higher. Cotton closed steady, net 4 points higher to 6 points lower.

WHEAT.

Domestic conditions were temporarily overshadowed yesterday by European news, the chief feature of which was a Broomhall estimate claiming that requirements from North America during the next fourteen weeks would aggregate 78,500,000 bushels. Its effect was quite bullish, and while bears succeeded after the opening in forcing prices off ⅛ to ¼c under the previous night on continued perfect weather conditions in the West, there was a noticeable lack of aggressive pressure, and the market quickly recovered, becoming positively strong in the late afternoon, with prices at one time ¾ to 1⅛c net higher, and at the close showing ¾ to ⅞c advance. The buying was stimulated after midday by rumors of a big export business, said to aggregate nearly 200 loads, between Baltimore and New York, but difficult of confirmation. The recent activity among exporters, however, encouraged the belief that undoubtedly a good business had been worked, as English stocks are low, and the Continent seems to be getting the bulk of the wheat now being shipped abroad. An advance of ¼ to ⅜d in Liverpool was the only strong spot in cables early, but Paris later advanced sharply, giving color to the reports about unfavorable crop conditions in France. Attention was called to the fact that Winnipeg May wheat has gone to a premium over Chicago for the first time, indicating a good demand in that market for wheat. There was also a good cash inquiry again at Minneapolis. Western crop conditions, as reviewed by the Price Current, were exceptionally favorable, and, as fair weather is indicated for the next three days, are likely to continue so. The movement was not heavy, amounting to only 414 cars in the Northwest, against 533 cars a year ago. In New York cash wheat was steady, closing as follows: No. 2 red, $1.12½ nominal, elevator, and $1.14 nominal, free on board afloat; No. 1 Northern, Duluth, $1.02, free on board afloat.

CORN.

There were two sides to the corn market, also, and perhaps less response than usual to bearish weather and planting news. The only weakness was shortly after the opening, when prices dropped ¼ to ⅜c under the previous night, due to selling by elevator people and an attempt to force the market off on the weather. Support at the decline was better than expected, however, and in efforts to replace early sales shorts ran prices up a cent a bushel in the early afternoon, while final quotations were only off a trifle from the top and unchanged to ¼c above the previous night. Western advices said country offerings were not so large, but it was intimated that country banks would urge customers to liquidate old crops before the new harvest begins, which would result in increased marketing. Export corn here was quoted at 62¼, free on board, afloat.

OATS.

Although somewhat irregular with other markets, the general trend of oats was higher all day, with final prices ⅛ to ⅜c above the previous night. Crop advices were generally favorable, but there was some talk about a possible reduction of acreage owing to rains in the leading States. Cash oats here closed as follows: Standard white, 40c, nominal; No. 3, 38½@39c; No. 4, 37½@38c; natural white, 37½@40c; white, clipped, 38@40½c, all track.

PROVISIONS.

The weakness of live hogs and big receipts at Western points had a depressing effect early in the day, but offerings decreased with the later strength in grain, and the market turned stronger, advancing quite sharply in the late afternoon. Packers and commission houses were quite active buyers after midday. At Chicago arrivals were 28,000 hogs; Kansas City had 13,000; Omaha, 10,500, and the West, 97,000. Chicago expected 18,000 hogs on Thursday.

COTTON.

Between reports of favorable weather in the South and talk of a more active spot demand at prices considerably above a parity with local quotations, the cotton market was more or less irregular yesterday, and in contrast with recent tendencies the old crop positions were relatively firm. Foreign buying of the near months was a feature both here and in New Orleans, and renewed rumors that English houses would take up May in New York for shipment to Liverpool as a protection against short sales in that market seemed to account largely for the relative firmness of May and July contracts. Advances were not fully maintained, but the market closed steady, net 4 points higher to 6 points lower.

The opening was steady, at unchanged prices to a decline of 4 points, in sympathy with somewhat disappointing cables, and prices sold about 4 to 7 points net lower during the early trading under scattering liquidation and bear pressure inspired by favorable weather forecasts and encouraging crop reports from Texas and some sections of the Eastern belt. Old crop offerings were very readily absorbed, however, by foreign buying, and when it was seen that this demand continued after the close of Liverpool shorts became somewhat uneasy. At any rate, the market rallied on active covering, with the advance led by the old crop months, which sold 6 to 8 points net higher, while the new crop, held back by good weather, worked only a point or so above Tuesday's closing figures. Realizing checked the advance, and the close was 5 or 6 points off from the best.

The New York market for May was about 138 points under May-June in Liverpool during yesterday's early trading, and was also well under a parity with spot cotton as quoted in the various Southern markets. When it was seen that foreign houses were good buyers at this difference, as they have been for some time past, rumors were circulated that a considerable block of the local stock would be shipped to Liverpool. It was claimed that several Liverpool houses which were short of July-August in the English market had approached the owners of the local stock with a view of securing cotton to protect their Summer months' commitments. The best terms on which they could secure supplies from the New York warehouses, however, was said to have been 40 points on April, and the story is that rather than pay this premium they began to buy May with a view to taking the cotton up on contract, particularly as the local stock has passed a strict inspection and is believed to contain much desirable cotton. Private wires from New Orleans said that both Liverpool and the Continent were buyers of May there during the morning. Southern spot markets were unchanged to ⅛c lower; generally unchanged.

The local market for spot cotton was quiet and unchanged at 12.40 for middling upland; sales nil.

COTTONSEED OIL.

A change to more bullish conditions developed in oil yesterday, and several months sold at or above the 7-cent level. Western selling was less in evidence, while refiners gave support to the market and there was a continuation of demand from consumers which considerably strengthened sentiment. The afternoon advance in lard also contributed to the strength of oil.

COFFEE.

At the start values were 5 to 8 points higher, and a slow, steady upward movement followed, prices closing at top with a net gain of 10 to 20 points on sales of 85,250 bags. Havre closed at a net advance of ¾ to 1 franc, while Hamburg was 1 pfennig net higher. Rio came 75 reis higher and Santos unchanged, while cost and freight offers ranged from 5 points lower to 10 points higher.

Spot coffee steady: 11¼c for Rio 7.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that the Committee constituted by the above mentioned Deposit Agreement has approved and adopted a certain Plan and Agreement dated April 14, 1913, for the reorganization of the property subject to the lien of the above mentioned mortgage, and that a copy of said Plan and Agreement has been filed with Central Trust Company of New York as Depositary under said agreement

Over ninety-two per cent. of the outstanding Ohio Southern Division First Mortgage Bonds have already been deposited under the Deposit Agreement. Unless within the period of twenty days from the first publication of this notice holders of outstanding certificates of deposit representing fifty per cent. in face amount of the deposited bonds shall file notice in writing with the Depositary under the Deposit Agreement that they dissent from the Plan and Agreement of reorganization, such Plan and Agreement will be binding on all holders of certificates of deposit, all of whom shall be conclusively and finally deemed for all purposes to have assented to the said Plan and Agreement and the terms thereof, whether they receive actual notice or not, and be irrevocably bound and concluded by the same.

Bondholders and holders of certificates of deposit will be permitted to share in the Reorganization only upon subscribing and paying to CENTRAL TRUST COMPANY OF NEW YORK, the Depositary, at its office, No. 54 Wall Street, New York City, for the purposes of the Reorganization, $500 in New York funds for each bond of the face value of $1,000 deposited by them, the first instalment of 20 per cent. of the amount so payable, viz.: $100 for each bond of the face value of $1,000, being payable on or before MAY 10, 1913, and the balance in one or more instalments as called for by the Reorganization Committee, on not less than two weeks' published notice given as provided in the Plan and Agreement of Reorganization. For such payments to be made by depositors under the Plan and Agreement and in exchange for the bonds deposited by them, depositors will be entitled to receive, upon the completion of the Reorganization, in case the Plan shall have been declared operative, for each $1,000 in cash payable by them, $1,000 in new Adjustment Mortgage Bonds, $2,000 in new preferred stock, and $1,000 in new common stock, as provided in the Plan and Agreement of Reorganization. Certificates of deposit must be presented to the Depositary at the time of the payment of the instalments payable in respect thereof for the appropriate notation thereon of such payment.

Holders of bonds who have not already deposited the same under the Deposit Agreement may become parties to the Plan and Agreement of Reorganization by depositing their bonds in negotiable form with the coupon maturing March 1, 1912, and all subsequent coupons thereto attached, with the Depositary under said Deposit Agreement, on or before MAY 10, 1913, receiving certificates of deposit therefor issued under the Deposit Agreement, with appropriate notation showing that the holders of said certificates have assented to the Plan and Agreement of Reorganization, and by paying to the Depositary the amounts payable under said Plan and Agreement as hereinbefore stated within the times limited for such payment.

Copies of the Plan and Agreement of Reorganization may be obtained from the Depositary or from the Secretary of the Committee.

IN THE BUSINESS WORLD

Fight Exemption Clause.

John Kirby, President of the National Association of Manufacturers, an organization with a membership embracing nearly 4,000 manufacturing concerns throughout the country, yesterday sent to President Wilson a strong letter of protest on behalf of the association against the provision of the Sundry Civil Appropriation Bill which prohibits any part of the $300,000 appropriated for the Department of Justice from being used to enforce the provisions of the Sherman anti-trust act against associations of farmers or labor unions. Mr. Kirby strongly opposes the bill, and calls to the attention of the President the veto of the same provision by ex-President Taft when introduced in a similar bill in the last Congress.

Linen Cancellations Reported.

Fall business is still being booked in good volume by local linen importers, but some uneasiness is caused by the cancellations that have been made in the last week or ten days. Two reasons are given for this action on the part of retailers, late deliveries of previously ordered goods and the belief that values will drop shortly because of the proposed reductions in the linen schedule. Wholesalers say there is no basis for this belief, pointing out the continued strength of raw materials abroad and the disposition of manufacturers of various lines to raise prices in proportion to the drop in duties.

Weather Hurts Clothing Business.

Unseasonable weather has retarded sales of men's Spring and Summer clothing, according to local manufacturers. Rough woolen fabrics are featured for Fall, and cassimeres and serges will be used extensively. Checks and neat stripes are wanted, while the color tendency is toward gray, brown, and navy in the order named. It is rumored, however, that green will become strong as the season advances. Coats are shown modeled close to the figure, and have little padding. Vests will button higher, and trousers will be without the turn-up.

Safety Razors Cut Sales.

Manufacturers and jobbers of barbers' supplies report New York business subnormal. Chairs, mirrors, and other heavy fixtures sell slowly. Razors, strops, dusters and mugs move in a fair way, as do cut-glass bottles, hair brushes with detachable bristle holders and glass mugs with silver deposits. Toilet waters, perfumes, talcum powders, soaps and massage creams are fairly active. Slack business is attributed directly to the increased popularity of safety razors.

Uncertain Styles Cause Delay.

Local manufacturers of cloaks and suits show hesitation in making up their Fall sample lines, as style uncertainties have prevented their knowing what fabrics will be best to feature. It is fairly sure, however, that worsted materials will give way to woolen, and that eponges will show more strength than ever. According to advices received from abroad, Fall will be another color season. Three-quarter length coats will be featured, and suit coats will be longer. Prices will probably be higher owing to advanced prices of raw materials and the increased cost of production.

Woolen Men Ask Tariff Date.

Hoping to protect Fall business and to gain time to organize generally for the expected tariff changes, woolen and worsted goods men are circulating this petition to Congress around the local market:

> Let Jan. 1 be named as the time when any new Tariff bill shall become operative, except that a date at least two months earlier be given for wool and other raw materials. The business of the country is being paralyzed by uncertainty and suspense.
>
> Why should not Congress make such a declaration and afford instant relief? Manufacturers and merchants cannot take orders on uncertain values. Let the Fall season be undisturbed, and time allowed for preparation and adjustment. The beginning of the new year is the natural and generally convenient time for new rates to take effect.
> We earnestly and urgently ask that Congress will take quick action, and remove trade embarrassments which must daily become more accute.

Much interest was shown in the trade yesterday in the comprehensive criticism of Schedule K, prepared by Julius Forstmann, President of the Forstmann & Huffmann Company, Passaic, N. J.

Cotton Exports Continue Light.

Business continues light in the export end of the local cotton goods market, and slight concessions on certain lines in the past week failed to improve foreign buying. China was an especially quiet market. Nearly all of the Eastern markets are said to have sufficient goods on hand for Summer business, and buyers are apparently waiting for the lower prices expected within the next two or three months. Shipments of domestics and cotton duck from this port in the week ended April 12 amounted to 8,939 packages, valued at $685,135. The year's total to date is $12,984,048.

Silk Plaids Coming In.

Late Spring business continues to come in to silk manufacturers and wholesalers in this market, and Fall orders are piling up in a way that causes general optimism. Plaids and checks are the latest contenders for popularity, and, while the retailers have so far been taking them slowly, an excellent business has been done in them with the cutters. Ribbed silks are also popular with this trade. A dropping off in the call for charmeuse is evident, and some merchants do not hold it so highly for Fall now. In the ribbon trade business on all kinds is keeping up well, and, according to a trade authority, this is the best season experienced in seven years.

Printcloth Prices Dropping.

There was no relief from the dullness in the local printcloth market yesterday, despite the concessions granted by the mills to get business. Nothing seemed cheap to buyers, according to one broker, who held the lack of demand for finished goods responsible for the prevailing quiet. Several changes were shown in the day's quotations, which follow:

27-inch, 56-52s	3c	38½-inch, 64-60s	5c
27-inch, 64-60s	3 7-16c	39-inch, 68-72s	5½c
28-inch, 64-60s	3¾c	39-inch, 72-76s	5⅞c
28-inch, 64-64s	4c	39-inch, 80-80s	7c

Brown sheetings, Southern standard, 8@8¼c; brown sheetings, 4-yard, 56-60s, 6¼c; denims, 9-ounce, 14@17c; tickings, 8-ounce, 13¾c; standard prints, 5½c, and standard staple ginghams, 6¾c.

BUYS GUTH BUSINESS.

United Drug Company Now in Control of Boston Candy Concern.

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, Mass., April 16.—Announcement was made to-day of the purchase of the Guth Candy Company by the United Drug Company of this city. The United Drug Company, which controls the Liggett drug stores throughout the country, already owns the Liggett and Daggett Candy Companies, and it is reported that they and the Guth Company will be combined under the head of the United Candy Company. In the absence of Mr. Liggett, President of the drug company, no information could be obtained regarding the details of the transaction.

The purchase will be interesting to New Yorkers in view of the recent establishment of Liggett stores there and the fact that the Guth distribution in that city has been largely dominated by the Riker-Hegeman interests.

Steel Tie Company Incorporates.

Special to The New York Times.

DOVER, Del., April 16.—Articles of incorporation were filed here to-day of the New York Steel Rail Tie Company, which is to promote, manufacture, buy, sell, and deal in railway ties of steel, or steel and concrete. The capital stock is $1,000,000. The incorporators are: Francis H. Hoffecker, Thomas J. Bowen, Jr., and Anthony McGarvey, all of Wilmington.

Cluett, Peabody & Co. Expands.

Special to The New York Times.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., April 16.—Cluett, Peabody & Co., Inc., of New York received a license to-day to incorporate in Illinois. The company is capitalized at $28,000,000, and the capital stock in Illinois is placed at $1,750,000.

New Rule for Film Shippers.

WASHINGTON, April 16.—The Inter-State Commerce Commission has placed motion-picture films in the category of dangerous and inflammable articles, and hereafter shippers will be required to pack them in "spark-proof metal cases, inclosed in strong and tight wooden or fibre board boxes or pails."

BUSINESS NOTES.

B. F. Larrabee, manager of the knit goods department of the H. B. Claflin Company, Worth and Church Streets, departed early yesterday morning for an extended business trip abroad.

Sealed proposals, in triplicate, will be received at the United States Engineer Office, Army Building, 39 Whitehall Street, until April 28 for furnishing and delivering Portland cement. Further information may be obtained from Col. W. M. Black at the address given.

Wertheimer Brothers, silk fabrics and ribbons, will take new quarters about July 1 at 19 East Twenty-fourth Street. They are now at 565 Broadway.

SIDELIGHTS ON SELLING.

The proposed revision of Schedule K has so far apparently had small effect on the activities of buyers of woolens and worsteds for both men's and women's wear.

There has been a good call for denims in this market in the last month or two, and Southern goods have been especially favored. Some of the most prominent Southern manufacturers of these goods have their production sold ahead for the next four or five months.

The vogue for linen suitings is held largely responsible for the improved demand for Maltese laces that has been noticed here of late. Because of their delicacy and fine workmanship these laces are particularly adaptable for use with linen garments.

CONSULAR TRADE NOTES.

The use of Australian gum, locally designated ironbark, also spotted gum, for wagon stock, spokes, tool handles, &c., has increased enormously during recent months. Up-to-date machinery for dealing with these articles has been installed, and although there is still a considerable import of American hickory, it appears that in time that country will be independent of this well-known wood.

The removal of the Servian duty on imported flour and meal apparently opens the markets of this kingdom to American shippers of those products. The continuance of the Balkan war will practically prevent any crops being raised this year, at least in Servia and Bulgaria.

The Mexican Minister of Fomento, Ing. Robles Gil, is about to undertake the reorganization of the Department of Labor, and will open a new bureau which will look after the wants of immigrants of the working class arriving in the Republic.

Many men and women are daily being employed in first-class positions by reading and answering The New York Times Help Wanted advertisements.—Adv.

BUSINESS TROUBLES.

THE FERGUSON CONTRACTING COMPANY, railroad contractor of 37 Wall Street, which had a large contract on the State Barge Canal, and which was petitioned into bankruptcy on Aug. 3, 1910, filed schedules yesterday in the United States District Court. They show liabilities $617,179, of which $235,900 are secured, and assets of unknown value, consisting of a claim against the State of New York in litigation, retained percentages under uncompleted contracts, claim against A. L. Richmond, Jr., of Pittsburgh, plant in Westchester County and elsewhere, 51 per cent. of the capital stock of the John P. Gilbert Company, and cash $4,279. There are about 300 creditors, among whom are James Talcott, $171,000, secured by assignment of estimates of the Barge Canal claim; American National Bank of Lynchburg, Va., $20,000, secured; Century Bank, $14,000, secured; First National Bank of Niles, Ohio, $10,000, secured; Second National Bank of Aurora, Ill., $10,000, secured; Marion Steam Shovel Company of Marion, Ohio, $7,900, secured; Burgettstown (Penn.) National Bank, $20,000; Southern National Bank of Wilmington, N. C., $15,000; Columbus Trust Company of Newburg, N. Y., $6,500; First National Bank of Newton Falls, Ohio, $5,400; First National Bank of Rock Creek, Ohio, $5,000; New Rochelle Trust Company, $4,500; Roseville Trust Company, Newark, $4,850; Mercantile National Bank, New York City, $4,500; Manufacturers' National Bank, Troy, $4,500; Vulcan Iron Works, Wilkesbarre, Penn., $7,753; Tampa Fuel Company, $5,611; E. I. Du Pont Powder Company, $9,900; Western Wheeled Scraper Company, Aurora, Ill., $14,349; American Locomotive Company, $5,801; Atlantic Coast Line Railroad Company, $4,100; Cincinnati Equipment Company, $5,825, and M. Jones & Co., Sallisaw, Okla., $9,155.

WITTENBERG & WOLBERG.—Schedules in bankruptcy of Wittenberg & Wolberg, hardware dealers at White Plains, show liabilities $2,448 and assets $1,100 in stock.

HERMAN KUTHE.—Schedules in bankruptcy of Herman Kuthe, livery stable, at 345 West Thirty-sixth Street, show liabilities of $31,815 and assets of $6,200, consisting of proceeds of sale of stock by the receiver, $1,500; 38 shares of stock of the Kuthe Ice Company, $1,900; half interest in the B. Goldberg Stable Company, $2,000, and outstanding accounts, $800. Among the creditors are Max Helfstein, $4,782; Long Dock Mills and Elevator Company, Jersey City, $3,732; Slingerland & Co., $1,324; G. D. & J. D. Stein, $1,275, and the Globe Molasses Feed Company, $1,044.

GRAFF & GRAFF.—A petition in bankruptcy has been filed against Marks and Minnie Graff, who compose the firm of Graff & Graff, dealers in groceries, butter, and eggs, at 2,321 Seventh Avenue. Liabilities are $1,800 and assets $1,500.

THOMAS J. KAY, dealer in toys, novelties, and sewing machines at Newburg, has filed a petition in bankruptcy here, with liabilities of $3,234 and assets of $1,040, consisting of stock, $1,000, and accounts, $40.

THE BARRETT PLUMBING AND HEATING COMPANY of 336 East Eighty-sixth Street has filed a petition in bankruptcy, with liabilities of $1,551 and assets of $110 in stock and accounts. Johanna G. Barrett is President and Ralph G. Barrett Secretary.

KENDIS & PALEY.—Judge Mayer has dismissed the petition in bankruptcy filed on March 14 against Kendis & Paley, music publishers of 1,376 Broadway, on consent of creditors. Creditors are to be paid 100 cents on the dollar, 25 cents cash and the balance in notes at 6, 9, and 12 months through a sale of all the assets to the Billy Bush Music Publishing Company, at a price sufficient to pay all the creditors in full. The liabilities of the firm were $1,851.

HEYMANN BROTHERS.—Judge Mayer has granted a motion to dismiss the petition in bankruptcy filed on Jan. 2 against Heymann Brothers, importers of handkerchiefs of 17 East Seventeenth Street. Creditors are to be paid in full, 25 cents cash and the balance in installments covering a period of two years. Liabilities were $25,350, of which $14,000 were to four creditors in Pittsburgh, who consented to the dismissal.

GLASSHEIM & CO., Inc., hatters at 100 Canal Street and 270 Grand Street, have made an assignment to Joseph Krises. The corporation was incorporated on Aug. 11, 1911, with capital stock of $10,000, and with Abraham Glassheim President and Treasurer. He has been in this line of business for twelve years. The corporation formerly had other stores on Nassau Street, Whitehall Street, and Third Avenue. Goldfogle, Cohn & Lind, attorneys, said that the assignment had been made to Mr. Krises of Fall River, Mass., one of the largest creditors, in order to wind up the business and keep it out of bankruptcy. Liabilities are $8,000, nominal asets, $2,700, and actual assets, $750.

M. FIRSICHBAUM & SON.—Deputy Sheriff Ahner has received an execution against M. Firsichbaum & Son, (corporation,) importers of bristles and furs, at 86 John Street, for $1,682 in favor of the Citizens' Central National Bank. When the Sheriff went to the place of business he was informed that the corporation had no goods upon which a levy could be made. The business was started in 1892 as a firm, and was incorporated in September, 1907, with capital stock of $30,000. It was said the corporation was involved in the failure of E. & H. Levy, bristle importers, of 194 Water Street. Isidore J. Firsichbaum, President of the corporation, was also President of the Medallion Portrait Company, which made an assignment on March 4.

JOHN J. ROBINSON PIPE COMPANY.—Schedules in the assignment of the John J. Robinson Pipe Company, manufacturer of smokers' pipes at 54 John Street, show liabilities of $3,248, nominal assets of $4,014, and actual assets of $2,885.

A. RESCOUSIE.—Schedules in the assignment of Paul and Hector Rescousie, doing business as A. Rescousie, dealer in leather goods, at 300 West Forty-second Street, corner of Eighth Avenue, show liabilities of $1,425, nominal assets of $1,200, and actual assets of $395.

Out of Town.

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, Mass., April 16.—At an adjourned first meeting of the creditors of Jacobs, Whitcomb & Co. before Referee Olmstead in the Bankruptcy Court to-day Frank O. White, Thomas E. Stutson, and Alpheus Sanford were elected Trustees. A joint bond of $10,000 was filed. An offer of 50 per cent. of the appraised value of the assets has been made, out of which are to be taken the expenses of the bankruptcy proceedings.

Among to-day's petitioners in bankruptcy is the Smith Hardware Company of Boston, with liabilities of $10,744 and assets of $21,668. Horace E. Hildreth was appointed receiver.

Bankruptcy Sales

UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT FOR the Southern District of New York.—In Bankruptcy.—In the matter of SECURITY HOLDING COMPANY, Bankrupt. — No. 15,213.

To the creditors of the above-named bankrupt: Please take notice that all the right, title, and interest of the trustee in and to certain property situated in the Borough of Bronx, belonging to the estate of the above-named bankrupt will be sold at public auction under the direction of Hamilton Holt, trustee, by Charles Shongood, U. S. Auctioneer, at No. 539 Broadway, New York, on the seventeenth day of April, 1913, at 10:30 o'clock in the forenoon.

A general description of the property to be sold is as follows:

All that lot, piece or parcel of land known as 865 East 178th Street, with the buildings and improvements thereon, erected, situate, lying and being in the Borough of Bronx, City of New York, and in the State of New York, being a portion of all that certain lot known as lot No. 244, on map entitled "Map of Village of East Tremont, Town of West Farms, Westchester County, State of New York," made by William G. Livingston, surveyor, dated September, 1866, and filed in the office of the Clerk of the Westchester County, which remains after the opening of Mohegan Avenue, Crotona Parkway and 178th Street, and bounded and described as follows: Beginning at the corner formed by the intersection of the northeasterly side of East 178th Street (formerly Mechanic Street) with the easterly side of Crotona Parkway, running thence southeasterly along the northeasterly side of East 178th Street, 78 feet and 36-100 of a foot; thence northerly parallel with the westerly side of Honeywell Avenue, and part of a distance through a party wall 86 feet and 29-100 of a foot to the division line between lots number 243 and 244 on said map; thence northwesterly along said division line and parallel, or nearly so, with 178th Street, 80 feet and 22-100 of a foot to the southeasterly side of Mohegan avenue; thence southwesterly along the southeasterly side of Mohegan Avenue, 82 feet and 7-100 of a foot to the easterly side of Crotona Parkway; and thence southerly along the said easterly side of Crotona Parkway, 4 feet and 52-100 of a foot more or less to the point or place of beginning, subject to a mortgage of $32,000, expiring May, 1914, with acrued interest thereon, water rents thereon for 1912 and 1913, and taxes for 1911 and 1912, together with all incidental charges for taking care of the property until date of sale, in excess of the rentals therefrom collected to that date to be accrued for by the trustee and the expense of the sale and administration.

All that lot, piece or parcel of land known as 871 East 178th Street, with the buildings and improvements thereon, erected, situate, lying and being in the Borough of Bronx, City of New York, and in the State of New York, being a portion of all that certain lot known as lot No. 244, on map entitled "Map of Village of East Tremont, Town of West Farms, Westchester County, State of New York," made by William C. Livingston, surveyor, dated September, 1866, and filed in the office of the Clerk of Westchester County, which remains after the opening of Mohegan Avenue, Crotona Parkway and 178th Street, and bounded and described as follows: Beginning at a point on the northeasterly side of 178th Street (formerly Mechanic Street), distant 78 feet and 36-100 of a foot, southeasterly from the corner formed by the intersection of the northeasterly side of 178th Street, with the easterly side of Crotona Parkway, running thence northeasterly parallel with the westerly side of Honeywell Avenue and part of a distance through a party wall 36 feet and 29-100 of a foot to the division line between lot numbers 243 and 244 on said map; and thence southeasterly along said division line and parallel, or nearly so, with East 178th Street 65 feet; thence southwesterly and again parallel with the westerly side of Honeywell Avenue, 33 feet and 36-100 of a foot to the northeasterly side of 178th Street, thence northwesterly along the northeasterly side of 178th Street, 65 feet to the point or place of beginning, all said dimensions being more or less subject to a mortgage of $20,000, expiring May, 1914, and accrued interest thereon, water rents for 1912 and 1913, and taxes for 1911 and 1912, together with all incidental charges for taking care of the property until date of sale, in excess of the rentals therefrom collected to that date, to be accrued by the trustee and the expense of the sale and administration.

Dated New York, March 31st, 1913.

NO. 17957.—UNITED STATES DISTRICT Court for the Southern District of New York.—In the matter of ORESTE CANCELERRI, Alleged Bankrupt.

Notice is hereby given that pursuant to an order of Hon. H. J. Mayer, the undersigned, Nathan D. Perlman, receiver in bankruptcy of Oreste Cancelerri, offers for sale the property, assets, and effects of the said alleged bankrupt as follows:

The property to be sold consists of stock of groceries, merchandise, and fixtures. The property of the said alleged bankrupt is situated at 37 Spring St., in the Borough of Manhattan, City of New York, also such property of the said bankrupt as may, prior to the sale hereof, be recovered, as well as all the right, title, and interest of the receiver in and to a certain lease entered into on the 1st day of November, 1910, between Donato Rolibitto and Oreste Cancelerri, and terminating on the 1st day of November, 1914, subject to the terms and conditions in said lease contained, and any state of facts that may appear therein, and any rights that may be established thereto, together with the good-will of said business.

The above described property, as well as the lease, may be inspected on the premises, No. 37 Spring St., in the Borough of Manhattan, City of New York, between the hours of 10 A. M. and 5 P. M., from April 17th to April 22d, 1913. Bids for the above described property, assets, and effects as entirety or in part may be sent and directed to the receiver herein, at his office at 160 Broadway, in the Borough of Manhattan, City of New York, on or before the 22d day of April, 1913, at 3 P. M., at which time and place bids will be opened by him, and the creditors may attend, and who express themselves in reference thereto.

Each bid must be accompanied by a certified check of at least 10% of the amount of the bid. The receiver will reserve the right to reject any and all bids in pursuance to an order of the court heretofore made herein, that the said property be sold at public auction on the 28th day of April, 1913, at the premises of Charles Shongood, U. S. Auctioneer, at 12 o'clock in the afternoon of that day.
Dated New York, April 16th, 1913.

THE WEATHER.

WASHINGTON, April 16.—The disturbance that has dominated the weather conditions over the Middle Atlantic States since last Sunday has passed to sea, its centre Wednesday night being off the New England Coast, and the weather has cleared throughout the East. There were rains within the last twenty-four hours in the Atlantic States from North Carolina to Massachusetts.

In all other parts of the country except the Far Northwest, where there were light rains, the weather remained fair.

Unseasonably warm weather prevails throughout the great Central Valleys, the Plains States, and the Rocky Mountain region, although somewhat lower temperature than on Tuesday is reported from north border States.

Indications are that the weather will be generally fair Thursday and Friday throughout all the country.

No important temperature changes are indicated, although there will be a general reaction to warmer weather east of the Mississippi River.

Winds along the New England Coast will be moderate north; Middle Atlantic Coast, light to moderate northwest; South Atlantic Coast, light west and northwest.

Steamships departing Thursday for European ports will have moderate north and northwest winds and fair weather to the Grand Banks.

FORECASTS FOR TO-DAY AND FRIDAY.

Eastern New York and Southern New England—Fair and somewhat warmer Thursday; Friday, fair, light to moderate north and northwest winds.

New Jersey and Eastern Pennsylvania—Fair and somewhat warmer Thursday; Friday fair; light north and northwest winds.

Western New York—Fair Thursday and Friday, moderate north winds, becoming variable.

Northern New England—Fair Thursday and Friday, light to moderate north winds.

	1912.	1913.		1912.	1913.
3 A. M.	58	48	4 P. M.	71	52
6 A. M.	57	46	6 P. M.	72	53
9 A. M.	63	49	9 P. M.	68	51
12 M.	70	49	11 P. M.	64	50

This thermometer is 414 feet above the street level. The average temperature yesterday was 46; for the corresponding date last year it was 64; average on the corresponding date for the last thirty-three years, 48.

The temperature at 8 A. M. yesterday was 48; at 8 P. M. it was 52. Maximum temperature, 53 degrees at 5:30 P. M.; minimum, 44 degrees at 1:20 A. M. Humidity, 94 per cent. at 8 A. M.; 70 per cent. at 8 P. M.

The barometer at 8 A. M. yesterday registered 29.62 inches; at 8 P. M. it stood at 29.66 inches.

CHARLES H. SHELDON,
Ancillary Executor.

ARNOLD & GREENE, Attorneys for Ancillary Executor, 111 Broadway, Borough of Manhattan, City of New York.

THE CIVIL SERVICE.

City.

The Municipal Civil Service Commission at its meeting yesterday approved the action of President Gallagher in promulgating the list of promotions to Assistant Chief Examiner in the office of the commission. This place was made vacant some time ago by the resignation of James P. Conway, who quit to become Chief Examiner of the New York office of the State Insurance Department. Upon Mr. Conway's retirement, the commission named Miss May B. Upshaw to act as Assistant Chief pending a promotion examination. This examination was held last week. The candidates were Miss Upshaw, Leonard F. Fuld, William B. Clarke, Samson D. Oppenheiff, P. E. Kavanagh, and James A. Rafferty. Miss Upshaw headed the eligible list with 84.33, and Leonard F. Fuld came next with 80.85. The commission yesterday promoted Miss Upshaw to the vacancy. The salary is $3,000 a year. She entered the civil service in 1902.

The commission has approved the following:

Report of Mr. Murray recommending that the commission grant the request of the Department of Docks that an examination be held for promotion to mechanical engineer in the Bureau of Ferries, the examination to be open to persons employed under the titles of chief marine engineer, supervising marine engineer, and assistant engineer, who have served for not less than six months in the position and who are otherwise eligible.

Report of Mr. Murray transmitting report of Departmental Board of Examiners for positions in the non-competitive class in the Department of Belevue and Allied Hospitals, and calling attention to the appointment of a visitor at $900 per annum. Mr. Murray says that this position is in the competitive class for Bellevue and Allied Hospitals and should be filled from the existing eligible list.

Report of Mr. Rafferty of his investigation of experience of candidates for the position of Inspector of Fire Prevention, the list for which is to be promulgated.

Report of Mr. Woodward, relative to discrepancies in the dates of birth appearing in the papers of Moses H. Pollack, clerk, first grade, and Thomas L. Goodwin, clerk, second grade.

Letter from the Controller requesting authority to employ Francis M. Sheehan and Joseph Byrnes as clerks, first grade, at $300 a year and Grace Tucker, tabulating machine operator, (Hollerith machine.)

Request of the Controller for authority to employ Frederick C. Schmidt, 353 Halsey Street, Brooklyn, as assistant salary standardization expert at a total compensation of $750.

Request of the Commissioner of Public Works, Manhattan, for authority to employ Joseph T. Cummins as topographical draughtsman.

United States.

The United States Civil Service Commission announces an open competitive examination at the New York Custom House for assistant in tobacco investigations, for men only, on May 7 to fill a vacancy in this position in the Bureau of Plant Industry, Department of Agriculture, at a salary of $1,200 a year, for duty at Clarksville, Tenn., an da vacancy in the same bureau at a salary of $900 a year, for duty in South Carolina, and vacancies as they may occur in positions requiring similar qualifications. The work wll include experiments n improved methods of tobacco breeding, culture, rotation tests, and fertilizer tests. Applicants for the position in Clarkeville, Tenn., should be familiar with the dark fire-cured tobacco section of Kentucky and Tennessee, while applicants for the position in South Carolina should be familiar with the practical methods of tobacco culture in the flue-cured districts of South Carolina, North Carolina, and Virginia. Persons who are appointed as a result of this examination, and who prove competent to perform the duties assigned to them, may expect reasonable promotion. Competitors will be examined in the following subjects, which will have the relative weights indicated: Practical questions, 40; general education and training, 20; experience in general agriculture and particularly in growing, curing, and handling tobacco, 40.

Statements as to training, experience, and fitness are accepted subject to verification. Applicants must have reached their twentieth but not their forty-fifth birthday on the date of the examination, which is open to all men who are citizens of or owe allegiance to the United States, and who meet th erequirements.

FOREIGN TRADE OPPORTUNITIES

The Daily Consular and Trade Report notes the following foreign trade opportunities. Further information regarding them may be obtained by addressing the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce, care of the Department of Commerce, Washington, D. C., giving the number of the item referred to:

10,759. BRIDGE MATERIAL AND CONCRETE ARCH.—The American Consulate General at Vancouver, B. C., reports that the Department of Public Works has called for tenders, to be received until May 7, for the substructure and erection of same for Thompson River Bridge, Lytton, B. C., for the manufacture and delivery of superstructure metal for bridges at Lytton, and for a concrete arch across the Thompson River. Drawings, specifications, contract, and forms of tender can be seen at the office of the Public Works Engineer, Victoria, B. C., Canada.

10,760. PUMPING PLANT.—Supplementing a previous report, which was published as Foreign Trade Opportunity 8,912 in Consular and Trade Reports for June 4, 1912, the American Consul at Alexandria, Egypt, reports that the Egyptian Government now invites tenders for the supply and erection of one of the pumping stations in connection with the large drainage project referred to. Copies of the original publications inviting tenders, together with copy of rules and regulations governing tenders and adjudication of Egyptian Government contracts, accompanied the report and can be obtained from the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce.

10,762. ELECTRIC AUTOMOBILES. — An American Consul in a European country reporting on the market for electric automobiles in his district states that two local business men, one of whom is agent for an American automobile, are interested in receiving offers and catalogues from American manufacturers of very cheap and light American electric cars which could be sold to the public at about $1,500.

10,763. STEEL FURNITURE.—The American Consulate General at Cape Town, South Africa, has forwarded a copy of the notice calling for tenders for the supply, delivery, and fixing in position, where necessary, certain steel furniture for Union Buildings, Pretoria. In connection with this tender, which is due at or before noon of June 25, 1913, tender forms, plans, specifications, &c., may be obtained at the office of the High Commissioner for the Union of South Africa, 32 Victoria Street, Westminster, London, England.

10,764. FURNITURE.—An American Consul reports that a letter has been received from a local firm of furniture importers expressing a desire to hear from American manufacturers of furniture, consisting of bedroom and dining room chairs, two carvers or armchairs, six to eight small chairs, with and without couch, in various woods, unvarnished and unupholstered, but in a knockdown state with slip-in seats, pincushion style. Correspondence is also desired from a manufacturer of bas relief seats and backs, three-ply seats and four-ply backs. This company desires to receive catalogues, prices, and terms with full trade discounts and cach discount free on board American port, with measurements and particulars of packing.

10,768. LOCUST-BEAN MEAL.—A report from an American Consul in Canada states that a feed dealer in his district has inquired at the consulate as to where he can obtain what is known as "locust bean" or "locust-bean meal." He states it is used as an ingredient in calf meal, &c.

SURROGATE NOTICES.

THE PEOPLE OF THE STATE OF NEW York, by the grace of God free and independent.—To BLANCHE ROTHSCHILD, Edward Rothschild, Jennie F. Liebmann, Stella or Estelle Liebmann, Robert Liebmann, Eugenie Chick, Alice Hirsh, Louis Hirsh, Edward Hirsh, Helen Heymann, Elsa Heymann, Anna J. Rothschild, Walter L. Rothschild, Leo H. Rothschild, the widow, heirs, and next of kin of CHARLES A. ROTHSCHILD, deceased, send greeting:

Whereas, Mortimer Stiefel of the City of New York has lately applied to the Surrogates' Court of our County of New York to have a certain instrument in writing, relating to both real and personal property, duly proved as the last will and testament of Charles A. Rothschild, late of the County of New York, deceased; therefore, you and each of you are cited to appear before the Surrogate of our County of New York at his office in the County of New York, on the 6th day of June, 1913, at half-past ten o'clock in the forenoon of that day, then and there to attend the probate of the said last will and testament.

And such of you as are hereby cited as are under the age of twenty-one years are required to appear by your guardian, if you have one, or if you have none, to appear and apply for one to be appointed, or in the event of your neglect or failure to do so, a guardian will be appointed by the Surrogate to represent and act for you in the proceeding.

In testimony whereof, we have caused the seal of the Surrogates' Court of the said County of New York to be hereunto affixed.

Witness, Hon. Robert Ludlow Fowler, a Surrogate of our said County, the 3rd day of April, 1913. DANIEL J. DOWDNEY, [Seal.] Clerk of the Surrogates' Court.

THE REAL ESTATE FIELD

$1,250,000 Paid by New York Central Road to Widow of Marshall O. Roberts for Water Front Block—Fifth Avenue Dwelling Lease—Big Long Island City Deals.

The New York Central Railroad paid $1,250,000 for its latest acquisition of freight terminal property on the lower west side, being nearly all of the block except the Eleventh Avenue frontage, bounded by that avenue, Thirty-fifth and Thirty-sixth Streets and Twelfth Avenue, in addition to the block opposite, being the westerly side of Twelfth Avenue, between the streets mentioned and including land under water.

The transfer as recorded yesterday named the exact consideration, and at the same time the records show that the railroad has given back a mortgage of $1,000,000 at 3½ per cent. The mortgage is given to Mrs. Susan L. Vivian of London, England. Her first husband was the late Marshall O. Roberts, who died in 1880, his wife then being very young. The Roberts estate comprised some valuable parcels on Manhattan Island, and their worth has greatly increased within the last thirty years. Mrs. Roberts married in 1891 Col. Ralph Vivian, a retired British officer. Her son, Marshall O. Roberts, who shares in the big estate with his mother, became a British subject a few years ago.

The railroad property has been leased from the estate for many years. It is one of the largest single purchases made by the railroad on the lower west side water front. John N. Golding, as stated in the announcement of the sale on the previous day, negotiated the deal.

Syndicate Buys East Side Theatre Site.

A syndicate has purchased from the Rudolph Wallach Company 466 to 470 Grand Street, two and three-story buildings, on a plot 49.10 by 100, adjoining the northeast corner of Pitt Street. It is stated that the property will be improved with a theatre devoted to Yiddish plays, with a seating capacity of 424. The M. Morgenthau, Jr., Company acted as brokers in the transaction.

Astor House on 5th Avenue Leased.

Walter G. Oakham, President of the Hudson Companies, has leased from the William Waldorf Astor estate for three years the private dwelling at 725 Fifth Avenue, near the northeast corner of Fiftieth Street. The house is now occupied by Justice James W. Gerard. He recently bought a plot on Fifth Avenue, between Ninety-fourth and Ninety-fifth Streets, intending in the future to erect a dwelling there.

Recent Buyers.

Charles M. Chapin, the tenant, is the buyer of the dwelling, 135 East Sixty-second Street, sold Tuesday by Mrs. Phillip J. Sands.

E. M. Woerz is the buyer of the old dwelling at 161 Charles Street, sold early in the week by Henrietta Starr.

Bronx Borough.

The Menlo Realty Company has sold to an investor, a four-story brick flat, 33 by 100, on the south side of 212th Street, 183.70 feet east of White Plains Avenue. The buyer gave in part payment eight lots on 216th and 217th Streets, 480 feet east of White Plains Avenue. Charles Wetzel and L. Klossat negotiated the sale.

Kurz & Uren, Inc., in conjunction with Messrs. Green and Epstein, have sold for Benenson Realty Company, the northwest corner of 176th Street and Longfellow Avenue, a plot 77 by 82, to Thomas Nelson.

Charles Janke of Boston, Mass., has purchased, for investment, from the Brown-Weiss Realties, 2,076 Clinton Avenue, a five-story flat, on a plot 42 by 120, and also, 451 East 171st Street, a five-story house, on a plot 50 by 100.

In part payment the buyer gave an apartment house in the Back Bay section of Boston. It is five-stories high, covering a plot 50 by 100, and is known as 119 Hemenway Street.

Long Island City.

The Robloyd Realty Company has sold to a Manhattan investor, the four-story tenement, on a plot 37 by 100 feet on the east side of Eighth Avenue, 150 feet south of Broadway.

The Cross & Brown Company has sold a plot on Hamilton Street, for Charles N. Vilas to a Manhattan manufacturer, who will immediately improve with a building for his own occupancy.

Sulzberger & Sons, wholesale butchers, have taken title to a tract of land, 100 by 300 feet, adjoining Greenpoint Avenue on Newtown Creek. The property was purchased for investment and will probably be improved with a commercial building.

The Ruland & Whiting Company has purchased for a client a plot of twenty lots in the new automobile centre of Long Island City. The property comprises the whole front on the northerly side of Pierce Avenue and extending toward Graham Avenue for a distance of 240 feet on either street. John Greer sold fourteen of these lots and John J. McGrane the remainer. The size of the plot is 200 by 240 feet. C. S. Whiting represented the sellers.

Henry Duchardt has sold to a client twenty-one lots near the Bridge Plaza section, the consideration being about $50,000. This is the fourth sale made by Mr. Duchardt in Long Island City within six weeks.

Long Island.

Charles Wetzel has sold for a client nine lots, 25 by 100 feet each, on the corner of Warburton Avenue and Sixth Street, Bayside. The buyer is a builder, who will improve the property at once.

Staten Island.

Mary D. Daly has sold to a client of Cornelius G. Kolff a two-and-one-quarter-story house, on a lot 25 by 100, on Fifth Avenue, near Westervelt Avenue, New Brighton.

A $62,000 Deal in Hoboken, N. J.

One of the largest and most important realty deals of the year in Hoboken, N. J., was announced yesterday, when the old frame buildings from 613 to 621 Washington Street were transferred to the Public Service Gas Company and the United Theatres Company. The Public Service Company, which purchased the properties known as 613 and 615, are to erect a new office building, where their gas business will be conducted, it having been felt for some time that the present offices at the corner of Sixth and Washington Streets were inadequate. The price paid for the property was about $25,000.

The properties on the north side, known as 617, 619, and 621, were purchased by the United Theatres Company at a cost of $37,500. A moving-picture theatre, which will accommodate 1,500 people, will be built, making two establishments of the kind in the block, Hilke Brothers having already decided to conduct a moving-picture house in the new building being erected at the southeast corner of Washington and Sixth Streets.

Heights Theatre Leased from Plans

Theodore W. Myers has leased from the plans to a client of Slawson & Hobbs a theatre with a seating capacity of 650 persons, to be erected on the southwest corner of Audubon Avenue and 181st Street. The lease is for a long term of years.

Leases.

The Cross & Brown Company has leased for the 30 East Twenty-third Street Company to the Edwin Cigar Company the store 30 East Twenty-third Street, and for William J. Minor to the Bellmore Lunch Company the store in the building 405 Fourth Avenue for a term of years.

Arthur E. Wood has leased for Dr. Herbert D. Burnham the store at 2,003 Seventh Avenue, to Samuel A. Rothschild for a term of years.

Barnett & Co. have leased for a term of years the store 22 East 125th Street to the Sherrick Raincoat Company, and to Bergmaier Brothers the store 20 East 125th Street.

H. Freud has leased for Sigmund Hartsfeld the building 12 West Twenty-third Street to Robinson's London Shop.

Pease & Elliman have leased the private stables at 326 and 328 West Seventieth Street, which are to be altered into a building for the Dann & Gorman Company, automobile body makers. The same brokers also have leased the store at 204 and 206 West Seventy-fifth Street to the New York Tire Filler Company, and a store at 50 West Forty-sixth Street to Mrs. Tessie Heine.

Westcott Estate to Improve Property.

A two-story taxpayer is to be erected on the Robert E. Westcott estate property at 181st Street and Broadway. Plans are now being prepared, and it is expected that ground will be broken in a week or ten days.

The property has a frontage of 102 feet on Broadway, 150 feet on 181st Street, and 100 feet on Wadsworth Avenue. Knapp & Wasson have been appointed agents of the proposed building.

Twelve-story Apartment on Club Site.

A twelve-story apartment house is to be erected by the E. A. L. Holding Company on the site of the old home of the Freundschaft Club, Park Avenue and Seventy-second Street. The plot fronts 102 feet on Park Avenue and 130 feet on the street. Rouse & Goldstone, the architects, estimate the cost of the new structure at $800,000.

Realty Notes.

The Assembly has passed the bill amending the mechanics' lien law. The amended law, embodying various changes approved by leading institutions, building-loan operators, and material men, was drawn by J. Charles Weschler.

The Metropolitan Life Insurance Company made a building loan of $340,000 to the George F. Picken Construction Company for the improvement of the south corner of Riverside Drive and 148th Street, 99.11 by 105, with a ten-story apartment house. The same company has also loaned $900,000 to the Brogan Building Company for the new apartment on the northeast corner of Broadway and Eighty-first Street, a plot 102.2 by 182.8.

A $60,000 home is to be built by the Hebrew Kindergarten and Day Nursery at 35 and 37 Montgomery Street. The contract for the construction of the building will be awarded in a few days.

The New York Title Insurance Company has made a building loan of $165,000 to the 130 West Twenty-ninth Street Company, upon the property at 130 West Twenty-ninth Street, for the erection of a twelve-story mercantile building.

Help Wanted

The New York Times does not accept Help Wanted advertisements which do not clearly state the character and conditions of the employment offered. Advertisements calling for purchases of samples or cash deposits are excluded from the Help Wanted columns. If the employment is on a commission basis the advertisement must so state. The Times exercises the utmost care in accepting Help Wanted advertisements to protect applicants seeking employment through its columns the time and expense involved in investigating misleading announcements.

FOR CITY ISLAND SERVICE.

Eustis Raps Estimate Board's Committee for Franchise Offer.

Commissioner Eustis criticised sharply yesterday the action of the Franchise Committee of the Board of Estimate in connection with the reorganization of the bankrupt City Island Railroad Company and Pelham Park Railroad Company. The Interborough has bought up these lines through its agent, George Keegan, and at the suggestion of the commission is trying to set them on their legs as a single company operating a street car line from Bartow Station on the New Haven through City Island.

The Franchise Committee of the Board of Estimate has, however, taken the ground that the reconstructed company should not be sanctioned unless it build a line at right angles to the right of way it is seeking along the Eastern Boulevard across Pelham Bay Park to connect with the trolley line in Westchester Avenue. In a memorandum presented to the Public Service Commission by Harry P. Nichols of the Bureau of Franchises, it has been contended that the reconstructed line would not furnish adequate transportation for the district and that it was extremely doubtful if it would pay unless it were extended to points where connections could be made with other railroads.

The Commissioner at the hearing before him yesterday remarked:

"I think the action of the Franchise Committee, as put on record here, has gone a long way beyond the report received by the Board of Estimate. I doubt very much whether the board would stand by the doctrine as laid down by the committee. If it did, it would simply be in line with the idea that they do not want the people of City Island to have any service."

The hearing was then closed.

STUDYING HARD COAL CASES

McReynolds to Decide on Further Action Against Railroads.

WASHINGTON, April 16.—The hard coal trust cases, it was learned to-night, are being studied by the Department of Justice to determine the nature and extent of further steps the Federal Government may take to sever the alleged connections, direct and indirect, of coal-carrying railroads with coal mining companies. Attorney General McReynolds, who was the Government's counsel in the original hard coal suit decided by the Supreme Court in December, and who is familiar with the conditions in the anthracite fields, is expected to take up the situation personally.

It is understood that the department will consider the situation from the viewpoint of both the Sherman anti-trust law and the commodities clause of the Inter-State Commerce act. The suit against the Delaware, Lackawanna & Western Railroad Company and the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western Coal Company, filed at Trenton two months ago, was brought under both statutes. Several so-called minor combinations were left by the Supreme Court for future consideration.

Bay State Public Service Bill.

BOSTON, April 16.—A bill establishing a new Public Service Commission of five members, having control of railroad, street railway, telegraph, and telephone lines of the State, was approved to-day by the House Committee on Ways and Means, and was sent to the House for a first reading. The bill abolishes the present Railroad Commission, and many of its provisions follow closely those of the Inter-State Commerce Commission act.

NIXON FOR A TARIFF TO AID OUR MARINE

PRAISES THE EARLY LAWS

Calls for Constitutional Regulation of Commerce—Would Abrogate Unprofitable Trade Conventions.

Argument in favor of Constitutional regulation of commerce by the United States and of tariff discrimination favoring goods brought here in American-built and American-owned vessels was made by Lewis Nixon yesterday in an interview on the Underwood Tariff bill. Mr. Nixon condemned subsidies as probably unconstitutional, and said the people soon would demand to know why treaties hampering the trade of the United States should not be abrogated. He expressed the opinion that the Underwood bill did not go far enough in favoring American shipping, and he suggested changes in several parts of the measure.

"When the thirteen Colonies of Great Britain achieved their independence," said Mr. Nixon, "they were impoverished, without an adequate merchant marine and under such conditions that, continuing as they were, their poverty would be increased and their marine would vanish.

"The great men brought to the front by great events realized that the three pillars of a nation's greatness were commerce, agriculture, and manufacturing.

"The thirteen States had as many means of regulating commerce, leading to endless confusion and loss. So it was seen that a central power to regulate commerce was essential, and such necessity was the compelling cause of the formation of the Union and the adoption of our Constitution. The various States delegated their separate powers to regulate commerce to the Central Government, and this power, as accepted, carries with it a sacred pact or duty which must be exercised.

"We are safe in assuming that those who took part in the drafting of our Constitution knew what they meant by its provisions. They were leaders in public thought, and its ideals and intentions were carried into effect by the same men by appropriate legislation in the First Congress. A close study of the debates leading to the framing of the Constitution has shown me that every expression of opinion was to the effect that the power to regulate commerce contemplated discrimination when necessary or desirable. Col. Thomas H. Benton, in his 'Debates of Congress,' said:

> In the House of Representatives in 1794 occurred one of the most interesting and elaborate debates which our Congress has furnished. It grew out of the clause in the Constitution conferring power to regulate commerce with foreign nations and gives the interpretation of its authors, which is wholly different in its nature and also distinct from the power to lay and collect import duties. The latter was to raise revenue, the former to make such discriminations in trade and transportation as to protect our merchants and ship owners from the adverse regulations and devices of our rivals.

How Early Laws Helped Trade.

"Let us examine the laws passed at this first Congress to regulate commerce:

"First, a discrimination was made allowing a duty 10 per cent. less on goods imported if brought in American bottoms. Differential tonnage taxes were provided, six cents per ton on American vessels, thirty cents per ton on American-built and foreign-owned vessels, and fifty cents per ton on foreign-built and owned vessels. The six cents per ton was paid only once a year on American vessels in the coasting trade. The great Asiatic trade was procured by grading duties on tea far higher when brought in foreign than if brought in American bottoms. American registry was confined to American-built vessels. The same care for Americans at sea as on shore inspired laws to insure proper food and breathing space for American seamen.

"Seamen, shipyards, and ships," Mr. Nixon continued, "were secured by these wise provisions, together with an influence driving trade to American vessels, so that they might be profitably employed.

"In seven years our shipping increased 385 per cent., and by 1826 we were carrying 93 per cent. of our foreign trade under the American flag. These wise laws were drawn by Madison, being based on Jefferson's masterly report on commerce. Many adverse balances of trade were turned into favorable balances of commerce, because we had the great earnings of ships to throw to the National credit, and our Nation waxed strong and rich and our merchant marine grew in strength and efficiency.

"In 1828, as a crowning act of unwisdom, we suspended the operation of these wise laws, and now carry only about 8 per cent. of our own trade. And in losing the carrying of our oversea products it has come about that we do not insure our own trade, we do not finance it, we do not buy it or sell it. The cream of trade is in the hands of our commercial rivals. The suspension of our first wise laws is the principal and overwhelming reason for this decline and loss. Of course, the changes from wood to iron, the losses due to the civil war, the introduction of steam, the discrimination against our shipping by foreign insurance and rating companies, the bonded warehouse system giving credit for duties, contracts for advance charters, every possible device and regulation of our rivals to foster their own marines; the monopolizing of oversea trade by conferences and combines, and payments now aggregating about $46,000,000 annually by other nations to encourage and support their shipping, have supplemented this betrayal by our National legislators of a duty enjoined by the Constitution and their oath to support its provisions.

"In all seriousness, all tariff bills of recent years have reiterated the discriminating provisions of earlier years and then, to make them impotent, add that such provisions are not to apply to vessels of nations not applying similar regulations against the United States, or unless such provisions are not barred by treaty or by Act of Congress. Senator Frye, in 1894, tried to repeal these inconsistent restrictions, but was unable to do so. Mr. McKinley was elected on a platform of discriminating duties, but Congress switched to subsidy legislation, and this was defeated.

Appraisers Balked Congress.

"The wording of the Wilson bill, Section 14, was so changed in the wording of the Tariff Act of July 24, 1897, in providing for discriminating duties, that it would have thrown to American vessels a greater part of our indirect trade. But this, though an Act of Congress, signed by the President, was nullified by the Board of General Appraisers, speaking through the Attorney General. Flank, front, and rear of foreign attack on our oversea enterprise are guarded with surpassing vigilance.

"In 1880, the Republican platform said:

> Further subsidies to private persons or corporations must cease.

"The recent platform declaration of the Democratic Party in this connection comes out flatly for constitutional regulation of commerce, to be achieved without bounties or subsidies. It also favors the exemption from tolls on the Panama Canal of American ships engaged in coastwise trade. The latter is already accomplished, as there is such a law on the statute books. How is constitutional regulation of commerce to be procured in other ways?

"J—Subsection 1 of the Underwood Tariff bill prescribes that an additional discriminating ad valorem duty of 10 per cent. on cargoes brought from non-contiguous foreign territory in foreign vessels shall be levied, but not if by treaty, convention, or act of Congress goods in such foreign vessels are to pay the same duties as in American vessels. We walk up the hill and then walk down again.

"J—Subsection 2 provides that goods shall not be brought to the United States from a foreign country except in the ships of that particular foreign country or in ships of the United States. This was the law from 1815 to 1828. But, again, this provision is made useless by the provision, 'unless provided for by treaty,' and in Subsection 3 it is provided that this shall not prevail against the vessels of a foreign country which does not maintain a similar regulation against the United States. This mistaken idea of beginning charity abroad means that, since Turkey does not forbid our vessels bringing Austrian goods into Turkey, we cannot forbid Turkish vessels bringing Austrian goods to the United States. We did forbid at one time all indirect trade and grew rich and powerful on the sea under such a policy.

"J—Subsection 5 provides that materials of foreign production for building American vessels and their machinery and all articles necessary for their outfit and equipment shall be free of duty. This is of doubtful utility. Secretary Whitney's patriotic stand against just such a policy in connection with the building of our new navy did more than any other act of an American statesman to make us self-contained in naval upbuilding, and laid the foundation for the leadership in steel industries of the United States to-day. The above subsection and the following, No. 6, which provides that all articles of foreign production needed for the repair of vessels may be withdrawn from bonded warehouses free of duty, may be the means of putting out of business a number of small ship windlass, steering gear, and equipment plants. Of course, there is great latitude in interpretation, but I think materials instead of articles in both subsections would have been better, as of less possible harm to American enterprise.

Criticises Bonded Warehouses.

"The idea, too," Mr. Nixon commented, "of giving credit for customs duties on foreign articles in bonded warehouses, while foreign agents run about the country selling such products in our home markets, does not appeal to me, and now to use the bonded warehouse as a stepping stone to a free market seems to carry protection for the foreign maker to an absurd length.

"J—Susbsection 7 is as follows:

> That a discount of 5 per centum on all duties imposed by this act shall be allowed on such goods, wares, and merchandise as shall be imported in vessels built in the United States, and which shall be wholly the property of a citizen or citizens thereof.

"J, Sub-section 7, is of great importance," said Mr. Nixon. "It is in line with the Spight and Sulzer bills, and in its enlightened American and constitutional policy accords with the ideas of one of the real constructive statesmen of the day, Judge Joshua W. Alexander, Chairman of the Committee on Merchant Marine of the House of Representatives. As soon as the foreign sympathizers realize that in this sub-section we return to the constitutional, constructive regulation of commerce of Jefferson and Madison, there will be denunciation of this provision that will make the outcry against the entirely just remission of tolls now protested by Great Britain seem like a whisper in a boiler shop.

"Yet I am hopeful that our people, seeing that the dire effects predicted if we abrogate treaties that should be abrogated have not come to pass in the case of the Russian treaty, may want to know why we should not abrogate treaties that hamper commercial growth. The insidious growth of foreign commerce has been due to inducing us to make treaties suspending such constitutional regulations, as were particularly useful to us by our opponents agreeing to reciprocate, after which they would adopt such devices and regulations as under our constitutional limitations we were powerless to countervail. Personally, my opinion is that subsidies are unconstitutional and we know they are unpopular, in addition to the fact that both the great political parties have declared against them.

"So now the anti-Americans would have us believe that advocacy of indiscriminate blocking of industrial prosperity is the touchstone of democracy and, wishing to take advantage of the unpopularity of the word 'subsidy,' they try to apply that term to every form of helpful regulation.

"Discriminating duties offering lower duties or no duties on goods brought in American vessels, and discriminating tolls offering lower tolls or no tolls on American ships, are no more a subsidy than is putting an article on the free list a subsidy to the foreign maker whose product drives a domestic product out of the home market which our maker is taxed to upkeep.

Would Go Beyond Jefferson.

"If constitutional regulation of commerce is to be adopted, we must adopt not only the policies of Jefferson for such regulation, but so great is our prostration that supreme effort is required to rehabilitate our marine, and hence constructive statesmanship should adopt policies broadened along similar lines to utilize possibilities for preference not available in Jefferson's time. Americans must combat the idea that there is unfairness in looking out for our own interests. We know other nations are looking out for theirs. Mme. de Staël was right when she said:

"'The patriotism of nations ought to be selfish.'

"In order to strike off the shackles now holding us back from our rightful place on the oceans," continued Mr. Nixon, "we shall be obliged to terminate a number of commercial conventions if we enact into law J, Sub-section 7. Dire prophecies will be made of what then will happen to us. However, one need only point to the fact that we progressed far better under the ordinary obligations of international law before we negotiated these hurtful commercial conventions than after. Washington warned us against them in his farewell address, and they would have been impossible before statesmen in touch with the Constitution, who knew the sacrifices and efforts made to gain political and commercial independence, gave way to the politician regardless of what he pulled down, so long as he climbed up.

"The commercial conventions," Mr. Nixon explained, "are not like treaties of peace and amity. A treaty of peace made for a term of years would be ridiculous, but commercial conventions are bargains where privilege is matched against privilege, and the very making of the convention admits the rights claimed by each. Conventions rest on the idea of reciprocal advantages, each party obtaining an equivalent for what it yields. When the advantage to one side becomes out of proportion to that resting with the other, it is expected and accepted as equitable that there shall be a termination or modification of the agreement, and this termination always is provided for. For example, Article II. of the Convention of 1815 with Great Britain:

> "It shall be competent, however, to either of the contracting parties in case either shall see fit at any time, after the 20th of October, 1828, on giving notice of twelve months to the other contracting party, to annul and abrogate this convention, and it shall in such case be accordingly annuled and abrogated, after the expiration

"Why, then, if we have made a contract and have taken care to protect ourselves by providing for termination, if in time such termination should be in our interest, should it be held up as boorish and impolite if we use the opportunity we asked to have opened to us after a certain length of time? We have terminated a number of conventions and abrogated a number of treaties, with no bad effects.

Edmunds on Discrimination.

"The greatest living constitutional lawyer, George F. Edmunds, at a hearing before the Committee on Commerce of the Fifty-sixth Congress, first session, stated as follows:

> "We are in the attitude of being able, without any breach of treaty obligations, to resort to discriminations in respect of our vessels and commerce, after giving the requisite notice and after the lapse of time referred to.

"We may expect strenuous opposition to J, Sub-section 7. I have been made to feel the terrific pressure brought to bear in preventing our entering on genuine constitutional regulation. The Republican Party could not do it, although Mr. McKinley was elected pledged to such policy and accepted such pledge in his first message. There is no use putting the soft pedal on, however. Why stalk a great opportunity as if it were a sleeping deer? Five per cent. reduction of a low percentage schedule is not enough, and I believe that the best beginning is with the indirect trade. While we could play at the same game if reprisals were attempted, it would be very hard to retaliate against a provision affecting only indirect trade.

"Thus, if we prefer our vessels over a Belgian vessel bringing Austrian goods to the United States, the only way the Belgian Government could retaliate without inviting greater retaliation from us would be to prefer its own vessels against ours in taking cargoes from Austria to Belgium, and we should not for a long time care if she did. But in the meantime we should get almost all the South American trade with us carried in our own vessels, for we blazed the way for a proper reciprocation with the American republics at the last Pan-American Conference.

"Sub-section 1 is rendered useless by its qualifications and exceptions.

"Of course if Sub-section 7 is passed it will require the termination of the treaties referred to in Sub-section 1 and thus make Sub-section 1 of enormous value and importance.

"Sub-section 2 is an indirect trade regulation of the greatest value and should not be emasculated by the next sub-section, No. 3, as we do not care whether such a regulation is made against us or not. We wish for the next ten years to be busy developing a marine engaged in carrying our direct trade. If Sub-section 3 could be left out Sub-section 2 soon would rehabilitate our marine, as the same terminations of conventions necessitated by the passage of Sub-section 7 will dispose of objections to No. 2.

Suggests Change in No. 7.

"Sub-section 7," Mr. Nixon added, "does not provide for the importation of goods on the free list, as it subtracts 5 per cent. from the duties imposed, and on low percentage schedules this will be hardly appreciable. Hence this sub-section should read—if recourse is not to be had to differential tonnage taxes, by which the free list was reached in our early laws—as follows:

> "There shall be imposed an ad valorem duty of 5 per cent. on all goods, wares, and merchandise brought to the United States in vessels not built in the United States and not wholly the property of a citizen or citizens of the United States. This to be in addition to duties otherwise imposed by law.

"Of course, the rehabilitation of our merchant marine cannot be achieved by any other than a consistent and well-studied policy, taking into account all factors influencing such upbuilding favorably and adversely. Congressman Sulzer introduced such a comprehensive bill Dec. 10, 1909, and Congressman Rucker in the last Congress. The only criticism I heard against those bills was that they were too long. They were both inspired by the late Capt. W. W. Bates, one-time Commissioner of Navigation, who devoted many years of his life to the study of the problem and the necessary legislation to solve it."

FREES BOSSCHIETER SLAYER

Andrew Campbell Paroled After 15 Years in Jail.

TRENTON, N. J., April 16.—The Court of Pardons to-day paroled Andrew Campbell of Paterson, who was sentenced to thirty years' imprisonment for the murder of Jennie Bosschieter. The court refused applications of William A. Death and Walter McAllister, also sentenced to thirty-year terms for the same crime.

Repeated applications had been made for clemency for the three principals in this celebrated murder case.

The Bosschieter murder occurred fifteen years ago. Jennie was an attractive young mill girl. One night the three men and one other, who has served a fifteen-year sentence, gave her drugged liquor in a Paterson saloon. They took her to the outskirts of the city and later took her in an unconscious condition to a doctor's office, where she died. The doctor caused the arrest of the men.

Campbell's release is not due to ill-health but because of a large number of petitions in his behalf and a feeling that he was the least guilty of the men. At the time of the murder he was only 22 years of age.

PHIPPS CLINIC OPENED.

Osler Speaks at Exercises at Johns Hopkins.

BALTIMORE, April 16.—The Henry Phipps Psychiatric Clinic, a new unit of Johns Hopkins Hospital for the treatment of every phase of mental disorder, under the direction of Dr. Adolf Meyer, was formally opened this afternoon.

Besides Henry Phipps, whose gift of $1,500,000 made possible the establishment of the clinic, there were present more than 100 leading authorities on medicine from various parts of the United States and foreign countries. Many of these scientists will take part in the exercises, which will continue until Friday.

The feature of the opening exercises was an address on "Specialism in General Hospitals," by Sir William Osler of Oxford University, formerly connected with Johns Hopkins Hospital.

PROGRESSIVES TAKE STOCK.

Sure the Cause Is Gaining and Then They Take Tea with the Colonel.

Plans for the further organization of the Progressive Party in every county in the United States were formulated yesterday at a meeting of the Executive Committee of the party at the Hotel Manhattan. It was the first meeting of the committee since January, and reports of conditions in almost every State were received. These reports were highly optimistic.

The conference broke up at 3 o'clock, and most of the members went down to Oyster Bay to talk things over with Col. Roosevelt. The Colonel had invited them down to "take tea," and when they returned last night they said the visit was more social than anything else.

PROTEST AT CURBING THE SHERMAN LAW

Head of Manufacturers' Association Says Appropriation Bill Provision Is Obnoxious.

NULLIFIES THE STATUTES

Prohibiting Use of Department of Justice's Fund for Prosecution of Farmers and Labor Unions, Special Legislation.

This open letter to President Wilson was sent by John Kirby, Jr., President of the National Association of Manufacturers, relative to the provision inserted in the Sundry Civil Appropriation bill prohibiting any part of the $300,000 appropriated for the Department of Justice from being used to enforce the provisions of the Sherman Anti-Trust act against either the associations of farmers or labor unions:

New York, April 16, 1913.

His Excellency, Woodrow Wilson,
President of the United States,
Washington, D. C.

My Dear Mr. President: The National Association of Manufacturers, of which it is my honor to be President, is an organization composed of nearly 4,000 manufacturing concerns, in practically every State of the union. The fundamental purpose of our organization is industrial freedom—freedom from the despotism of unconscionable labor dictation toward both employers and the vast majority of workingmen throughout the country who are unaffiliated with trade unionism. Our organization is non-political. Its spirit is patriotism and loyalty to our Republic, its laws and institutions.

We affirm our belief in equality of opportunity, in the impartial administration of law, believing that upon such framework only can economic and social justice be effectively realized. We do not oppose trades unions, per se. We favor them. Particularly, however, do we deny that trades unionism in many of its methods is above or outside of the just administration of law.

I have observed in the daily papers that there has been introduced into the present session of Congress the Sundry Civil Appropriation bill, wherein there is a provision specifically prohibiting any part of the $300,000 appropriated for the Department of Justice from being used to enforce the provisions of the Sherman Anti-Trust act against either the associations of farmers or labor unions. You are, of course, aware that this particular provision was incorporated in the Sundry Civil Appropriation bill in the last Congress and was vetoed by President Taft in a strong, vigorous memorandum, with which you are undoubtedly familiar.

Speaking on behalf of the vast manufacturing constituency comprising our organization, I take the liberty of calling your earnest attention to the inherent and impossible wrong represented by this particular provision. In many of your public utterances you have wisely and clearly emphasized the necessity, in our social, economic, and political body, of striving to attain, in the last analysis, exact justice. With this underlying purpose I express my complete and sincere concurrence.

But I hasten to assure you that the particular provision under discussion is violative of every consideration of the equitable, just, and impartial administration of our law and statutes. That the provision is special legislation in ingenious and subtle form will be obvious to you upon careful inquiry. That it is an attempt to subvert the operation of a duly enacted statute of Congress by a covert negativing of the operation of such statute (the Sherman Anti-Trust act) will be clear to you after the most cursory examination. That such a device, to render abortive a statute enacted by the people, should be promptly and decisively frustrated seems so clear to me that further argument becomes almost unnecessary.

If the so-called Sherman Anti-Trust act should or must be amended by due Congressional method, that is a proposition the merits of which will be open for legislative debate and the expression of popular opinion through the people's representatives in Congress.

But while the law is upon the statute book, and the law contains no exemption, does it not irresistibly occur to you that to limit the operation and application of the law by the subterfuge of a restrictive prohibition through the medium of an appropriation is dangerously near, at least, implied nullification? Do you not see the indefensible character of this exemptive provision, and how utterly at variance such method is to our orderly procedure for the administration of our public laws?

A Book about Pianos FREE

Will you accept, with our compliments, the most interesting and instructive booklet ever written on how to judge a piano? ¶It is so easy to be fooled about a piano. ¶The case is all you can see—yet it is the least important part. ¶It's the pith—the inside, that really counts; and that is why we have named this new book "The Pith of the Piano Problem." Written in a clear, simple, non-technical way, "The Pith of the Piano Problem" tells you how to avoid the pitfalls as well as how to find out the good points of a piano. ¶ Anyone can understand it, and apply the simple rules set forth—no matter how little he or she may know about music—and it is equally helpful to the expert musician. ¶ Your copy of "The Pith of the Piano Problem" will be mailed gratis. Write today—a postal will do. Address Department B.
